PRESIDENT TRIES TO SPEED CODES FOR INDUSTRIES

Wages, Hours Cause of Debates.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—American key industries whose leaders do not promptly submit codes of "fair competition" to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson will have wage rates and working hours fixed for them arbitrarily under a plan discussed today by the industrial administrator.

These enforced rates would apply until the industries present their codes. Gen. Johnson said, as he made it plain that he is anxious to get the principal industrial groups under federal control as quickly as possible.

Seeks Reasonable Rule.

He did not volunteer the details of this plan which were drawn out of him during a conference with newspaper men. When questioned about the plan he referred to it as "an inchoate thought," humoring his penchant for words of infrequent usage. Then, a moment later, in somewhat less erudite vein, he said:

"It's half baked stuff. We've been considering the possibility of arriving at a rule reasonably fair—maybe three rules—applying to different types of industry, and then asking the whole country to adopt them."

A reporter, making an observation that "most of the stuff around here seems to be half baked," drew from Administrator Johnson a retort that, considering the speed with which work was proceeding, "it has to be that way." The general's press conferences are rather free-for-all in such exchanges, and he is good natured about it.

But from Gen. Johnson's own statements, and from various other sources, the full extent of his proposed plan was learned.

Productive of Some Clashes.

The plan was submitted in detail yesterday to the advisory groups of leading citizens representing industry, labor and consumers, and it provoked considerable discussion and some disagreement, with the representatives of industry willing to go along, if wages and hours were pegged attractively to them, and the delegates of labor protesting they wanted high wages and short hours. Some expressed hopes of getting together; other pronounced the plan "hopelessly unworkable."

In essence, as revealed to THE TRIBUNE, the plan is as follows:

The administration's statistical expert, Dr. Alexander Sachs, has prepared a setup codifying various leading industries according to a number of conditions. They have been rated according to wage scales existing in various years, chiefly the boom year of 1929, and charts have been prepared showing how far cuts in working hours must be made to restore a mass of employment equal to predepression days.

With these data Dr. Sachs has shown conclusions as to how much each industry ought to pay in minimum wages, how many employés it ought to absorb from the army of idle, and how many hours those employés ought to work every week.

Seek Voluntary Code Making.

Gen. Johnson and the President have been eager that the industries should come in voluntarily, presenting codes which would be in line with Dr. Sachs' figures, but they have not come in. Repeated high pressure talks from Gen. Johnson have failed to shake all of the key trades, and yesterday the decision was made that a big stick must be swung over the reluctant industries whose leaders are averse to going under the control of the federal government.

So the plan was devised, the "half baked" plan as Gen. Johnson calls it, to give these industries so many days to present voluntary codes. If they still hold back, Gen. Johnson openly stated today he would set a date for an arbitrary hearing.

Under the plans being considered, this hearing would be as snappy as Gen. Johnson's snappy nature could make it. Dr. Sachs would present his figures, the industrial and labor representatives in the group would be heard in opposition or approval, and then the administrator would announce a code in whatever terms he decided to fix, subject, of course, to the approval of President Roosevelt.

For Tentative Code.

The arbitrary or emergency code would then remain in force until the leaders of the industry got together

OKLAHOMA, DRY BY NATURE, WET BY 2 TO 1 VOTE

Alfalfa Bill Calls Out Militia.

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 11.—[Special.]—Oklahoma, born in drought and reared in aridity, today voted practically 2 to 1 to legalize 3.2 beer.

Then the citizens quit the polls and began a "sooner" rush to slake their thirst. They galloped toward cars of beer waiting in the railroad yard as their predecessors rushed across prairie and river in 1889 to claim land when the federal government opened Indian territory to white settlers.

Guard Trains of Beer.

But Gov. William H. Murray [Alfalfa Bill] decided the thirsty should wait a while. He declared martial law in certain areas and put troops around the sixty carloads of beer waiting in the railroad yards here for distribution.

The governor declared he would not permit the cars to be opened until he issues a proclamation that beer has been legalized. He declined to say when he would issue the proclamation.

The attorney general, J. Berry King, political foe of the governor, ruled that beer became legal in the state tonight.

Await "Legal Steps."

Fifty national guardsmen were rushed to the yards by Adj. Gen. Charles F. Barrett to guard the cars. The guardsmen will prevent unloading of any of the beer, the adjutant general said, "before legal steps are taken to permit its unloading and sale in Oklahoma."

"It is to prevent them from making a joke of the law," the adjutant general said.

Another shipment of 41 cars of beer, sent by the United States Brewing company of Chicago, is waiting on the Missouri-Oklahoma border ready to be rushed in.

How the State Voted.

The latest returns from today's referendum, carrying the vote from 2,482 out of 3,313 precincts in the state, showed:

For beer	188,765
Against beer	107,387

The northeastern counties voted heavily for beer. Ottawa, Washington, and Tulsa counties piled up substantial beer majorities. Ottawa county gave beer nearly a 4 to 1 verdict and Tulsa county was equally as decisive.

Oklahoma county said it wanted beer by a 3 to 1 vote, Muskogee county gave about the same decision, and Bryan, Carter, Canadian, Creek, Grady, Okmulgee, and Pittsburgh counties favored beer by heavy majorities.

Western Area Is Dry.

In the western area Harper, Washita, Alfalfa, Grant, Kiowa, Custer, and Woods counties apparently were in the dry column. Garfield county showed a close vote, with the result in doubt.

Jackson and Harmon counties, in the southwestern corner on the Texas line, were among those casting a negative vote. Jackson county, with its complete vote totaled, went dry, 2,744 to 1,932. Harmon county, incomplete, voted against beer by nearly 3 to 1.

A special session of the legislature now is considering a repeal measure, with indications of a vote on proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment being had late this year or early in 1934.

Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, has been making a personal campaign against beer, appearing in many cities almost up to the hour of the opening of the polls today.

REPEAL IS RATIFIED

Hartford, Conn., July 11.—[Special.]—Connecticut went on record today as the twelfth state to demand a "new deal" on prohibition.

Carrying out the mandate of the electorate given at the election of June 20, the state repeal convention unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The vote was recorded to the plaudits of the 50 delegates—both men and women—and an enthusiastic gallery within 40 minutes after the gathering had been called to order.

Speakers at the convention made much of the fact that Connecticut was one of the two states which never ratified the amendment now widely believed to be on the way to the scrap heap.

GUARD FAIR BLDG. AFTER RUMOR OF A ROBBERY PLOT

Twenty-five World's Fair policemen, all armed, were placed on special guard at the Administration building last night, following rumors of a contemplated robbery raid there. Approximately $80,000 is kept in the building.

The guard was ordered posted by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of A Century of Progress, after he had been informed of the rumors by R. I. Randolph.

The guards will be continued every day and every night to the end of the Fair, Maj. Lohr said. Special precautions are being taken at the 14th street entrance, nearest to the Administration building, and to the northeast entrance of the building itself. This entrance leads to the bank. Three spotlights were played on this area last night and visitors were kept 50 feet away by police.

Maj. Lohr said that most of the paper money taken in at the Fair is sent to loop banks by trucks hourly, and that the money in the Administration building is mostly in metal, which, he said, weighs 60 pounds to $1,000.

ENRAGED WHALE SLAPS SCHOONER; CREW IS SAVED

POPE'S HARBOR, N. S., July 11.—(AP)—Capt. Howard Daye and the crew of the fishing schooner Evelyn M. Young were safe in port tonight after a thrilling encounter with an enraged whale off the Nova Scotia coast.

The little vessel was hove to 11 miles off Pope's Harbor when a 50 foot whale broke the surface close by. Late at night the crew heard the huge mammal moving. The sound was followed closely by a violent jerking of the anchor cable as the whale's body fouled it. The schooner's bow dipped alarmingly and then rose again with a rush as the cable parted.

As it snapped, the whale's tail slapped against the bow with a crash and the vessel shivered under the blow. Dishes slid from the tables and stove as it careened to one side. The blow had sprung the schooner's seams and water began to enter the hold. Capt. Daye turned the Young for Pope's Harbor and made port before morning. The vessel was in a sinking condition and had to be grounded.

Milwaukee Official Shoots Deputy, Self

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 11.—[Special.]—City Controller Louis M. Kotecki this afternoon shot and wounded Deputy Controller William H. Wendt, his close associate for twenty years, in Wendt's office in the city hall. He then fired into his own head, inflicting a wound which it is believed will be fatal.

The two men had been alone more than a half hour when fifteen city employés and several officials, in an outer office, heard a shot. A few seconds later Wendt, with blood streaming from a bullet hole in his left cheek, staggered out, crying:

"I've been shot."

City officials and employés heard another shot and found Kotecki unconscious.

Tells Story of Shooting.

Later at a hospital, where his son gave blood for a transfusion, Wendt told what had happened in the office.

"Kotecki, who hadn't appeared for several days, came in this afternoon," he said. "I kept busy at my work and we had no conversation. After a while I glanced up and saw him standing at the door of his own private office, which adjoins mine. He looked nervous; altogether he had a terrible appearance.

"I glanced away, not wishing to embarrass him. Then I felt a sting on my cheek. My deafness prevented me hearing a shot. I only knew I was wounded and ran out of the office. I have no idea why he shot me. We were not unfriendly."

Wendt had been a witness in a case in which Kotecki had been indicted on charges of malfeasance in office. Two others were indicted, City Treasurer John I. Drew and Isaac Rosenberg, head of the closed Liberty State bank, from whom the city purchased millions of dollars' worth of bonds.

Calls Kotecki's Health Broken.

On June 7 Kotecki appeared in court to answer to a civil suit that had been filed against him, but a physician was placed on the witness stand and asserted Kotecki was suffering from impaired hearing and loss of memory and was in a "state of physical and mental lethargy."

Kotecki was believed to have suffered large personal financial losses.

Nevertheless, the work of his office went on, Wendt being given credit for that and for a plan which, it is hoped, will enable Milwaukee to get out of its morass of financial troubles, into which it finally followed most of the cities of the country.

Both men were members of the nonpartisan, or anti-Socialist group. However, Kotecki last November joined Mayor Hoan in an attempt to defeat the referendum proposition supported by the taxpayers' alliance. The proposition was carried by 91,000 votes.

It limited the total budget exclusive of schools and public debt payments to $17,000,000 and provided that the tax levy for purposes other than schools, fire, police, and debt payments should not exceed $2,000,000. The severe cuts made the tax rates in the city $3.56 lower than they were a year ago.

It was the contention of the mayor and controller that the limitations imposed would tend to destroy municipal credit.

Because of their stand the taxpayers' group as late as Saturday hinted both should be ousted from office.

Wendt, on the other hand, has always been an advocate of governmental economy and has urged reduction in taxes.

Balbo Leaves Iceland on Hop of 1,500 Miles

BULLETIN.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 12 (Wednesday). —(AP)— The twenty-four Italian seaplanes, led by Gen. Italo Balbo and bound for A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, took off at 6 a. m. today (2 a. m. Chicago daylight time) on the 1,500 mile hop to Cartwright, Labrador.

BY AXEL THORSTEINSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 11.—The postponement early this morning of the resumption of the Italian mass flight, en route from Orbetello, Italy, to A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, came as a puzzling surprise.

Several attempts were made by the 24 seaplanes under the command of Gen. Italo Balbo, minister of aviation, to take off on the next leg of their flight to Sandwich bay, Labrador, but they failed.

Too Calm to Take Off.

Only the planes in the leading group of the armada attempted to leave the waters of the bay. Because there was absolutely no wind, Gen. Balbo decided that conditions were too risky, as each plane was carrying a heavy load of gasoline and he is counting upon a tail wind to help the ships on their long journey.

Investigation showed there were no impurities in the gasoline which was taken aboard the planes here.

A large crowd had gathered to witness the departure. The weather was reported favorable with a northeasterly wind to assist the flyers as far as Greenland. The excellent flying conditions would perhaps have enabled them to complete the 1,500 mile hop in fast time.

Gen. Balbo ordered the flyers to rest until 1 a. m. At that time the crews manned the giant seaplanes, but the air minister did not appear until several hours later.

Planes Towed to Moorings.

Eventually the signal was given to start and the propellers were swung for the takeoff. The motors sputtered and roared. The spectators and aviators waved good-bys, and the ships began taxiing over the bay, but after repeated attempts were unable to attain sufficient speed to leave the water.

Finally Gen. Balbo ordered a halt. Motor boats towed the planes to their moorings and the crews and pilots returned to their hotel.

To Pick Up Mattern.

MOSCOW, July 11. — (AP) — The Northern Sea Route, civilian organization in charge of aviation in the northern region, today instructed Pilot Levanovsky to pick up Jimmie Mattern, American aviator, at Anadyr, Siberia, and take him to Nome, Alaska. From Nome it was understood he will continue his solo flight around the world to New York in an American plane.

Mattern is awaiting transportation at Anadyr, which he reached after 15 days of hardship following the crash of his plane, A Century of Progress, while attempting to fly from Khabarovsk, Siberia, to Nome June 14.

The Northern Sea Route issued the order on the request of Mattern's backers in New York, who pointed out that available information was that the American's plane was too badly damaged to permit repairs. Levanovsky, who had been ordered to leave Khabarovsk Sunday for Anadyr, was held up there by bad weather. He was scheduled to take off today, but no report was received here whether he had actually made a start. Advices from Khabarovsk tonight quoted Levanovsky as saying that he expected to reach Anadyr Friday evening and that a flight from there to Nome would require 24 hours.

CHEMISTS FIND POLAR BEAR DIED OF SLOW POISON

Jake, the prize polar bear of Lincoln park, died from the effects of a mysterious, slow poison, according to a report received from the Columbus laboratories yesterday by Floyd S. Young, zoo director. Mr. Young said that the poison was either metallic or vegetable and probably came from the variety of truck thrown into the pen. Nellie, the mate, has started her third week of a hunger strike since the death of Jake.

FEAR KIDNAPING SHOCK MAY KILL ALTON BANKER

Kin Wait in Vain for Ransom Demand.

Latest on Kidnapings

At three o'clock this morning dispatches from Albany, N. Y., said that contact had been established with the abductors of John J. O'Connell Jr., nephew of Edward J. O'Connell, political leader. Story on page 2.

New kidnaping scare develops in family of missing Jake Factor. His 7 year old son is guarded against abduction. Factor's family is reported to have received his ring in second note demanding ransom. Details on page 2.

Gus Rotsch, former Alton police chief; Gerald Gould, ex-deputy sheriff, and Laurence Keller, bank teller, returned to the August Luer residence in Alton at 3 o'clock this morning after a three hour mystery trip in which, it was believed, they reached or attempted to reach Luer's kidnapers. They denied this, however.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Alton, Ill., July 11.—[Special.]—Sheriffs of five counties and a squad of twenty-five state police were searching the Illinois river bottoms for fifty miles between Grafton and Beardstown, Ill., tonight for the kidnapers of August Luer, Alton packer-capitalist and the town's leading citizen.

With more than a hundred men in posses poking into the numerous shacks and cottages along the river, exploring every lighted window, members of the Luer family affirmed they had as yet received no demand for the ransom of their 78 year old father.

Luer was seized in his home here last night and dragged away in a fast black sedan while several neighbors were hurrying to the home in response to his wife's screams.

Mayor Directs Search.

The search was in charge of the Alton mayor, Thomas Butler, and the police chief, James F. Hart, assisted by the Madison county sheriff, Peter Fitzgerald of Edwardsville. Sheriffs of Jersey, Greene, Macoupin and Calhoun counties had their deputies participating.

The aged captive's three sons and two daughters, meanwhile, were deeply concerned lest their father may die before they can establish contact and raise the ransom they are willing to pay.

The youngest son, Carl, 41 years old, executive of the Luer Packing company and the Alton Bank and Trust company, institutions controlled by the Luer family, said his father had suffered such severe heart attacks in the last few months that he could not stand fast motoring and at times had scarce enough strength to cross a street alone.

Await Ransom Message.

Carl and other sons and sons-in-law, all connected either with the bank, the packing company or with the Mineral Springs hotel, which the family also owns, stayed each at his respective post all day awaiting the ransom call or letter which did not come.

The two married daughters remained at the Luer home, attending their 75 year old mother, who, alone in the home with her husband when the kidnapers arrived, was knocked down three times and suffered a lacerated scalp in a valiant struggle to help the enfeebled banker.

The two men and the young well dressed woman, who entered the home by the woman's ruse, had left no word with her as to how or when a ransom demand might be expected, Mrs. Luer said. The principal concern of herself and the Luer children, she said, was whether "papa," as they call the captive, had with him any of the nitroglycerin compound he used to stimulate his weakened heart during his frequent attacks.

Seek Trail at Pharmacies.

It was on the theory that Luer might have told his captors of his precarious health and induced them to stop at a village pharmacy for a prescription that Chief Hart first concentrated the search in nearby towns.

Among the places raided in the early morning hours without result were two lighted cottages near Neubern, in one of which a woman was found in childbirth, while the second housed a farmhand saying his morning prayers by candle light before starting to work.

Resorts in the adjacent Jersey and Macoupin counties having been pretty thoroughly searched by noon, the hunt spread out to the junction of the Illinois and Mississippi rivers at Grafton, and thence north towards Beardstown.

Seen by Neighbor.

Suspicion was directed to the river country of the north rather than to the gang lairs south around St. Louis, Chief Hart said, because of a report turned in five hours after the abduction by one of Luer's neighbors, Will Penning, Alton real estate man.

Penning said he was driving south towards Alton last night about 9:30 p. m. when he met and passed a speeding black sedan, in the back of which sat an elderly man with a broad, florid face and wide mustache, whom he was sure he recognized as Luer.

He was a bit surprised, Penning said, to observe a bandage around his neighbor's head and to see two strangers riding with Luer, but gave the incident no further thought until he heard reports of the outrage from his neighbors some hours later. Thereupon he reported what he had seen to Chief Hart.

Highly Regarded by City.

Indignation is rising hourly in the town as the kidnapers keep their silence. Luer, a man esteemed by all, seems to be regarded here as a paragon of the civic virtues, having served on the school board and city council, kept three hundred workers employed in the packing plant and hotel throughout the depression, and brought his bank through the financial crisis by substituting his own cash for whatever frozen assets the institution carried.

An event in Luer's financial life a year ago, widely publicized at the time as an instance of rare integrity, may have attracted the kidnapers to the Alton capitalist as a likely subject for ransom, his friends believe.

One of his sons-in-law, M. E. Turner, had organized a chemical concern called the Barium Products company, and the people of the town, aware that Luer was a backer of the enterprise, had bought its bonds for investment.

Buys Back Bonds at Par.

The concern failed to prosper. When, finally, it was shoved into bankruptcy, the bondholders sought support from Luer, and not in vain. He announced that, regardless of the corporate laws limiting his liability, he, personally, would buy back the bonds at par, and did.

His action was rewarded later, however, when at the apex of the financial crisis last winter he took his stand on the doorstep of his own institution and proclaimed to the panicky line of depositors that the Alton Bank and Trust company would pay every depositor in full, if they showed patience. Showing more than patience, the depositors showed confidence, and dispersed to their homes, leaving the bank to carry on.

It was the memory of such uprightness as this, apparently, that inspired the Alton city council, in meeting last night when news of the kidnaping came, to vote a $250 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of abductors. This move was seconded today by the Alton Evening Telegraph, which started a fund to increase the reward to ten times that sum.

FACTOR'S SECOND SON, 7, GUARDED FROM KIDNAPERS

Fear Boy Also Is Target of Abduction Plot.

Another kidnaping scare developed yesterday in the family circle of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, who has supposedly been in the hands of abductors since July 1. This time it was suspected that Factor's second son, Alvin, 7 years old, was the proposed victim.

The Chicago police heard of the suspicion from Sheriff Lester Eddinger of McHenry county, who asked that an escort be sent to meet him and the boy at Dempster street and the North Shore Channel road, just west of Evanston. A squad under Sergt. Edward Galvin kept the appointment and escorted Alvin to the home of his mother in the Pearson hotel.

Mystery Phone Call Received.

It was explained that the boy had been a guest at the home of Frank Hayes, a broker and a close friend of Factor, at Crystal Lake. Mrs. Hayes received a mysterious telephone call and later saw two strangers about the place. Feeling that she no longer wanted the responsibility if a new kidnaping plot was forming, Mrs. Hayes asked Sheriff Eddinger to conduct the boy and the Factor family chauffeur to the city.

Both the police and federal officials yesterday swung again to a theory that the elder Factor's family and associates have received authentic demands for his ransom; this in face of British government attorneys' characterization of the abduction as a hoax. Great Britain is trying to extradite Factor and force him to trial there on charges that he swindled British investors of $7,000,000.

Report New Ransom Demand.

The latest of these supposed demands was reported to have been received on Monday by Factor's wife at the Pearson hotel in the form of a letter. In the envelope, it was said, were a sapphire ring, said to have been worn by Factor when he disappeared, and statements relating to his brokerage account with Stein, Alstrin & Co.

Factor's family and friends denied receipt of a ring. His secretary, Leon Bleet, further denied that any word at all had been heard from the kidnapers. Reports persisted, however, especially as to the reputed brokerage statements. The data in them could have been supplied only by Factor, these reports stated, thus indicating that he is still alive and a captive.

The ransom demand reputedly contained in this latest message was $200,000, a $50,000 drop from the first supposed demand received, according to reports, two days after the kidnaping.

U. S. Agents Still on Watch.

Although they discount the theory that Factor is seeking to escape to Mexico, Honduras or some other supposed place of immunity from extradition, agents of the United States bureau of investigation were still taking precautions against such a possibility because of the representations of the British government.

A high official of the United States government, who could not be quoted for reasons of diplomacy, said that it seemed incredible that Factor would seek to escape when his case has not been disposed of by the United States Supreme court.

Federal investigators learned that Ald. Jacob M. Arvey, member of the Factor "board of strategy," had applied for and received rogues gallery photographs of Erwin Weidrick, Rochester, N. Y., and Alexander T. Hurd, Nashville, Tenn., both ex-convicts. What use the alderman plans to make of these pictures was not disclosed, but they presumably will be shown to Attorney Al Epstein, who was with Factor when he was dragged from an automobile near The Dells, a Morton Grove roadhouse. Ald. Arvey insisted that Factor had been kidnaped and expressed the belief that he was being held near Chicago by "a powerful gang."

INDICT MAN AND BOY FOR KIDNAPING HEAD OF ATLANTA, GA., BANK

Atlanta, Ga., July 11.—(AP)—A 17 year old schoolboy and his fugitive companion were indicted today by the Fulton county [Atlanta] grand jury for the kidnaping and robbery of John K. Ottley, president of the First National bank.

Pryor Bowen, the boy, has been in custody since he and the banker made their way several days ago to a Suwanee, Ga., store and informed authorities by telephone of the kidnaping. Ottley was unharmed and was held only a few hours before he obtained his release with the aid of Bowen. Solicitor General John A. Boykin set the youth's bond at $10,000.

The indictment named the missing man as "Grover Collins." Boykin, however, said he had no definite information as to the real identity of the man.

Bowen and "Collins" were jointly indicted on the kidnaping charge. The robbery indictment charged the two with having taken $10 and the banker's platinum rimmed spectacles while he was in their custody.

JAILS TWO RELIEF RECIPIENTS WHO ATTACK WOMEN

Two men receiving relief for the idle were sent to the Bridewell yesterday to work out fines imposed by Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson after women relief investigators testified that the men had attacked them.

Mrs. M. E. Wolgast, a worker assigned to the station at 1148 West Chicago avenue, testified that Ira DeMars, 29 years old, 1526 McHenry street, struck her several times. They had been arguing over a basket of groceries which he said was due him. He was fined $50.

Mrs. Catherine Steward, an investigator from the same relief station, testified that Michael Frye, 54 years old, 1532 McHenry street, attacked her with a knife and was only prevented from injuring her by the intervention of his wife. She went to the home to investigate a report that Frye's daughter was spending money lavishly while her parents were receiving relief. Frye was fined $100.

Judge Erickson expressed indignation when both women asked him to deal leniently with the prisoners.

"Jail is too good for these fellows," he said. "I don't know why you want me to be lenient."

James P. Boyle Appointed to Board of Improvements

James P. Boyle, member of the state house of representatives, was appointed to the city board of local improvements yesterday by Mayor Kelly. The appointment was immediately confirmed by the council. Mr. Boyle has been a member of the state legislature for twelve years, and in the last assembly was chairman of the house appropriations committee. He is engaged in the insurance business. The council adjourned yesterday until Oct. 4. It is expected, however, that special meetings may be called as matters of importance arise.

KIDNAPERS SEND NEW DEMAND TO ALBANY FAMILY

Ask and Get New List of Intermediaries.

Albany, N. Y., July 11.—[Special.]—After a three day silence the kidnapers of young John J. O'Connell Jr., nephew of the two Democratic bosses of upstate New York, again got in touch with the family today through a letter ordering it to submit a new list of eleven men to act as intermediaries in the negotiations for $250,000 ransom. The first list of eleven men, published in a simple code in an Albany newspaper on Sunday, was declared unacceptable.

Daniel P. O'Connell, uncle of the 24 year old Albany young man, found the letter in his box at the postoffice. It was printed in block letters, in ink. It said that John Jr. is safe, renewed the demand for a quarter of a million dollars ransom, and demanded a new list of go-betweens.

Daniel and Edward J. O'Connell, the boy's uncles, immediately drew up a new list that was inserted in the Albany Times-Union this afternoon by Walter V. Johnson, the Democratic leader of Rensselaer, across the river from this city.

Includes Friends of Family.

The new list contained names of men known as friends of the O'Connell family. They are:

Dave Hotaling, B. G. Parry, Bill Bardeen, Paul Carroll, Rock Tarzio, Eddie Gorman, Pat Coffee, Mike Connelly, Joe Leone, Willis King, and Neil Ponzi.

All are less well known than the first selection. Most of them are active in sporting circles.

Today's letter was the first word from the kidnapers since Saturday morning, when a letter instructed Dan O'Connell to publish the list of intermediaries. John was kidnaped early Friday from in front of his home in Putnam street.

The police are working on information that the kidnaping was carried out by one of the most powerful gangs of bootleggers and beer distributors in prohibition days.

Suspect Political Revenge.

The family's own theory is that political revenge is behind the abduction, but the two beliefs are really not greatly opposed. The O'Connells are all powerful here and there are plenty of beer and liquor runners, slot machine gangs, and gamblers who have reason to resent their power. It might well be that a liquor gang carried out the kidnaping to force certain political concessions from the O'Connells or that they did it out of revenge for certain O'Connell policies.

Governor Lehman had taken a deep personal interest in the case. He telephoned to Edward O'Connell's law office today to inform the missing man's uncle that "every resource of the state has been placed in operation to run down the kidnapers.

"It is my determination," said the governor, "that this type of vicious criminality and racketeering shall be stamped out in New York state."

U. S. TO LEAD ALL POLICE AGENCIES AGAINST RACKETS

Chicago 1 of 3 Cities to Be Investigated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] announced today, after calling at the President's office and visiting Attorney General Cummings, that government agencies throughout the country are uniting in a drive on racketeering.

Research and mapping of lines of coöperation will be the first phase of the campaign, the senator, chairman of a special senate committee on crime, said.

Chicago will be one of three cities into which the government will probe immediately for crime data, the senator said. Senator Louis Murphy [Dem. Ia.], another member of the committee, already is in Chicago working up information, and the United States bureau of investigation agents there will be instructed to aid him.

New York and Detroit, Too.

Senator Copeland will carry on a similar investigation in New York and Senator Arthur Vandenberg [Rep. Mich.], the third member of the committee, will work in Detroit. The purpose of the inquiry will be to select those interstate aspects of crime which the federal government can most properly regulate.

Manufacture and transportation of guns will be one of the first tasks tackled by the committee, it was indicated. Copeland urged a program which would require all manufacturers of guns to be licensed, all guns numbered, all dealers licensed, and all purchasers examined for permits. Records of all sales should be kept and machine guns should not be sold to any one, he urged.

To clinch the identification of guns even if numbers are filed off, each manufacturer should be required to keep at least one bullet fired from each gun so that experts could link up all future bullets with that gun, he said.

Costs Nation Billions.

Former Police Commissioner Mulrooney of New York told him that 87 machine guns made in New York had been discovered in Chicago, Copeland said, declaring that traffic must be stamped out.

"There can be no doubt that racketeering has so increased that the American people are paying 10 or 12 or even 15 billion dollars a year in tribute to it," Copeland estimated. "The economic waste is four or five times the cost of government."

The senate committee, working on a $10,000 appropriation, has hired Col. Franklin S. Hutchinson of Rochester, N. Y., former director of the draft in New York and member of the army's intelligence bureau, as its executive officer. Meetings in New York and other cities will be held in the late summer and early autumn.

BROTHER OF FORMER MAYOR WALKER OF N. Y. LOSES CITY JOB

Albany, N. Y., July 11.—[Special.]—Dr. William H. Walker, brother of former Mayor James J. Walker, will not be able to continue as "medical consultant" to the New York City board of education the Court of Appeals determined today in affirming without opinion the findings of the court below.

The action, originally brought by Nelson S. Spencer, a taxpayer, was decided by the Appellate division against Dr. Walker's claim.

The Spencer action was based on the assertion that Dr. Walker was appointed without the approval of the state civil service commission and was illegally placed in the exempt class.

The challenge in the Spencer action was to the power of the board of education to create the position of medical consultant and to fill it without resort to competitive examination.

MURDER-SUICIDE IS VERDICT ON DOUBLE SLAYING

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of murder and suicide at the inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Vivian Officer, 19 years old, and her husband, Edward Officer, 26 years old.

Mrs. Officer was shot and killed by her husband, who then wounded his brother, Herbert, 30 years old, and fired a fatal bullet into his own head. The shootings occurred early yesterday in front of the Officer home at 3842 Washington boulevard. Mr. and Mrs. Officer died in the Garfield Park hospital. Herbert Officer is expected to recover.

John McKinlay Warned of Kidnaping; Blame Crank

An anonymous caller told a switchboard operator in the Merchandise Mart yesterday that John McKinlay, president of Marshall Field & Co., was to be kidnaped. Neither Mr. McKinlay nor his associates took the call seriously, ascribing it to some crank. "This is a tip. McKinlay is to be kidnaped today," said the caller.

COUNCIL BLOCKS FIVE CENT BEER WITH NEW LAW

License Merger Provision Is Stricken Out.

Action by the city council yesterday in increasing the license fees charged beer venders virtually knocked out Chicago's hope of 5 cent beer, restaurant men said. The action was taken within 24 hours after numerous restaurants in the city had started selling nickel beer to compete with the free lunch of beer taverns.

The council passed an amendment to the beer ordinance introduced by Ald. Terence F. Moren [16th], chairman of the license committee, striking out the provision which previously permitted the merger of licenses. Under this provision the business man wishing to sell beer paid only a single license fee, either that for his regular business or the $300 a year beer license, whichever is higher. Now he will have to pay both license fees.

Cabarets Also Affected.

The provision hits beer taverns and cabarets as well as restaurants. The former must buy licenses as food dispensers, since the state law requires them to sell food if they sell beer. Cabarets must buy beer, food dispensing, and public amusement licenses.

George Patris, president of the Restaurateurs of Illinois, the restaurant organization which has been offering 5 cent beer, said that the added burden would probably stifle the movement for 5 cent beer.

"We were making only a very slight profit on nickel steins, selling them to compete with free lunch," Patris said. "Now it looks like most restaurants can continue to sell 5 cent beer only at a loss and they can't afford such losses long."

Other Obstacles Charged.

Patris also charged that other obstacles have been placed in the way of 5 cent beer. Several breweries, he said, have warned restaurant owners that they will stop delivery of beer to them if they sell it for a nickel. Other restaurant owners, he charges, have been subjected to threats.

The windows of a restaurant at 5510 South Ashland avenue were smashed after the owner, Peter Magris, started selling nickel beer last week, while John Anagnost, 753 West North avenue, was threatened with a bombing, Patris said.

Ald. James J. Cusack [5th] renewed his fight yesterday on the council floor for a $25 class B beer license which would permit grocers and other merchants to sell beer for consumption at home. When Cusack offered this amendment to the beer ordinance a week ago it got five votes. Yesterday nine other aldermen joined him in supporting it. The proposal was referred to the license committee, which will consider it in drafting a permanent beer ordinance to replace the present temporary provisions on Jan. 1.

Seek More Daylight Saving.

At the request of World's Fair authorities, an amendment to the daylight saving ordinance was introduced, extending daylight saving time from the first Sunday of October to the first Sunday of November for this year only.

The council adopted a resolution by Ald. Toman, Dorsey R. Crowe [42d], and William V. Pacelli [20th], changing the name of 7th street to Balbo avenue in honor of the Italian flying chief who is on his way to Chicago. The street runs two blocks, from Michigan avenue to State street. Another resolution introduced by Ald. Pacelli was adopted, authorizing Mayor Kelly to declare a holiday called Balbo day.

The council approved Mayor Kelly's appointment of Anton Vanek, 2337 South Central Park avenue, to the library board. It also approved the appointment of P. G. Johnson, president, and W. A. Patterson, vice president of the United Air lines, and of William P. Sessions of the E. O. Sessions company to the Chicago aero commission. The appointment of Michael Konkelewski, 2123 South Fairfield avenue, to the board of examining engineers was also confirmed.

Suit Assails Restrictions of Evanston's Beer Law

A suit challenging the validity of the new Evanston beer ordinance was filed yesterday in the Superior court by five Evanston restaurant owners. The ordinance forbids the selling of draught beer, prohibits sale to persons under the age of 18 and does not allow beer drinking at hotels, restaurants, drug stores and beaches. The suit contends that the restrictions are oppressive and unreasonable and tend to create a monopoly.

METAL BEER KEG THREATENS OAK BARREL OF OLD

Brewers Turning to Steel, Aluminum.

The old wooden beer barrel is in danger of being superceded by metal containers—steel or aluminum, perhaps both. Wisconsin brewers are turning to steel barrels, according to information obtained yesterday in Milwaukee, and the manufacture of aluminum casks has been started in the east.

When beer returned to a parched country early in April, the brewing industry found itself with a shortage of wooden barrels of the kind which for centuries had been the containers of malt beverages. White oak, the wood used most for these casks, is grown in Arkansas and requires two years for drying. The supply on hand was not sufficient to meet requirements, so steel manufacturers began to experiment on metal barrels.

"Good as Wooden Kegs."

The steel men report that they have developed a barrel as satisfactory as the wooden ones and are lining them with a pitch preparation to make the inside coating similar to the white oak casks.

One company, the A. O. Smith corporation of Milwaukee, is making steel barrels at the rate of 6,500 a day. Brewers are turning to them rapidly, although most are still using wooden containers as well. The steel barrel can be purchased for about the same price as the wooden barrel.

Produce Aluminum Barrels.

Harold F. M. Goodwin, Milwaukee sales manager of the Aluminum Corporation of America, reported that his concern was producing 400 aluminum beer barrels a day at its New Kensington, Pa., plant, and was "making satisfactory progress in their distribution."

Fearing that metal containers might grow so popular that they would affect the business of Wisconsin cooperage houses, the advocates of wooden kegs presented an amendment to the beer bill in the Wisconsin legislature to ban the use of metal barrels. Milwaukee legislators protested that the steel companies were increasing employment by manufacturing metal barrels and the amendment was not adopted.

FLYING LINDBERGHS ARRIVE AT HALIFAX ON AERIAL SURVEY TRIP

HALIFAX, N. S., July 11.—(AP)—Bound north over the air trails, the flying Lindberghs halted tonight in this port.

A brisk southeast wind was blowing as the black barreled, red winged monoplane settled on its white pontoons and taxied to a mooring at the Royal Canadian air force base at the eastern passage.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife arrived at 5:50 p. m., Atlantic standard time [4:50 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time], two hours and 36 minutes after leaving North Haven, Me., their first stop on an aerial route survey trip to Greenland.

"It was a very nice trip," said the trans-Atlantic airman's petite wife and flying companion as small craft of every description clustered around their seaplane even before it was moored. She wore high boots, suede breeches and a buff sweater. Her dark hair was framed in a white flying helmet.

Neither would go into any details about their plans. They were expected to leave tomorrow for Newfoundland, or possibly for Cartwright, Labrador.

"Every one else seems to know more about this trip than we do," Col. Lindbergh said, laughing, as he came ashore. "As a matter of fact we have no definite schedule. I can't say for sure when we will take off, but we are spending the night here anyway."

The Lindbergh plane was guided to the eastern passage by two planes from the Halifax Aero club and one from the mounted police station. The takeoff from North Haven was not known to the general public here but the activities of the club planes indicated to them that the Lindberghs were expected.

ASK U. S. TO BUY $40,000,000 IN SCHOOL BONDS

Bill Authorizing Issue Is Signed by Governor.

Following the signing by Gov. Horner yesterday of the bill authorizing the sale of $40,000,000 worth of non-referendum bonds to pay all salaries and current bills of the school board for this year, James B. McCahey, president of the board, disclosed that Mayor Kelly will make an effort to sell the bonds to the federal government when he goes to Washington this week.

The school board will adopt a resolution setting up the machinery for the sale of the bonds, probably at a meeting next week. The adoption of a concurring ordinance by the city council also is required before the bonds will actually be ready for sale.

The bond program would increase the working cash fund of the school board, which was set up by a $25,000,000 bond issue in 1930. The new bonds, issued in $1,000 denominations, will bear 5 per cent, maturing annually until 1953. The first maturity date is Jan. 1, 1936.

Aim Toward Cash Basis.

Should tax collections become normal, according to Mr. McCahey, the money received from the sale of the bonds will pave the road for the school board to return to a cash basis for the first time since 1916. Another argument for the issue is that the bonds will bear 5 per cent, while the tax anticipation warrants, which have been used to finance operation of the schools, bear 6 per cent.

Gov. Horner yesterday signed another bill looking toward placing the board on a cash basis. This was senate bill 687, which provides for the issuance of bonds to refund tax warrants that have been long outstanding due to the failure to collect taxes.

In 1928 and 1929 the board issued tax warrants up to the legal limit of 75 per cent of the tax levies. The reappraisal reduced the assessed value of property to such an extent that the taxes collected, in all probability, will not be sufficient to meet the outstanding principal and accrued interest on the warrants. The outstanding warrants greatly impair the credit of the board and reduce the marketability of warrants for other years.

Economy Program Up Today.

When the school trustees meet today they will discuss an economy program aimed to cut a $6,000,000 deficit in the educational fund. The special economy committee of the board, headed by President McCahey, will hold a secret meeting this forenoon to work out the final details. The contemplated reductions have not been made public, since the trustees want to sidestep a storm of opposition from special interests in the school system.

"I want to save between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000 out of the educational fund," said Mr. McCahey. "I don't see how we can get more than that at this time of the fiscal year. The rest of the deficit will probably be carried over into 1934."

The board will also trim expenditures in the building fund to the extent of $4,049,843 if it follows the recommendations prepared by Howard P. Savage, business manager of the system.

Wait Legal Opinion to Decide Policy on Cab Overcharges

Police Commissioner Allman said last night that no action would be taken against Yellow taxicab drivers who have been ordered by the company to charge higher rates than is allowed by the new city ordinance until he has received a legal opinion from Corporation Counsel Sexton as to possible courses of action.

The Yellow Cab company yesterday filed a petition for an injunction in the federal court to restrain the city from enforcing the ordinance, which became effective yesterday. Hearing on the injunction was continued to today before Federal Judge Wilkerson. Attorney Howard Ellis of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, who filed the bill, said that it would be impossible for the cab company to obey the ordinance, which sets a maximum rate of 20 cents for the first half mile and 10 cents for each succeeding half mile. The Yellow Cab company now charges 20 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for each half mile thereafter.

Proposes 15 and 5 Rate.

Ald. Edwin F. Meyer [45th] introduced in the city council yesterday afternoon a resolution to reduce the maximum fare for taxicabs from 20 cents for the first half mile and 10 cents for each half mile thereafter, to 15 cents for the first third mile and 5 cents for each third mile thereafter. The resolution was referred to the committee on local transportation.

The council adopted a resolution, introduced by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the local transportation committee, instructing that committee to investigate charges that expressmen and carters are charging rates for hauling baggage in excess of those permitted by city ordinance.

Engineers Making Survey.

Mayor Kelly said that the public vehicle commission, composed of Commissioner Allman, Corporation Counsel Sexton, and Controller Robert B. Upham, has two engineers investigating the taxicab situation to determine fair rates. The engineers are W. W. Deberard, western editor of the Engineering News Record, and B. J. Curtis, an engineer at the sanitary district.

Jeffrey A. O'Connor, commissioner of public service, announced that he has two men inspecting meters of Checker taxicabs to determine whether the public is getting the benefit of the reduced rates.

Surrender on Plot Charge.

Henry Jacobson, a road superintendent for the Yellow Cab company, and Archie Waldron, a driver, yesterday surrendered at the detective bureau on charges of conspiracy to commit malicious mischief. They are co-defendants with Thomas Hogan, company president, on the charge of a Checker cab driver that Waldron deliberately drove into his machine.

Jacobson and Waldron each posted $10,000 bonds and were released after it was found they had no records. They will be arraigned with Hogan before Judge Thomas A. Green in the Traffic court today.

BEER EXCEEDS ALCOHOL LIMIT, MAKERS TOLD

Contains 3.3 to 4.19%, Expert Asserts.

Most of the beer sold to the public as a brew of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content is actually 3.3 and 3.5 per cent alcohol. Some of it is as high as 4.19 per cent alcohol. These statements—welcome to the beer drinkers of the country but unpopular with brewers—were made by Arnold S. Wahl, director of the Wahl Institute of Brewing, to a gathering of 200 members of the Brewmasters' Association of America at the Germania club last evening.

Director Wahl explained to the brewmasters that he has perfected a new and scientifically precise method of testing the alcoholic content of beer. All his tests, he said, were made on beers "purchased in the open market." His tests, Director Wahl stated, were much more accurate than those used by government chemists, whose analysis results were usually one-half of 1 per cent less than the actual alcoholic content of the tested beverage.

Protests Heard in Audience.

The disclosure was accepted sullenly by the assemblage. From here and there across an expansive shirtfront came the whispered question: "Why doesn't he let things alone? The government chemists are not kicking and people have been saying that 3.2 per cent beer is weak anyhow."

No one in the audience demanded to know the names of the brews which exceeded the alcoholic percentage fixed as the legal limit by congress, and Director Wahl said he would not name the brands he had in mind.

"I have concluded that those many brewers who make beer with alcoholic contents as high as 3.33 and 4.19 per cent are knowingly producing this higher percentage of alcohol and are doing so in order to produce a more normal beer than could be produced with the limited amount of alcohol designated by law," said Director Wahl.

Warns of Attacks on Industry.

"If the enemies of the brewing industry should become aware, as they will no doubt in time, of this alcoholic situation in some beers, they will again use their old time methods to decry the brewers. Brewers should be warned generally of the dangers they are in by accepting the results of old analyses of alcoholic contents of their beer as indisputably correct."

ROOSEVELT'S NEW SUPER-CABINET HOLDS MEETING

20 Will Act as Advisers to President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—A super-cabinet was created today by President Roosevelt in an attempt to coördinate the multitude of new functions and new bureaucracies created since March 4.

Calling itself the "executive council," the new body held its first meeting at the White House this afternoon, there to make a beginning at the job of trying to correlate and find a common denominator for the host of executive enterprises set in motion by the President.

The personnel of the council includes the following:

The President and his cabinet; the director of the budget, Lewis W. Douglas; the federal relief administrator, Harry L. Hopkins; the chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Jessie H. Jones; the governor of the farm credit administration, Henry Morgenthau Jr.; the chairman of the board of the Home Owners' Farm corporation, William F. Stevenson; the administrator of the industrial recovery act, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson; the administrator of agricultural adjustment, George Peek; the chairman of the board of the Tennessee valley authority, Arthur E. Morgan; the federal railroad coördinator, Joseph B. Eastman, and the director of the civilian conservation corps, Robert Fechner.

Out of the 20 members of the council above listed, eight officers are new Roosevelt creations. With the secretary of the interior, who doubles as public works administrator, nine new enterprises are represented. And with the chairman of the Hoover created Reconstruction Finance corporation, the executive council table must find seats for 1 0officials whose jobs have been created during the last 18 months.

Overshadow Cabinet Heads.

The meeting of the new body marks the first official recognition of the fact that these 10 "depression officials" have come largely to outshadow the heads of the regular departments. It is around them that the newspaper men flock when a conference breaks up, while the cabinet officers are allowed to scurry off unquestioned and sometimes slightly miffed.

At least during the summer and probably thereafter, the regular Tuesday cabinet meeting is to be superseded by a meeting of the council. As secretary of the council, the President announced the appointment of Frank C. Walker, treasurer of the National Democratic committee. His appointment lent a political flavor to the first meeting, since Mr. Walker was one of the early Roosevelt supporters and was treasurer of the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign. He is to set up offices in the treasury department, in order, in the words of a White House announcement, "to provide for the orderly presentation of business and to coördinate interagency problems between the various departments and agencies."

Two Robins Attack Child; Inflict Wounds on Head

Anderson, Ind., July 11.—[Special.] Johnny Harper, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Harper, Frankton, has his head in bandages as a result of an attack by two robins. The birds inflicted serious scalp wounds when Johnny picked up a young robin.

PRESIDENT TRIES TO SPEED CODES FOR INDUSTRIES

Wages, Hours Stir Up Debates.

and prepared a voluntary code for submission to the administration.

The threat of the President's big stick was believed to be serving its purpose today, as one code, for the lumber industry, was received and as promises of submission tomorrow of the all important steel code were made.

The steel code, which will, if approved, put vast properties all over the country under fixed wage and working hour scales, is said by Gen. Johnson to have the approval of 90 to 95 per cent of the steel industry.

Provision is made in the code for the administration to have "advisory representatives" on the committee.

Opposes Lumber Code.

The lumber code pegged wages so low, and working hours so long, as to provoke Gen. Johnson to say: "They are wholly unacceptable and will, in no case, be approved."

But he set the code for public hearing on July 20, expressing the belief that "provisions more in accord with announced policies of the administration may develop in the proceeding."

In submitting the code, John D. Tennant, representing the lumber men, declared it would result in "a substantial increase" in the number of employés, and that it would increase pay rolls by more than $10,000,000 in the month of August alone.

Provides Elastic Scale.

The code establishes a wide range of working hour and minimum wage limitations among the various divisions of the lumber industry all over the country. With only a few exceptions the working hours are limited to 48 per week, with the shortest week fixed at 40 hours. The wages fluctuate in the various divisions, the lowest being 22½ cents an hour, or $10.80 for a 48 hour week, and the highest being 42½ cents an hour, or $20.40 for a 48 hour week.

The most extraordinary thing about the lumber code is that it would set up "an emergency national committee," to be appointed by the 27 associations applying for the code, which would have the strongest of autocratic power, to the point of exerting absolute control over the entire industry.

This committee could limit production, fix quotas in the various lumber districts, fix minimum prices, fix prices for imported lumber, regulate trade practices, require all units of the industry to submit detailed data on all phases of their business, and levy upon the members of the industry for the cost of maintaining the committee's activities.

Fear for Little Fellows.

It was pointed out to Gen. Johnson this evening that the President's aim of protecting the small manufacturers might be threatened by giving such complete control into the hands of a majority of the industry, but the general contended that the administration's members on the committee would protect the interests of the "little fellows."

Gen. Johnson, at his press conference, said he expected to summon the many quarreling factions of the coal industry to his office within a few days to set a hearing on a number of codes which are either drafted or nearing completion.

The general was asked if the President had the power to write arbitrary codes without a hearing.

"He has not!" Johnson said emphatically.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 83; recovered, 72; stripped, 21 [from police records for the last twenty-four hours ending at midnight Monday].

VOTES TO SPEND BIG SLICE OF U. S. RECOVERY FUND

Advisory Board Submits Plans to Roosevelt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Approval for the expenditure for a third huge slice of the 3 billions 300 millions of easy money provided by the Roosevelt public works program was voted today by the special board advisory to the public works administration.

Some 250 millions is to be spent on federal projects for which the ten departments of the government and some sixty bureaus and commissions made application.

Following the action of the board, the list of projects was transmitted to the President, by whom the various items still must be approved. Publication of the list is expected tomorrow or the next day. Secretary of the Interior Ickes announced in his capacity as public works administrator.

Exact Amount Not Revealed.

The exact total to be spent on the federal projects in the list approved today was not made public. The board acted upon a list of applications submitted by the various departments and executive agencies and which already had been culled over by a subcommittee. As presented to the full board by the subcommittee, the projects totaled 400 million dollars.

It was estimated that by pruning and selection today, the board trimmed roughly one-third from the full total submitted to it. It is figured, therefore, that a quarter of a billion dollars in federal projects was added by today's action to the 400 millions already authorized to be spent for public roads and the 238 millions of public works money already allocated for naval construction.

The board found plenty to keep its members busy during a three hour session in trying to take some of the ease out of the easy money so anxiously sought by department and bureau heads, who, not long ago, were boasting how much they would cut below the Hoover budget figures. By drawing on the public works funds, it will be possible to place the additional charges in the so-called "supplemental budget," instead of in the regular annual budget.

Gifts to States for Roads.

At a second meeting tomorrow the board is to comb through a list of applications from states and municipalities. The projects are among those already favored by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, to whom the original applications were directed. They have been turned over to the public works administration, where partial grants of money may be made, and where the terms are easier than in the corporation.

An additional $26,276,400 of the 400 millions allocated for public road gifts to the states was approved today when the allotments for Ohio, Massachusetts, and Utah received the final indorsements of Secretary Ickes and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. With the $22,330,101 already assigned to New York state, today's action means a total of $48,606,501 already donated as an outright grant from the federal treasury for road building. Under today's allotments Massachusetts gets $6,597,100 of easy money for roads; Ohio's easy money is $15,484,592, and Utah's $4,194,708.

Secretary Ickes today announced the appointment, as assistant public works administrator, of Henry Matson Waite, Cincinnati engineer and city manager of Dayton, O., from 1914 to 1918.

ALDERMEN THINK UP 420 MILLIONS OF PUBLIC WORKS

List Will Be Pruned Before U. S. Gets It.

When the city council yesterday finished adding up the cost of various public improvements which its members suggested might be undertaken by the federal government out of the $3,300,000,000 public works appropriation in the national recovery act, the total exceeded $420,000,000.

The program, however, will undergo some radical pruning before any requests are transmitted to federal authorities. The council authorized Mayor Kelly to appoint a committee of five aldermen who will go over the suggestions with him.

The only improvement definitely on the program is the proposed lake front airport, at an estimated cost of $6,000,000.

Construction List Compiled.

The construction program, as it was summarized before the council meeting, involved expenditures totaling $325,408,085, to which the city controller's staff added a request for $35,000,000 of federal funds to meet city bond maturities on Jan. 1, 1934, and to take up 1928, 1929, and 1930 tax warrants which it appears tax collections will be insufficient to retire.

Then on the council floor construction projects were added to the program with specific additions of cost of $57,150,000 and other projects for which the cost was not estimated.

A Few Suggestions.

A summary of the various suggestions presented to the council in the first list follows:

18 new fire stations	$ 2,511,800
10 new police stations and police garage	923,931
Department of public works projects: Traffic signals, 23 subways under railroad tracks, relief sewers for 66 square miles of the city, resurfacing 600 miles of paving, four garbage incinerators, improvements to city hall, including two added floors, reconstruction of Navy pier, 15 new bridges and viaducts, small park improvements	103,944,192
Lake front airport and improvements to present airport	12,205,000
Calumet harbor development	9,000,000
Waterworks improvements	72,941,600
West side superhighway	15,000,000
Reforestation of parkways	1,000,000
Improvements at Bridewell	1,000,000
Children's pavilion, municipal tuberculosis sanitarium	250,000
Revolving fund for modern housing construction	25,000,000
Street lighting improvements and reconstruction of police and fire telegraph systems	14,521,000
Board of local improvements projects: 279 sidewalk projects, 112 street paving projects, 65 sewer projects, 26 house drain projects, street widenings	12,994,500
Subway, route 1	47,500,000
City condemnation awards	4,414,062

In the discussion of the list on the council floor, Ald. John S. Clark [30th] suggested that the request for funds for the superhighway be increased to $40,000,000.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] suggested that the same sum could be used for development of the Lake Calumet harbor and its connecting waterways, for which $9,600,000 was provided in the first program.

Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th] made a special plea for the opening of Wrightwood avenue under the Milwaukee railroad tracks. There is no street opening between Diversey and Fullerton avenues, and there is a public school nearby, he said. Six children, he declared, have been killed in recent years while climbing over the railroad tracks.

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] suggested that the request for the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium be increased to $1,000,000 to give the institution space to accommodate 800 persons now on its waiting list.

Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th] suggested coöperation with Indiana authorities to build a highway from Gary into Chicago, connecting with the new Dunes relief road which was built to ease the traffic burden on the Dunes highway. Ald. John Coughlin [1st] suggested that the new Illinois Central railroad terminal at Randolph street be added to the projects on the list.

Of the projects on the list given the council at the opening of its meeting, $239,800,000 worth can be distributed by wards, the rest being of a general nature.

We don't like to be technical when we are talking about fine, sturdy oxfords that, because of their distinctive styling, look every bit like custom built shoes. But to get over what we mean by "Your Footprint in Leather" it is almost necessary.

To have real shoe comfort the curves and arches of the foot should be properly supported, and it is on this principle that Matrix shoes are built. The last and the molded inner sole conform to every contour of the bottom of the foot itself. As a result, the moment the foot slips into a Matrix shoe it finds its own impression—and immediately you are aware of that "old shoe comfort" that you have probably never believed was possible in a brand new shoe.

G. O. P. VISIONS COMEBACK 'JUST AROUND CORNER'

Girds for Congressional Fights Next Year.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Republican recovery is just around the corner. The depression that hit the party last November is already passing. Ground that once was held is easier to capture than strange territory.

This was the sort of talk that cheered up the dinner conference of Republican leaders from eight central states at the Palmer house last night. Everett Sanders, chief gloom chaser as well as chairman of the national committee, thrust aside every approach toward post-mortem dissection. He said the attitude of headquarters is one of looking forward and not backward.

The "Democratic Mistakes."

Just exactly what was said by the conferees is a matter of hearsay, as the doors of the private dining room were closed when the waiters departed and the uninvited cooled their heels in the hall. So far as could be learned, the talk following Chairman Sanders' message concerning the viewpoint of national headquarters became a general exchange of information, a round table affair.

From what was learned it was conjectured that there was at least a mention of Democratic "mistakes" and some expression that there will be more of the same.

Some of the national committeemen and state organization heads present are said to have reported, as was expected of a confab of this sort, that the voters in their home territories already are beginning to fear that perhaps they went a step too far in pushing along the avalanche that swept the Democrats into almost a monopoly of power, legislative as well as executive, in both the nation and the states.

See Better Times for G. O. P.

Chairman Sanders reported that three earlier conferences of the same kind in the east had brought assurances of better times ahead for the party if enough hard work is done. In the fall the series will be extended to Kansas City, Denver, and the Pacific coast, and after that national headquarters will be ready to get down to real business in backing up state organizations everywhere in the congressional election battles next year.

All of the eight states were represented at the dinner conference. In addition Mrs. Ellis H. Yost, director of the women's division, and J. R. Nutt, national treasurer, were present. Chairman Sanders said that the treasurer was not here in his official capacity but as one of the spokesmen for Ohio.

Representatives of States.

The representatives of the various states listed as present were the following:

ILLINOIS—Frank L. Smith, Felix J. Stransky, Mrs. John Wesley Gray, and John F. Tyrrell.

INDIANA—Chairman Sanders, Miss Dorothy Cunningham, Don S. Irwin, and Mrs. J. E. P. Holland.

IOWA—H. E. Spangler, Miss Martha McClure, Homer S. Stephens, and Mrs. Virginia Becell.

KENTUCKY—J. Matt Chilton and Mrs. Alvin T. Hert.

MICHIGAN—James E. Davidson, Mrs. Frances W. Steketee, Howard C. Lawrence, and Mrs. C. L. Barber.

MINNESOTA—Claude H. McKenzie.

OHIO—Walter F. Brown, J. R. Nutt, Mrs. Katharine E. Brown, and Miss Gertrude Jones.

WISCONSIN—Mrs. Harry E. Thomas and George L. Gilkey.

The missing members of the national committee were Mrs. Bertha Baur of Illinois, who is in Europe, George A. Ball, Indiana; Mrs. Manley L. Fosseen, Minnesota, and George Vits, Wisconsin.

BUTTER MAKERS SPLIT ON CODE; APPEAL TO U. S.

Factions Disagree on Control Group.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Unable to settle issues which have sprung up in the formation of a code of ethics for the nation's butter industry a conference of butter makers held at the Palmer house yesterday wound up with the announcement that the battle would be carried to Washington, where it could be fought out in an official public hearing, with the government as referee.

Leading centralized butter manufacturing concerns of the country attended yesterday's meeting at the call of the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers.

Group to Draft Code.

After hearing verbal attacks from representatives of several thousand unorganized coöperative creameries owned by dairy farmers in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Iowa, the conference voted to adopt a code of ethics framed by a committee of ten from the association's membership and from the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation.

The fight on the floor was waged over provisions of the code which create a national butter council which would exercise police powers over the industry under the federal farm adjustment act. This council also would be empowered to do away with future trading and wide fluctuations in butter prices by establishing the market values from week to week.

Charge Biased Control.

The selection of the membership of the council favors the big creamery companies, the meat packers who are large butter manufacturers and does not give small farmer-owned coöperatives a voice in the industry's affairs, it was charged by rampant delegates yesterday.

H. J. Bird, president of the creamery manufacturers' trade association, declared that it was hopeless to attempt to secure an agreement among the 6,000 butter manufacturing concerns who annually produce 1 billion 700 million pounds of butter.

BANKER FIGHTING ROBBER'S PAROLE; $185,000 TAKEN

Springfield, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—The pardon application of Harry Funk, robber of a Chenoa bank, was opposed before the state prison board today by Jesse R. Willis, state's attorney of McLean county, and C. H. Marriott, former director of the Farmers State bank at Chenoa.

Willis described Funk as a habitual criminal who should be made to serve the maximum of his ten year to life sentence in Joliet penitentiary.

Marriott said the theft of $185,000 in bonds and currency, which has not been recovered, had forced the bank to close.

GETS 60 DAYS

Sydney Wildman, 27 years old, New York gigolo, appeared before Judge Joseph H. McGarry of the South State street court yesterday dressed in a white linen suit, black tie and handkerchief, and pearl grey shirt. The marcel wave in his dark auburn hair completed the effect. Miss Margaret Vaule, 33 years old, of Crookston, Minn., charged he had stolen $16 from her in the Stevens hotel, where she is staying while visiting the World's Fair. Judge McGarry sentenced him to serve 60 days in the House of Correction.

PRINTING TRADES WEIGH DRAFTING INDUSTRIAL CODE

The board of directors of the International Allied Printing Trades association met yesterday at the Hotel Sherman to discuss the application of the industrial recovery act to the printing industry. John B. Haggerty, Washington, D. C., president, declined to state whether the association would draw up a code for presentation to Washington.

The National Association of Dyers and Cleaners has drafted a tentative code for 8,000 plants and 200,000 retail outlets, according to Smitty Abrams, convention chairman, who returned from a meeting in Washington, D. C. The code provides for prices representing cost, plus at least 10 per cent, minimum wages according to localities, and maximum working works in line with other industries.

KILLED AS TRACTOR UPSETS.

Mexico, Mo., July 11.—(Special.)—Moses F. Garrett, 21, was fatally injured today when a tractor he was driving, while plowing for soybeans, overturned, pinning him beneath it.

AGREE ON COAL CODE EXCEPT HOURS, WAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—On all conditions of employment except hours and wages the conference of coal miners and operators today were in substantial agreement and a proposed code for the industry may be completed within 48 hours, it was announced this evening.

Tonight a subcommittee is whipping the draft of the tentative agreement into suitable shape to be submitted to the general conference tomorrow. If no agreement is reached as to hours and wages, both sides will reserve all their rights in order that the questions at issue may be thrashed out at public hearings before the industrial recovery administration.

"Agreement on hours has thus far been impossible," announced T. G. Essington, counsel of the Illinois Coal Operators association and chairman of the meeting. "The miners are asking for the six hour day and the five-day week, and the operators are insisting on the eight hour day."

Mr. Essington said it was entirely probable that a code would be submitted with the hours clause open. The discussion today was directed almost entirely, he said, toward the question of the $5 basic scale for inside labor and $4 for common labor as minimum scales subject to differentials which are very often involved, and which require careful consideration.

CRASHES INTO AMBULANCE; KILLED.

Danville, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—Coley O. Goss, 31, of State Line, Ind., an employe of the Wabash railway, was fatally injured here last night when his motorcycle crashed into an ambulance.

HUNNEWELL SUIT FOR DIVORCE ON TRIAL AT RENO

Wife Reveals Name of Other Woman.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Reno, Nev., July 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Helen Cirese Hunnewell of Oak Park, Ill., former president of the Illinois Women's Bar association, testified here today in a divorce suit that she found her husband, Harry H. Hunnewell of Boston, in a compromising position with another woman in the Hunnewell home in Beverly Hills, Cal., seven months after their marriage in 1931.

Mrs. Hunnewell named as the other woman a Charlotte Barron, adding that Miss Barron told her she had met Hunnewell only the night before.

Mrs. Hunnewell was testifying in the suit brought by her husband on March 30, 1932, but which he apparently had abandoned. She is now seeking the decree on a cross-complaint charging adultery. Hunnewell charged cruelty in his suit. He is said to be in Europe.

Pleads for Forgiveness.

"After I had discovered my husband with this woman," Mrs. Hunnewell testified, "he came to my room and said: 'I guess you know all about it. I was drunk. I am sorry.' He told me it was the first infraction of our married life. He pleaded with me on his knees to forgive him. He said he had only met the woman the night before and had been drinking heavily."

"Later the same day I went to another home of ours at Palos Verde and found him with the same woman. I remained in the same house with my husband from that date, Sept. 21, 1931, until in November, 1931, when I returned to my father's home in Oak Park. I remained because of social engagements previously made."

The principal witness in the afternoon was Richard Wharton, Negro of Chicago, who worked for the Hunnewells as chauffeur and butler. He told of seeing Hunnewell with three young women, naming them as Betty Walling, Beatrice Davis, and Charlotte Barron.

Serves Them Drinks in Bed.

When Mrs. Hunnewell went to San José in 1931 to visit relatives, Wharton testified, she was hardly out of the Palos Verdes home when Hunnewell brought Beatrice Davis there. He described in detail the goings on, saying there was much drinking. For a week, he said, Miss Davis was a nightly visitor at the Hunnewell home and Wharton said he took her to work early in the morning to San Pedro. Wharton said he served drinks to the two nightly and every morning.

Wharton told of six days and nights Miss Davis spent at the Palos Verdes home, and then went into affairs at the Beverly Hills home, where Mrs. Hunnewell had testified earlier she had seen her husband in a room with Charlotte Barron.

Mrs. Hunnewell went to Arrowhead Springs for a few days after the Barron episode, Wharton testified, and it was during this absence that Beatrice Walling came on the scene. It was a daily drinking party for ten days, Wharton testified. On one occasion Mrs. Hunnewell came home and Miss Walling had to hide in a clothescloset and Wharton had to send her out a rear entrance so Mrs. Hunnewell could not see her.

The Hunnewells were married on March 28, 1931, in Chicago. Her husband filed his bill for divorce in Reno less than a year later, on March 8. Mrs. Hunnewell filed an answer and cross complaint on April 7, 1932, charging cruelty and adultery, and asking separate maintenance. She alleged that they owned considerable community property and that Hunnewell possessed a fortune in excess of $1,000,000. In a reply to his wife's cross complaint, Hunnewell denied the charges.

HIGHWAY FREIGHT CARRIERS MEET TO DRAFT A CODE

Representatives of several hundred motor freight concerns met in the Palmer house yesterday to formulate a code for the trucking industry to be presented to the national recovery administration. The meeting was called by John L. Keeshin of Chicago, president of the American Highway Freight association.

Yesterday's session was occupied in the appointment of committees and discussions of a general nature, but it is expected that definite proposals will be considered and a code agreed upon today.

A plan submitted by Walter E. McCarron, manager of the Illinois Motor Truck Operators association, which is meeting with the national organization, is one of those to be considered. It provides for uniform rate schedules, adequate wage levels, the requirement of financial responsibility, protective insurance laws, limitation of continuous trips by individual drivers, and "fair taxation equitably administered."

PROBE DUMPING OF FELONS HERE BY OTHER STATES

Jury Orders Subpœna for Police Killer's 'Sponsor'

Another Paroler Seized

Ralph E. Plotts, alias Emerson, 36 years old, an ex-convict from the Michigan state prison, was arrested as a loiterer at Madison and Canal streets last night.

His arrest was the newest incident in an inquiry by the grand jury, police, and other agencies to find out how and why ex-convicts from Michigan and other nearby states are being dumped on Chicago.

Plotts told Detectives Harry Wright and Harry Seymour of the Des Plaines street station, who arrested him, that he was released Dec. 23, 1931, from the Michigan penitentiary after serving a term for embezzlement. He said he was paroled to John B. Habkirk of the Salvation Army in Chicago. Plotts said he lived at Salvation Army headquarters in North State street for a while, but lately has been living in parks. Police said they suspect he is wanted for bank robbery in Michigan.

On its own motion the Cook county grand jury yesterday directed the issuance of a subpoena for Maj. F. C. Thomas of the Chicago division of the Volunteers of America, to whom the state of Michigan last year paroled one of its convicts, Ross King. Last Saturday this paroled convict shot and killed Policeman Harry Redlich.

King and John Bongiorno, a paroled Illinois convict, have been indicted by the grand jury for the murder, which occurred outside a third floor office in the Madison-Kedzie building after Policeman Redlich had interrupted a holdup there and had captured Bongiorno.

Both King and Bongiorno were caught after the slaying and yesterday they were arraigned before Chief Justice Prystalski of the Criminal court. They "stood mute" when questioned as to their pleas, which legally is the equivalent of pleading not guilty. Judge Prystalski then continued the case until Friday for the appointment of attorneys to defend them.

Reason for the Subpoena.

The grand jurors ordered the subpoena for Maj. Thomas after they had been informed that he and others are sponsors for 300 criminals paroled here from penitentiaries in other states, without notice to the Chicago police. The main question the grand jurors want answered is why such a practice is tolerated.

Among the questions which they asked Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Spiro were these: Is money paid for such parole service? Could not convicts from other states be excluded from Chicago as a menace to society the same as they would be if they had contagious diseases? Does the national government have the power to prevent the interstate movement of felons as it does the interstate movement of women for immoral purposes?

Mr. Spiro explained that there is no law at present to prevent one state from dumping its vicious characters into another state. It is doubtful if congress would be able to enact such a law under the constitution, he said.

Licensing Plan Discussed.

A state might enact a law requiring such persons as Maj. Thomas to be licensed and to get permission from the Illinois parole board before accepting sponsorship of criminals from another state, Mr. Spiro added in an informal opinion. Convicts from other states might be considered as more dangerous than dynamite or other high explosive, and their movements might thus be restricted just as transportation of explosives is subject to regulation, he suggested.

It was explained that the grand jurors had no intention of questioning the integrity of Maj. Thomas or his motives; that they were chiefly concerned with stopping the practice of dumping felons on Chicago.

Inquire Into System.

One question involved, Mr. Spiro said, is the manner in which Maj. Thomas and others engaged in the private supervision of paroled convicts become interested in such convicts. According to the police few of the imported ex-convicts ever had residence in Illinois. King was never a resident of Illinois before his parole from a Michigan prison, Mr. Spiro was informed. He came to Chicago at his own request.

The jurors said they would endeavor to learn whether Maj. Thomas and the others seek out the convicts or what arrangement they have with nearby states.

Mr. Spiro said that if the subpoena is served on Maj. Thomas today he will be taken before the grand jury tomorrow or Friday.

SLAIN POLICEMAN BURIED

Funeral services for the slain Policeman Redlich were conducted yesterday in the chapel at 3918 Irving Park boulevard. Reference to the shooting of the policeman was made by the Rev. William Ziegler, pastor of the Belmont Park Lutheran church, who conducted the service.

"Our comrade fell while doing his duty and doing gladly more than was expected of him," said the pastor. "He fell a victim to the desperation of criminal gunmen. We have made progress in some things, but in others we have not. We need vigilance in administering the law. We need a common backbone when it comes to standing for the law. I plead with you that we get at the criminals. We must have honest, courageous cooperation with those who are charged with administering the law."

Military rites were held at Acacia cemetery by Chicago Police post of the American Legion.

The slain policeman served overseas as a machine gunner with the 123d division. He was attached to the Warren avenue station. His widow, Mrs. Laura Redlich, and a daughter, Jacqueline, 8 years old, survive.

GIRL IS KILLED, TWO HURT AS MOTORCYCLE COLLIDES WITH AUTO

Miss Florence Gulbransen, 17 years old, 2745 North Menard avenue, was killed last night when a motorcycle on which she and two young men were riding collided head on with an automobile at Peterson road and Western avenue.

The men, Edward Hick, 26 years old, 3042 North Lockwood avenue, operator of the motorcycle, and Edmund Schaar, 19, of 2714 North Laramie avenue, were seriously injured and taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital. McDonald Lovell, 38 years old, 2206 Arthur avenue, an architect, was the automobile driver. He was shaken up.

Miss Gulbransen's death increased the Cook county motor fatality toll to 517 since Jan. 1.

Four residents of Evansville, Ind., vacation bound for Elkhart Lake, Wis., were injured late yesterday when their automobile skidded off the road in highway 41, half a mile north of the Waukegan airport.

They were Benjamin Weil, 85 years old, an official of the Weil Packing company of Evansville; his daughters, Mrs. Adelia Isaac, 45, and Mrs. Sadie Barnett, 47, and his granddaughter, Miss Julia Isaac, 21. All were taken to Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan, where it was found Weil was in a critical condition.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict charging Anthony Iesulauno, former "heavy man" at Colosimo's café, with manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Jean Sable, 21 years old, 5541 Everett avenue, who was killed on Memorial day in an auto accident at Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard. Iesulauno has since disappeared.

The bodies of Franklin Meyers Jr., 18 years old, and Alvin Brendel Jr., 17 years old, Chicago youths who were killed Monday night when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a train at Neosho, Mo., will be brought home today.

Meyers, the son of a diamond merchant, lived at 1729 Elmore avenue, Park Ridge. Brendel was a brother of Otto Brendel, chief clerk of the bureau of criminal statistics at the detective bureau. The Brendel home is at 6951 Owens avenue.

EASTERWOOD IS UNDERSTOOD BY OLD HOME TOWN

It Is Getting Used to the Colonel's Publicity.

Dallas, Tex., July 10.—[Special.]—Dallas is trying to figure out what sort of a reception "Col." [Mex., New Mex. and Tex.] W. E. Easterwood should rate in the old home town when he gets back from foreign parts.

What, it is being asked among his acquaintances, would the city do if the colonel, who was a real sergeant in the marines at Paris Island during the war, should persuade his new buddies, Benito Mussolini and King Victor Emmanuel III. of Italy, to come with him?

And why shouldn't they come, now that the colonel, who was once the champion chewing gum salesman of the southwest, has personally conferred upon them membership—with lapel buttons—in the American Legion?

Of course, the pinning of the Legion badge upon the chiefs of the Italian state was illegal, and the John W. Lowe post here will be unable to accept the new members because the Legion constitution makes no provision for foreign potentates as Legionnaires. In fact, it actually forbids the initiation of such.

Gets His Publicity.

"Even among friends the constitution must be observed," declared Roy Ledbetter, chairman of the Dallas central council of Legion posts. "Easterwood is just trying to get a little more publicity."

The last Easterwood reception that Dallas held on a grand scale was almost a fizzle and would have been one had not the intrepid colonel saved it by quick military thinking. He had offered a $25,000 prize for a Paris to Dallas airplane flight and a couple of Frenchmen, Coste and Bellonte, arrived in town in 1930 to win it while the colonel was overseas.

This blow of fate failed to daunt him and he returned hastily to Dallas, so hastily that some one neglected to announce his arrival. As he stepped off his train he learned that brass bands and a parade would have been ready had Dallas known when he was coming.

Without delay the colonel hastened a hundred miles back up the line and let it be known on what train he would return from his retreat. The situation was saved.

His First Colonelcy.

His resourcefulness also was demonstrated, it was related by his friends today, by the manner in which he obtained his first, or Mexican, colonelcy. The year was 1927 and he had begun to feel the necessity for a new handle to his name.

In El Paso, it is said, an intense craving for this particular title overcame him and the aid of Mayor Ewing Thomason, now a congressman, was invoked. Together he and Sergt. Easterwood crossed the line and conferred with the mayor of Juarez and the military commander of the state of Chihuahua.

"Ah, señor," said the commander, spreading his hands in a Latin gesture of deprecation, "alas, to be a Mexican colonel one must rise from the ranks or graduate from the national military school and only native Mexicans can enter the school."

But Mexican officials later relented and it was whispered that if Easterwood would put up a $10,000 prize for a Mexico City-Dallas air race he could be a colonel. The money was offered, the sergeant was metamorphosed into a colonel, and then the American government said the race couldn't be held. Reluctantly Easterwood called off the race, but kept the title.

A City Greeter.

Soon afterward Col. [Mex.] Easterwood was Col. [N. M.] and Col. [Tex.] Easterwood by proclamation of Govs. Moody and Dillon. He became one of the earlier exponents of the art of being a city greeter, which was later brought to a greater degree of perfection by Col. [Ky.] George D. Gaw of Chicago.

Col. Easterwood is a successful business man, who accumulated a large fortune in his early forties. Unaided, he built up the Orbit Chewing Gum company, in which he began as a salesman, and sold the property to the Wrigley interests. He has done a great deal of charity work, particularly for crippled children. His great hobbies, however, are the American Legion and aviation.

Recently two large clipping bureaus reported that he is the most written about American except Lindbergh. One story has is that five women were employed six months in pasting up his press notices. He is better known abroad than any other Texan.

8 GUNS CAPTURED AT WATERLOO ARE TAKEN AT BRITISH WEST POINT

SANDHURST, England, July 11.—(AP)—Eight heavy brass guns captured at Waterloo were mysteriously carried away last night from the Royal Military college here, the West Point of Great Britain, and distributed in various places at some distance.

When the loss of the historic muzzle-loaders was discovered, the school authorities turned out the cadets in their nightclothes for a roll call, but the check-up showed that none was missing, thus tending to remove suspicion that the students themselves had made the raid.

After a wide search the Waterloo artillery was found. Three guns were in the lake a quarter of a mile away, two on the lake shore, two others on the football field, and the eighth price was in the middle of the road nearly a mile from the college. As each gun requires six men to maneuver, the raiders must have been numerous.

LEAPS TO DEATH FROM COURT AS HE AWAITS TRIAL

William Henry, 20 years old, 228 South Wood street, ex-convict, was fatally injured yesterday when he leaped through an open window from the fourth floor courtroom of Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court while awaiting trial. He died in the Bridewell hospital.

Henry, whose right leg was injured when he was arrested with James Dugan, 18 years old, in a stolen automobile last month, was taken to court in a wheel chair. Women spectators in the rear of the courtroom screamed as they saw Henry rise from his chair, hobble to the window, and leap.

Jail attendants said Henry had expressed fear of being arraigned before Judge Prystalski, who sentenced him to Pontiac reformatory a year ago on a robbery charge. Henry and Dugan, who lives 1713 Warren avenue, were charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to Gustave Mani, 834 North Homan avenue, on June 9.

FARMER KILLED IN WINDSTORM.

J. W. HARRIMAN UNFIT FOR TRIAL, DOCTORS ASSERT

Mind Unhinged, They Say; Cite His Drinking.

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—Eight witnesses appeared before Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey today and related instances of Joseph W. Harriman's erratic behavior before and after the crash of the Harriman National bank.

Questioned by Col. William J. Donovan, Chief of counsel for Harriman, those witnesses were offered to prove Harriman is mentally incompetent to stand trial on charges of falsifying the bank's books

Doctor Tells of Warning.

Dr. Blake Donaldson, said that last September he had advised members of Harriman's family to take him out of the bank where he was chairman of the board, and put him in a sanitarium to cure him of alcoholism and thwart his ideas of self destruction. Two months earlier bank examiners had discovered the false entries and the clearing house had deposed Mr. Harriman as president. It was five months before the collapse of the bank.

Dr. Donaldson told that Harriman drank heavily and took sedatives. Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe described Harriman as showing "the beginning of presenile dementia."

Dr. Jelliffe insisted Mr. Harriman repeated things over and over, dwelt at length on a somewhat nebulous "plot" by the New York clearing house to "get him," and told "stories that were entirely out of keeping with his surroundings and inappropriate to the occasion."

Former servants told of all day drinking by Harriman.

Stories Become Issue.

United States Attorney George Z. Medalie questioned Dr. Jelliffe on "inappropriate stories."

"We have all heard such stories, haven't we?" asked Medalie, "at directors' meetings, gatherings of lawyers, jurists, even of eminent physicians."

"We have," the doctor replied.

"Haven't you heard that Abraham Lincoln told such stories; that Daniel Webster——" the prosecutor added.

"I don't believe for a minute that Daniel Webster under those circumstances would have done any such thing," interrupted Dr. Jelliffe, his voice rising.

"We've heard those stories before," observed Medalie.

"No, you haven't heard these stories," Dr. Jelliffe retorted.

"Did you ever hear that Lincoln used to do that kind of thing?"

"I'm not an expert on Lincoln," the psychiatrist replied.

MRS. CAROLINE LOEW, WIDOW OF THEATER MAGNATE, TO WED

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Caroline R. Loew, 60 year old widow of Marcus Loew, the theatrical magnate who died in 1927, and Max Minzesheimer, 61, a retired business man, obtained a marriage license today. They did not indicate when or where the ceremony would be performed.

Mrs. Loew and two sons shared 95 per cent of Loew's estate. Various estimates after his death placed it at $25,000,000 or more, but a transfer tax appraisal filed two years later showed it amounted to only $1,673,593 gross and $826,647 net. At the time of his death from a heart attack at the age of 57 Loew was president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer corporation and of the theater chain bearing his name.

GIRLS OVERCOME BY GAS FUMES IN SWIMMING POOL

Three young girls, members of a swimming class, were overcome by chlorine fumes yesterday in the swimming pool of the Austin Y. M. C. A., 501 North Central avenue. The chlorine apparently escaped from the apparatus used to purify the water in the tank.

Several other members of the class were affected by the fumes. The three most seriously affected, who were taken to the West Suburban hospital, were Ruth Sathren, 12 years old, 825 North Fairchild avenue; Ruth Brown, 13 years old, 1431 North Le Claire avenue; and Georgiana Draper, 11 years old, 1237 North Marshfield avenue. They will recover, it was said by Dr. Frederick L. Glenn, who attended them.

Henry Trangenstein, the instructor of the swimming class, noticed the fumes, and ordered the 28 girls in the class to leave the tank at once. The gas, it was discovered later, was entering the poolroom through a ventilator.

Valparaiso, Ind., July 11.—[Special.]—Lawrence Wiseman, 21, Chesterton, Ind., today confessed to Porter county authorities that his car struck and seriously injured James Bell, 18, Valparaiso high school student, on state road 49. Wiseman told another motorist to take the victim to a hospital. He is being held pending the outcome of Bell's injuries.

Charges Desertion

Louis E. (Slim) Gordon, who was mechanic and relief pilot for Amelia Earhart in her trans-Atlantic flight in 1928, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Superior court against Mrs. Anne Bruce Gordon. Their marriage resulted from a romance growing out of the flight.

Gordon is now a mechanic at Palwaukee airport. His bill, filed by Attorney Thomas H. Riley, states that he met Miss Bruce, who then lived in Brookline, Mass., while he was in Boston preparing for the flight across the ocean.

When he, Miss Earhart and Wilmer Stultz, pilot on the flight, were accorded a triumphal reception upon their return to New York, Miss Bruce was one of the passengers on the city tug Macom which met their ship. She and Gordon announced their engagement soon afterward and were married July 20, 1928. The bill charges that she left him in 1928 and is now living at Hempstead, L. I.

In the drive to collect delinquent real estate taxes under the Kerner-Skarda act, County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough filed petitions in the County court yesterday asking that 100 properties be placed under his receivership. The properties owe $283,308 in back taxes.

James E. Bistor, an official of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers and a leader in the tax strike, yesterday reaffirmed his intention of fighting against payment of delinquent taxes on an apartment building he owns at 71st street and Constance avenue. Through Attorney Ferre C. Watkins he filed before County Judge Jarecki an answer to an information demanding an explanation of a tax delinquency of $7,916.

MASTER REJECTS CLAIM OF DRAKES TO FREE SUITES

Rules Hotel Receiver Can Abrogate Contract.

Federal Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman in a report yesterday upheld Charles K. Williamson, receiver for the Drake hotel, in abrogating a contract under which the former owners of the hotel, John B. and Tracy C. Drake, brothers, were to receive free living quarters for their families, food, and annual salaries of $15,000 each for a period of six and one-half years.

The master's finding is on an intervening petition filed by the Drakes in the $4,000,000 foreclosure proceedings brought against the hotel. The findings, if unchanged after a further hearing tomorrow, will be submitted to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. If he affirms them an appeal will be carried to the higher courts, according to Paul Mitchell, one of the Drake lawyers.

Foreclosure Last April.

Chronologically, the case goes back to July, 1932, when the hotel was reorganized and placed under control of the Whitestone Management corporation. The Drakes made the contract with the corporation entitling them to free suites, food, service, and salaries. Last April 5 the Metropolitan Life Insurance company began foreclosure action on a $4,000,000 mortgage and Mr. Williamson was named receiver. On May 2 Receiver Williamson rescinded the contract with the Drake brothers and ordered them to pay rent or move.

A month ago the Drakes filed the intervening petition, asking that the receiver be prevented from ousting them. They contended that their contract took priority over the $4,000,000 mortgage. This was denied by the receiver.

The Master's Opinion.

"I have concluded," said Master Grossman in his findings, "that the mortgage is a valid and an enforceable prior lien unaffected by the claims of the Drakes, and that the receiver's judgment has been fairly exercised in disavowing the Drake contract in order to conserve the pledged rents, issues, and profits for the benefit of the mortgagee."

Attorney Nathaniel Rubinkam represented the insurance company in the hearing before Master Grossman, and Mr. Mitchell and Attorney Charles Le Forge appeared for the Drakes.

SEIZE 2 OFFERING FAKE FUR.

Sergt. William Petiny and his detective bureau squad yesterday arrested Beri Ferguson, 51 North Washtenaw avenue, and Andrew Coleman, 2127 South Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, who were trying to sell an imitation fur as stolen goods.

MICHAEL CUDAHY SAYS HE AND HOLLYWOOD ACTRESS WILL WED

Hollywood, Cal., July 11.—(AP)—Michael Cudahy, 25, grandson of the founder of the packing company of that name, and Miss Mary Jacklyn Borax, 22, an actress and dancer, filed notice today of intention to marry.

Cudahy, who is in the brokerage business, has known Miss Borax six years, his mother, Mrs. Emma Cudahy said.

"She's a very lovely girl and I approve most heartily of their marriage," the mother said. "Michael has known her for six years. Her childhood home is in Michigan, but she has resided in California for several years."

In 1927, Mrs. Cudahy, with the aid of authorities in Santa Barbara, thwarted her son's attempt to marry Marie Astaire, an actress. In 1929 he married an actress, Muriel Evans, but they were divorced a year later.

Joan Crawford, screen actress, said in San Francisco a few years ago she had been engaged to Cudahy for a period of 10 months, but that she broke the engagement.

Cudahy and his bride-to-be left the marriage bureau hurriedly after filing their intention. Their marriage and honeymoon plans were not revealed.

TUNNEL COMPANY ASKS EXEMPTION ON ASSESSMENT

The Chicago Tunnel company, which operates 62 miles of underground railroad in the downtown district, yesterday petitioned the board of tax appeals to strike an assessed valuation of $1,500,000 against the property of the company from the 1932 real estate rolls. The petition asserted the property of the company is exempt, contending that under the terms of a franchise obtained by the company in 1932 the property is owned by the city.

Attorney George W. Lennon appeared before the board as one of the legal staff of the company. He has also acted as an attorney for George F. Nixon, member of the board. Lennon contended that County Assessor J. L. Jacobs erred in placing the assessment against the company.

Assessor Jacobs insisted that the franchise ordinance does not exempt the company from taxation. He said the corporation counsel, in a recent opinion, held the company is liable for taxes and that the state Supreme court had so held.

Attorney Lennon said the court decision applied to taxation previous to the 1932 ordinance. Taxes were paid by the company prior to 1932, he said, but the situation has since changed.

HELD TO GRAND JURY AS RAPIST.

Judge Howard W. Hayes yesterday held John Cerbin, 41 years old, 2128 Cullerton street, to the grand jury in bonds of $6,000 on charges of rape and committing a crime against a 12 year old girl.

ROCKEFELLER JR. GIVES 5 MILLIONS IN LAND FOR PARK

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—John D. Rockefeller Jr. today offered 265 acres of land, worth about $5,000,000, atop the Palisades, running about 13 miles from the George Washington bridge to the New York-New Jersey state line, to the Palisades Interstate park commissioners as a parkway. The effect of the gift would be two-fold:

To help preserve the scenic beauty of the Palisades and to improve transportation facilities between New York City and the north Jersey suburban area.

The offer was conditional upon the ability of the Palisades Interstate park commissioners to raise the money for the construction of the parkway within a reasonable time.

J. Du Pratt White, president of the commissioners, in accepting the gift, announced that the commissioners would apply to Secretary of the Interior Ickes for $3,500,000, as a contribution from the Roosevelt administration's three billion 300 million public works program, to pay for the labor and materials required for the construction of the parkway. Assuming that the application is granted, work could be started within 60 days, according to Mr. White.

In 1900, when certain quarry projects threatened to destroy parts of the Palisades, Mr. Rockefeller gave $500,000 toward the $6,000,000 raised to enable the Palisades park commission to acquire the quarry properties and for the general development of the Palisades Interstate park.

Further donations of land by other individuals and appropriations and bond issues by the states of New York and New Jersey have created an investment of $20,000,000 in the Palisades Interstate park.

5,000 CENTURIES OF SOCIAL DRAMA ENACTED AT FAIR

Exhibit Oldest Necklace, Finest Bookbinding.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Social Science building at the World's Fair is an epitome not of a century of progress but of 5,000 centuries of progress.

From the clubs and the cublike children of its effigies of cavemen to its small but close-packed, richly appointed and very choice Webster's Dictionary exhibit, this structure is a constant source of inspiration.

It does more than house "social science"—drear term that might make us laymen shy away from it.

It enacts social drama.

Contrasts are abrupt and amazing. You see the oldest known necklace in the world—not a copy but the original. Prof. Fay-Cooper Cole, one of the greatest of living anthropologists, estimates its age as "at least 25,000 years." It is no contemptible piece of craftsmanship and is called "the Aurignacian necklace" from that French town of Aurignac which is famed for its industrial paleolithic remains. Bone, stone, ivory, and deer horn compose it, and it comes to the Fair from one of the Cro-magnon caves in France.

Craftsmen's Tribute to Lincoln.

And, not a hundred feet distant from this relic, you see one of the most ornate and lavish specimens of contemporaneous book binding.

It is in Mr. Kroch's exhibit, and not the least impressive fact about it is that so much gold-leaf, vellum satin, choice leather and rich illumination have been lavished upon certain deathless utterances of a corn fed Illinoisan who wrote the purest English any American has written. In short, this folio is the tribute of the bookbinder's art to Abraham Lincoln. It contains his Gettysburg address, his Second inaugural, and Whitman's "Captain, My Captain," the most pathetic threnody in American literature. Alberto Sangorski of London designed and illuminated this folio. Riviere of London bound it. Mr. Kroch's aids show it with handkerchief covered fingers to all visitors.

In craftsmanship we have come a long way since that Aurignacian necklace of the Cro-magnon cave. We have come 250 centuries.

The Show Two Years A-Building.

It took more than two years to assemble the exhibits in this theater of social science which yesterday kept me going and listening from one o'clock in the afternoon until twenty minutes past six.

And even then I had not really assimilated the half of it.

The note of the exhibition is stimulation.

It immeasurably widens and brightens the horizon of persons who thought they had one and it creates a horizon for persons who had none.

How spacious and how thrilling it is is indicated by the remark Prof. Cole, chief organizer and assembler of the show, made when, at the end of the five hours plus, we dropped onto divans in the lounge of the Chicago Geographic society on the second floor.

He said:

"If you take the history of the last half million years as illustrated beneath this roof, well, it's a hopeful story—in spite of everything that we are too ready to consider hopeless."

Cautious and Optimistic.

Fay Cooper Cole is head of the University of Chicago's department of anthropology. He never talks at loose ends. He has the scholar's caution—and the philosopher's optimism.

Hence the building is a cheerful place.

It streams with light—the light not of hope alone, but of confidence.

It glows with powerful direct lights on things we ought to know, and it shimmers with novel sidelights on things we thought we knew. It is 30,000 square feet of radiant instruction.

Tutored and untutored find it so.

Dr. Cole speaks not in a loud but in a clear, far carrying voice. The consequence is that, when he has taken on a newspaper reporter for a survey of the exhibits, he soon has 25, 40, 50 other visitors on his hands. The eagerness of the people to learn is at once touching and inspiring. The labels on the exhibits are good, and some of those which mechanisms keep in motion are as exciting as a fiction serial.

But the people—people from the farms, from factories, children from public schools and from preparatory academies—love the sound of the voice, the soft gesticulation, the animated play of features, and the winning smile of this born teacher. So they follow him from booth to booth, crowd around him, hang upon his words, ask him questions, even start arguments with him. He is very patient, very responsive.

A Woman Finds the Reason.

At one point in his discourse he pointed out how much wider the female pelvis is than the male. A young woman listener looked up with unselfconscious eagerness and said, "Why, that's so as to make child bearing easier. It's like a cradle."

"Yes," he replied gravely, "you have found the reason. It's like a cradle."

You bump into a big question immediately you enter the structure at its first floor level. For near the west entrance, back to back, are the two dioramas of the self-supporting, self-contained, grandly independent American colonial family of the farm and the modern American family of the flat, the family that goes outside the home for everything from its food to its amusements. The shelves of its kitchenette are piled with canned goods. Son and daughter are hatted and outward bound to the movies. Their garments obviously are ready made.

The Sleek City Faces.

The faces of all the figures in the scene are unlined, sleek, a little vacuous. Home is cramped. It does not seem to mean much. They all "want out." They were born efficiently in a hospital. They will be stylishly buried from a funeral chapel. Naught that they have do they make—except money.

Their life is one tremendous "efficiency." They are an avid consuming unit.

Now see the other side of the picture!

The scene is, say, some Puritan hamlet on the north Atlantic seaboard before the Revolution.

Through the open door of this diorama you see father plowing. Within grandmother is spinning. Her granddaughter is carding the wool. The bouncing baby is trying to hold a skein for winding. Mother is cooking at the open fireplace.

All the settings of this interior from pewter dishes to bellows, thanks to loans by the Messrs. Carson, Pirie and Scott of State street, are the veritable stuff. No models.

This family is self-sufficient, self-contained. In its house and on its fields it produces both its food and its clothing. The faces of its members are intent and sagacious. Its boys and girls are economic assets, not, like the boys and girls of today, economic liabilities.

So Here Is Your Problem.

So here is the economic and spiritual conundrum clamoring at you from this pair of vivid dioramas.

Which was the better way—the colonial or ours?

I asked Miss Helen Bennett, Prof. Cole's first aid in assembling the exhibits in the Social Science building.

She smiled her inscrutable Dakota smile and replied:

"We are not saying. We are not pointing a moral but adorning a tale, and it is the tale of the change from the family as a producing unit to the family as a consuming unit."

In the memorable sesquicentennial sermon he preached on an April night in 1926 from the pulpit of Boston's old North church—Paul Revere's church—Gen. Dawes said the old system built "character" and he beat vocally and fistically on that word character until the pigeons in the belfry fled affrighted and the austere bishop in the throne chair grew pink with apprehension of what might come next.

Maybe the lay preacher was right. 'Tis character versus, perhaps, a gracious efficiency, bought and paid for.

"But," asks Helen Bennett, "why not both? That's the problem."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In the list of murals at A Century of Progress printed in THE TRIBUNE of July 9 the painting "OK—Business, Machines, People," by A. Raymond Katz, in General Exhibits pavilion No. 3, was inadvertently omitted. This was one of the first murals accepted by the Exposition and made possible by the mural fund contributed by Dudley Crafts Wilson and the Exposition.

In an item yesterday in THE TRIBUNE it was stated that the University of Illinois has $8,800,000 of unused 1931 appropriations in the state treasury. Joseph Wright, director of public information of the university, said yesterday that $2,800,000 remained in the treasury at the end of the biennium.

He explained that the university saved this money by economies, and as the time for the appropriation has expired the funds revert to the state.

The airplane accident in which Freeman Brown of Bellwood was injured in his first solo flight did not occur at the Lake street airport, as reported yesterday, but at the Elmhurst airport.

EXPECT 35,000 INDIANANS TO SEE FAIR TOMORROW

Senator, Priest, Women Speak for Idaho Today.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Indiana day will be celebrated at the Fair tomorrow with a program of speeches, music and other events to form one of the most complete special days yet designated by the Exposition officials. The program was announced yesterday by the chairman of the day, who said that a delegation of 35,000 visitors from the neighboring state would come to Chicago to participate in the ceremonies.

Heading the huge delegation, the largest yet to attend the Fair from any state other than Illinois, will be Gov. Paul V. McNutt. Other prominent Hooslers who will have a part in the program will be Theodore Dreiser, Meredith Nicholson, Booth Tarkington, George Ade, and John T. McCutcheon, dean of American cartoonists.

Salute to Be Fired for McNutt.

The opening event of the day will be the official welcome in the court of honor at the 14th street entrance, where Gov. McNutt will be given a salute of 17 guns and will review the United States troops from Camp Whistler. The official party will then register at the Illinois Host building.

Taking part in the musical events will be ten bands, aggregating more than 600 musicans, two orchestras of 75 pieces each, and three singing societies. Among the bands will be the Indianapolis Newsboys' band, called the world's champion newsboy musical organization. The musical part of the program will be given from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. in the court of the Hall of States.

At 3:30 p. m. a parade, headed by Gov. McNutt and the official party, will form at 14th street to move in the Avenue of Flags and across the 16th street bridge to the Hall of States.

Reception and Addresses.

Gov. McNutt will preside at a reception in the Indiana exhibit, following which a program of speeches will be given in the court of the states group. Speakers will include the governor, A. Murray Turner, chairman of the Indiana Fair commission; Richard Lieber, director of the commission; Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair; and Meredith Nicholson, Hoosier novelist. A reception in the evening will be held by the Tri Kappa sorority, an Indiana philanthropic organization, in the Federal building.

Mary Frances Lininger of Indianapolis, chosen as "Miss Indiana" in a recent contest, arrived here yesterday by American Airways to participate in the Indiana day celebration.

Today Idaho day will be observed at the Fair, with honors being shared by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs and the Woodmen of the World. A program in the reception room of the Federal building will be the main event in the Idaho program.

Message from Idaho Governor.

The program will be held under the auspices of the Idaho Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, with addresses by the Rev. Michael Ryan and State Senator Donald Callahan of Wallace, Idaho. Miss Amy Villa will read telegraphic greetings from Gov. C. Ben Ross. Among those taking part in the ceremonies will be Mrs. Emma Yearian, representing the sheep ranching industry, and Miss Napina Handley, official representative of the mining industry.

With no feature program or special day observances yesterday, attendance at the Fair maintained an average in keeping with that of the last week. Admissions up to 11:30 o'clock totaled 110,400.

K. C. Helms, technical adviser to the transportation department of the Fair, yesterday completed a survey of the crowds at the Exposition which shows the peak attendance of the day to be reached at 4:30 p. m. during the week, 3:30 p. m. on Friday when Children's day is the feature attraction, and at 8:30 p. m. on Saturday and Sunday when the evening attractions draw the greatest crowd. At the peak of the day approximately 60 per cent of the total day's attendance is on the grounds. Other facts established were that the average visitor spends 5.8 hours on the grounds. The peak of the record day at the Fair, Jewish day, July 3, when 244,472 visitors attended, was reached at 7:30 p. m.

Police Ordered to Look Clean with Blue Shirts

All city policemen, according to an order issued yesterday by Commissioner Allman, will be required to appear in plain blue shirts in place of the conventional white. This is expected to make for a neater appearance, the commissioner declared, since the colored shirts will not show the dirt so easily.

CHILD BATHING QUEEN OF FAIR ILL IN HOSPITAL

Patricia Downs, 3 years old, who recently was crowned "Miss Enchanted Island" in a children's bathing beauty contest at A Century of Progress, is ill in Swedish Covenant hospital. She is the daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Jack Downs, 808 Washington street, Evanston.

At the hospital it was reported last night that Patricia's condition had improved considerably during the day. Dr. M. R. Browman, the physician in the case, declined to reveal the nature of her malady. Relatives at the home declared that the child's illness was diagnosed as "acidosis."

Patricia was in a children's day parade at the Exposition last Friday, became ill on Sunday and on Monday was taken to the hospital in a semi-coma, it was explained at the residence.

NIGHT CLUB SUES TALKIE FIRM FOR LIBEL IN LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 11.—Proceedings associated with the first libel action based on a talking film were heard in a court of appeal here today. It was a case of the Five Hundred club against British International Pictures, producers of the film "Let Me Explain, Dear."

Choice dialogue occurred in the film. A man directing a taxicab driver to take him to the Five Hundred club was warned by the latter:

"I hear as how 'tain't healthy, especially tonight, and when they raid these places they take the names and addresses."

The real Five Hundred club is located in Mayfair and claimed the film conversation was a reflection on its good name.

Men smile at my simple reasoning

Whenever the subject of cigarettes comes up, I sit back quietly and let the men explain about the "Toasting" process. Then, if they ask my opinion, I'm pretty frank and tell them why "Luckies please"—me, at least. After all, there's an intimate relationship between a cigarette and my lips—and I'm very sensitive about my personal daintiness. Certainly I enjoy Luckies' delicious tobaccos and their mellow-mildness—but the comforting purity of "Toasting" is what I prize almost above everything else. And that is a woman's reason for saying "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

TELLS HOW DOGS GUIDE THE BLIND TO A FREER LIFE

Founder of "Seeing Eye" Describes Work.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Buddy, 6½ years old, the first German shepherd dog brought to this country from Switzerland to be trained as a guide for the blind, made a public appearance with his master, Morris Frank, of Morristown, N. J., yesterday in the Illinois host building at A Century of Progress. The dog appeared on the stage of the auditorium at a meeting sponsored by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. He wore the specially constructed harness, which aids Frank, who is blind, in traveling about.

Frank is director of the Seeing Eye, Inc., at Morristown, which he was instrumental in founding in 1929 with Mrs. Harrison Eustis. The Seeing Eye was founded after Frank had spent four years studying the system of dog guides in Switzerland.

Plan Used in Germany.

"The dog guide is not a new idea," Frank told his audience. "It has been used in Germany since 1913, and 5,000 dogs are now working there. We now have 100 dogs working in the United States. You can tell them all by the 'U' shaped piece of harness on their backs.

"The dogs are carefully educated by seeing persons who have spent three to five years in training for the work. A seeing man can educate only 22 dogs a year. By next January we expect to have five instructors and within ten years we hope to have branch schools throughout the country.

"The dogs place the handicapped on a self-sustaining basis. With the dog as an infallible guide, a blind man can go where he wishes."

How Dogs are Trained.

Frank used motion pictures to show how the dogs are trained. First, they are taught obedience exercises, and then how to overcome the problems of the curbstone, stile, and automobile. The dogs learn to discriminate in height and width, to guide their masters or mistresses around frozen snow, to make decisions where obstacles block the path, and to follow behind when the master walks with a friend.

"Thus, the blind come from insecurity to security, from prison life to undreamed freedom," Frank said.

Dr. Lewis Carris, director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, told the progress in sight saving in the last 25 years. There are now 410 sight saving classes and laws governing sight in 39 states, he said.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Jewels worth millions of dollars on display in the General Exhibits building are guarded by Fair police and operatives from private detective agencies. Jack Randolph, manager of the building, said that these exhibits were more carefully policed than any others on the grounds.

Electrical engineers calculated yesterday that the 2,300,000 watts of electricity consumed every night in the illumination of the General Motors building would light a city of 7,500 inhabitants. The electricity used could pump water for a city of 25,000 inhabitants. Three hundred and fifty flood and projector lamps are included in the battery playing upon the building.

Inhabitants of the Midget village represent 14 nations besides the United States. The other nations are England, France, Belgium, Portugal, Spain, Finland, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Ireland, Scotland, Germany, Italy, and Hungary.

RAINBOW VETS HERE TO RELIVE THEIR WAR DAYS

Observe Anniversary of Battle of Champagne.

The days of July, 1918, in France, when the Rainbow division helped to halt the last great German advance at Champagne-Sur-Mer, will be revived by 1,000 veterans of the division when they meet to observe the fifteenth anniversary of the battle at the Hotel Sherman tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday.

All week the veterans have been gathering in the city. They congregate in groups to answer the question: "Who won the war?" and tell again of those days of furious fighting when the guns at Champagne opened a quarter of an hour before midnight on July 14, 1918.

Troops from 26 States.

The Rainbow division, officially the 42d, was so named because it was composed of National Guard troops from 26 states and the District of Columbia. Included in the roster were the 149th Illinois artillery, known as Reilly's Bucks, and the 169th New York infantry. The division was commanded by Maj. Gen. William A. Mann when it arrived in France in October, 1917. Later Maj. Gen. Charles T. Menoher was its commander.

A business meeting will be held at the Hotel Sherman on Thursday and the veterans will then spend the afternoon in the celebration of Rainbow day at the World's Fair. Another business meeting will be held on Friday, and another trip will be made to the Fair in the afternoon.

On Friday night the veterans will hold their annual banquet at the hotel. At 11:45 p. m. the veterans will rise and turn to the east in memory of their comrades who perished at Champagne.

A meeting Saturday morning for the election of officers will conclude the celebration. Col. Noble Brandon Judah of Chicago is national president of the association.

Speakers for the three day session include Maj. Gen. Douglas McArthur, chief of staff of the U. S. army; Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former chief of staff; Maj. Gen. George E. Leach, former mayor of Minneapolis; Col. William P. Screws of Alabama; Maj. Gen. Matthew A. Tinley of Iowa, and Col. William J. Donovan of New York.

SCHOOLBOY STARTS FOR CHICAGO'S FAIR; RUNS ENGINE; DELAYED

Milford, Conn., July 11.—[Special.]—His plan to run away and see the world plunged Charles Wycoski, 17, of the Naugatuck Junior High school, into a police cell. He is charged with stealing a locomotive, instead of making his trip to A Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

Starting from home Saturday with 35 cents, he walked the ties of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad toward New York. Last night he arrived just outside Milford, and slept outdoors.

This morning he found a locomotive, deserted while its engineer took a drink of water.

It wasn't a big engine and Charles finally found the right lever.

"Hey, you!" shouted the returning engineer. "Come back."

Charles and his engine were headed for a string of coal cars. Charles jumped safely. The engine hit the cars, derailed several, overturned.

"I always wanted to run an engine," Charles said. "I figured I could do it."

The Connecticut Light & Power company said the damage was only about $10,000.

NEW YORK GARBAGE DAMAGES BEACHES, SO 21 TOWNS PROTEST

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—Damages will be claimed by 21 New Jersey municipalities against New York City because of inability to use their beaches due to garbage dumped by New York, Duane E. Minard, assistant attorney general of New Jersey, said today at a hearing before Special Master Edward K. Campbell.

The hearings are being held at the request of New York City for stay of the order of the United States Supreme court forbidding the city to dump garbage at sea after June 1, 1933. The city asks an extension of the time to April 1, 1934. The state of New Jersey is the complainant.

Mr. Minard said the evidence of the damage done by garbage was being compiled by the New Jersey municipalities for submission at the hearing.

$30,000,000 LINCOLN BLDG. SOLD; $4,750,000

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—The fifty-three story Lincoln building on 42d street, opposite the Grand Central terminal, said to have cost $30,000,000, was sold for $4,750,000 at foreclosure today to Charles F. Batcheldor, chairman of the first mortgage bondholders' committee.

Five bids were made, the bondholders starting it at $3,200,000. Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing company, bid $4,000,000, which was raised to $4,250,000 by the bondholders. Mr. Dowling's last bid was $4,500,000.

The structure, tallest ever to come under the hammer, was sold to satisfy a lien of $17,250,635, obtained by the Chase National bank, as trustee of a mortgage issue, against the Lincoln Forty-Second Street corporation. Joseph P. Day sold the property under the direction of Cornelius J. Smyth, referee.

The building, originally assessed by the city this year at $19,250,000 and subsequently reduced to $17,000,000, was completed about four years ago.

SCIENCE FAVORS IMMUNIZING TO FIGHT HAY FEVER

Pollen from 200 Miles Away Causing Disease.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

This "hay fever" problem is not simple and it is not a joke. Taken as the scientific study of allurgy, or hypersensitiveness, as has been done at the school of medicine at the University of Illinois, it presents an astonishing array of possibilities.

In the first place assurance is given that hay fever is not caused by ragweed at this time of year, for the ragweed is not in bloom. It is due to four grasses which pollenize from June 1 to July 15—timothy, red top, orchard grass and June grass.

The fine powder may be blown from these grasses as far as 200 miles. On one slide the experimenters found pollen in Chicago that had come from Kentucky. The difficulty of clearing the Chicago air of pollen, when it may come from anywhere in the surrounding prairies, is therefore apparent.

Machines to Filter Air.

Filtration of air through cloth or cellulose is effective, especially at night, and there are machines on the market for this purpose.

The latest methods of treatment, however, consist in immunizing the individual by injection of a small dose of the particular pollen to which he is susceptible, and slowly increasing the doses until a resistance is established. In about 80 per cent of the cases relief is complete or partial. This treatment has to be repeated over a number of years, and has to be done carefully.

In the study of allurgy it has been found that there is a group of individuals who apparently inherit a tendency to become sensitive to some very harmless substance. This group is from 2 to 4 per cent of the population of the United States. Where there is a two sided family history of an allurgic condition there is a 70 per cent chance of developing this sensitiveness.

350 Causes of Trouble.

The symptoms of this condition may develop as hay fever, asthma, eczema, or hives, depending on whether it attacks the nose or skin. Pollen is only one of the substances that may cause it. There are 350 causes, ranging from eggs to poppy seed, including the orris root in face powder, dog hairs, cat hairs, feathers, and many other things harmless to the normal individual. Strawberries do not agree with some, hops are poison to others. These are all in the broad allurgic group.

The difference between hay fever and asthma is that one is the extension of the other. Hay fever is a protective mechanism. As this ability is lost the trouble goes deeper, and attacks more vital parts. About 60 per cent of those who have hay fever ultimately develop asthma.

Unless everybody cuts down successive crops of pollen bearing weeds within a radius of 200 miles of Chicago, or unless one can afford to manufacture a private supply of pure air, the advice of the school of medicine experts is to get immunized.

BRITISH ACTOR DIVORCES WIFE TOO BROKE TO SUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 11.—In order "to interfere before anything worse happens," Justice Langton today granted a divorce to Derek Oldham, singer and actor, from his wife, Winifred Melville Oldham, singer and actress. She is now en route to the United States for a series of professional engagements which, according to her counsel, she is obliged to fill before funds are available to present her case in court.

She left London, however, in the face of a decision by the judge and against advice of her counsel. This left the field free for counter charges by Derek Oldham, who alleged cruelty.

Witnesses testified that his wife once struck Derek on the head and that his eardrum was injured. The actress had said that the stage opportunities in the United States were more important than whether she or her husband won the divorce case.

STATE, COUNTY, AND CITY WAR ON CANADA THISTLE

600 Men on Relief Rolls Put to Work in Chicago.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A statewide campaign to eradicate Canada thistles which spread rapidly and destroy crops, was extended into Chicago and nearby areas this week through coöperation of city, county and state officials. Under the Illinois weed law property owners who permit the thistles to go to seed are subject to fines of from $10 to $300.

The campaign is being waged in Chicago by the bureau of streets under orders of Mayor Kelly. Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, yesterday reported to officials of the state department of agriculture charged with enforcement of the weed law that 600 unemployed men furnished by the state emergency relief commission are removing the thistles from vacant lots and parkways throughout the city. Twenty-five city trucks are being used to haul away the thistles after they are mowed or grubbed out.

Farmers Work in County Forests.

The campaign also is being waged in the county forest preserves, under direction of Charles G. Sauers, superintendent. Previous to the calls for assistance from farmers in the storm stricken areas of the county, Sauers had 1,000 men from the relief rolls getting rid of the thistles on county prperty. Now farmers with equipment who work in the forest preserve district cutting and burning the thistles are repaid by being allowed to cut hay from meadowlands in the preserves. Permits are issued by Mr. Sauers upon instructions from Emmett Whealan, president of the forest preserve board, to wage a constant war on the illegal weeds.

Thistle commissioners have been appointed in Du Page, Lake, Will, Grundy, Kane, and other northern Illinois counties, according to A. C. Wilson, chief seed analyst of the state, who has been assigned by the state department of agriculture to direct the campaign. These commissioners are now serving legal notices upon owners to rid their property of thistles at once.

Spray Weed with Chemicals.

Failure to do so will cause the thistle commissioners to cut the weeds and charge the owners for it. In some localities the commissioners are equipped with pressure sprayers with which to apply chemicals to the weed infested areas. Since the thistles spread by roots as well as seeds, it is necessary to kill them by constant plowing, by use of chemicals or by close mowing with a machine which takes every leaf from the plant.

FAIR VISITOR'S AUTO STOLEN.

Miss Margaret Kohlenbrand, 724 West 24th street, Des Moines, Ia., a Fair visitor, reported to the police yesterday that her automobile was stolen during the night from in front of 18 East Elm street, where she is staying with a friend.

METHODIST LEADERS HEAR PLEA TO PRESS CAUSE OF MISSIONS

Despite a certain disfavor among laymen against present foreign missionary enterprises, Protestant churches will continue to press missions work. This determination was set forth last night by Prof. W. D. Schermerhorn of Garrett Biblical institute as he spoke before the annual meeting of the world service commission of the Methodist Episcopal church in session at the North Shore hotel, Evanston.

"We have gone too far in our missionary projects to turn back," Dr. Schermerhorn declared. "Many motives urge us to the Christian world mission. Among these are the world's needs, the greed of the world, and it is amid so much that is selfish that we must have a kinder approach to the peoples of the world."

Late yesterday Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago area was elected president of the commission. The Rev. James E. Skellington, of Altoona, Pa., was elected secretary. Dr. Orrin W. Auman, treasurer of the commission, reported last year's income for all world service projects to have fallen off more than 26 per cent from the previous year. Dr. Auman reported that the total income of the commission for the year ending June 1 was $3,537,887.20.

Attorneys will seek to settle the matter out of court, it was reported.

Morris, Illinois state manager.

Portugal's Budget Shows Surplus for Fifth Year

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LISBON, Portugal, July 11.—Portugal's budget, presented today by the finance minister, shows a surplus for the fifth consecutive year, despite the fact that taxes on buildings of all kinds are to be reduced 10 per cent. The colonies of Cape Verde, Portuguese Mozambique, and Goa also show surpluses. The entire government receipts are 2,214,000,000 escudos [about $97,416,000], while expenses total 2,212,000,000.

BUSINESS GAINS BRING BIG DROP IN RELIEF COSTS

Show 25 Pct. Decrease Since March 1.

The upswing in business is reflected in a marked decline in relief expenditures in Cook county, Joseph L. Moss, director of the county bureau of public welfare, revealed yesterday. Since March 1 the amount expended by Illinois Emergency Relief commission through the bureau has dropped 25.6 per cent and the number of persons receiving relief has decreased 12 per cent.

In addition to improved conditions, the decline in relief was attributed to a more intensive survey of applicants and the law providing punishment for persons who make false claims in appealing for aid, Mr. Moss said. He declared the next few months will bring an even greater curtailment of the relief rolls.

Shows Decrease in Cost.

The following table prepared by Moss shows the decrease in relief costs and also the number of cases on the relief rolls in the various months of the period covered:

Month.	Expenditure.	Cases.
March	$4,887,604	178,634
April	4,649,492	177,337
May	4,046,972	169,919
June	3,609,950	148,743

In approximately 75 per cent of the cases dropped from the rolls members of the family receiving relief obtained employment. Of approximately 7,500 other cases dropped, frauds and misrepresentations were corrected.

Staff Is Now Adequate.

"Decreases for fraud and misrepresentation will now become more easy to make," Mr. Moss said. "For the first time in several years we have a staff sufficiently large to cope with the number of new applications. These have dropped from 24,443 to 9,501.

"We will also be able to make a survey of cases now receiving relief to discover any underserving persons. Of course, as industrial conditions continue to improve marked reductions will naturally follow."

NEW YORK CITY WILL SLASH PAY OF 75,000 EMERGENCY WORKERS

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—As a result of the city's financial stringency, pay of 75,000 emergency workers will be cut in amounts ranging from $4.50 to $16 a month, according to the type of work they are doing, the emergency work commission has notified the five borough presidents. The average pay of these relief workers is $50 a month.

Meanwhile some 10,000 workers on the emergency pay rolls are waiting for pay that was due them last week, but not available because the board of estimate failed to appropriate the $3,000,000 needed for the city's share of July relief funds.

JUDGE PROMISES HELLER RECOUNT IN BENCH FIGHT

Judge E. M. Mangan of Aurora, sitting in the County court, indicated yesterday that he will sign an order for a recount of ballots in the election contest brought by former Municipal Judge Samuel Heller against Judge Erwin J. Hasten.

Hasten, the lowest of the successful candidates in the November election, led Heller by 262 votes in the official canvass.

Tally sheets were introduced showing errors which cost Heller enough votes in three precincts to have beaten Hasten.

In another Municipal court election contest County Judge Jarecki said that he will assign another judge to rule on 1,000 disputed ballots resulting from a recount obtained by former Municipal Judge Charles F. McKinley. McKinley is seeking the seat of Judge George V. McIntyre, who beat him by 2,300 votes in the official returns of the 1930 election. After the recount McKinley led McIntyre by 100 votes, with the 1,000 ballots in dispute.

TWO DEATHS, CROP DAMAGE IN SOUTHWEST

Kansas City, Mo., July 11.—(AP)—Record temperatures ranging as high as 115 degrees were blamed for two deaths and increased the possible extent of crop failures in the drouth stricken southwest today.

Physicians said heat caused the death of William Teuber, 60, San Diego, Cal., found dead in his motor car north of Perry, Okla.

Joe Paschal, 50, peddler, died of heat prostration at Oklahoma City, where the maximum was 106. There K. D. Blood and S. L. Bryan, federal crop statisticians, predicted complete failure of the corn crop unless the drouth ends immediately.

Oklahoma City had 106, tying the heat record for July in 1914. Henryetta, Okla., reported 112, Ada, 108, and McAlester, 107. Durant had a high of 109.

Vernon, Tex., where 115 was recorded, passed its twenty-first consecutive day of 100 degree weather. Today's mark was the season's highest there.

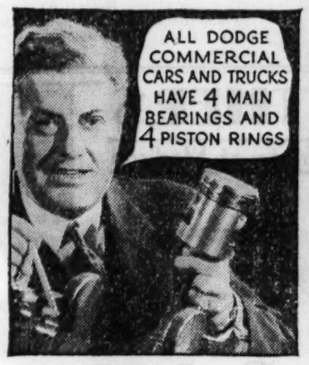
DODGE OFFERS PROOF THAT IT PAYS TO FORGET CLAIMS AND LOOK AT FACTS WHEN YOU BUY A LOW-PRICED TRUCK

IT'S the easiest thing in the world to make claims about a low-priced truck. Now Dodge—one of America's pioneer manufacturers of fine trucks—invites you to forget claims and "sales talk" and to judge truck values for yourself on a basis of cold hard facts. No matter how much or how little you may know about trucks—Dodge is confident, that the new, low-priced, 6-cylinder models will prove their advantages to you . . . will sell themselves to you, strictly on their own merits. Then, when you know the facts, Dodge gladly leaves the decision up to your own intelligence.

NO VALVE GRINDING FOR 30,000 MILES AND MORE . . . Think of the time and money saved! Valve Seat Inserts also save gas and improve performance because they make valves seat better. A simple invention, yet it gives a tremendous advantage.

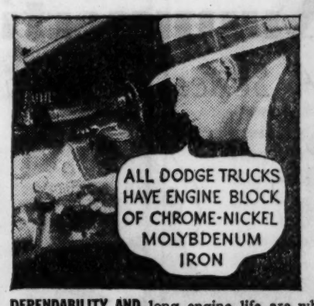


LOWER UPKEEP COSTS and better performance are always guaranteed by better construction! Dodge Commercial Cars and Trucks have four main crankshaft bearings instead of the 3 bearings usually found in low-priced models . . . have 4 rings on each piston, instead of the usual 3, and the result is better engine performance.

LONGER LIFE AND greater economy of operation . . . of course your Commercial Car or Truck engine will give more and better miles if every bearing (not just part of them) is oiled under pressure with clean, filtered lubricant.

STOP QUICK, SAFE, SURE—Hydraulic Brakes are always equalized, work smoother. That's why you can stop a Dodge Truck with so little effort. No ordinary pressed steel brake drums here—Dodge uses genuine Cast Iron brake drums on Trucks and centrifuse brake drums on Commercial Cars for long, even wear.

POWER PLUS ECONOMY—Here's another advantage that Dodge gives you, even in the lowest priced trucks. Dodge uses a Full-Floating Rear Axle—it's far more sturdy, the most efficient way to transfer power to the drive wheels, more economical because service is reduced to a minimum.



DEPENDABILITY AND long engine life are what you want, and this Dodge Engine Block of special, expensive alloy, is amazingly durable.

6-CYLINDER—1½-TON CHASSIS—131" wheelbase, extra deep channel frame, has all the mechanical advantages pictured above plus many more. Astonishing low price . . . only $490, F. O. B. Factory, Detroit (Dual Wheels and bumpers extra.)

EVERY Dodge Truck has all of the high-quality features shown here—features you might expect to find in trucks costing two and three times as much. New Dodge models actually have over two dozen advantages that mean positive savings to you every mile you operate your truck. Only when you know the facts about today's truck values can you make every truck dollar do its full duty—make it buy the maximum value. Whatever kind of truck you intend to buy . . . at whatever price, even the lowest—spend ten minutes with your Dodge dealer and learn what amazing advancements Dodge now offers you.

LONDON PARLEY PASSES ANOTHER CRISIS; MOVES ON

New Program Approved; MacDonald Happy.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 11.—"We've put this conference on its feet again and are going on to success," said Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, president of the world economic parley, this afternoon in conversation with this correspondent.

The prime minister had just left a meeting of the conference steering committee at which arrangements were made to continue the conference for at least two more weeks, with probable adjournment at the close of July until September or October.

The British leader was bubbling over with optimism and was evidently greatly relieved at the solution of the crisis, through which the conference has been passing this last week.

To Discuss Commercial Debts.

The steering committee only met a half hour this afternoon and received reports from the drafting committees appointed yesterday. It was decided that the monetary and financial subcommission No. 1 should proceed immediately to discussion of the subject of international commercial indebtedness. This does not include war debts.

Another recommendation was accepted which said that monetary subcommission No. 2 "Should take up resolutions already adopted by its sub-committees on central banking cooperation and on creation of central banks in certain countries where they do not exist, and should pursue through its sub-committees examination of the question of silver and any other subject on its agenda which may by general agreement be considered suitable for discussion."

French Are Jubilant.

The French were jubilant over what they consider a great triumph in getting the steering committee to rule out controversial monetary discussions. Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, tonight indicated that he attaches the highest importance to that phase of the agreement whereby no financial matters dependent on the stability of exchanges would be discussed unless there is general agreement to that effect. This guarantees the French against any unpleasant surprises. Bonnet will leave for Paris tomorrow, returning to London about the middle of next week.

Most of the technical subcommittees resumed work today and from now on the work of the conference will be concentrated in them. The most interesting discussion today was centered in on the subcommission on coordination of production and marketing. A heated debate whether wine was intoxicating or not was staged. The commission was discussing the report of its subcommittee on wine which recommended a "drink more wine" propaganda campaign throughout the world.

A Swedish delegate objected to this. He said his country favored higher taxes and greater restriction for prohibitionist reasons. Sir G. Rainey of India said the attitude of the Indian public made it impossible for the Indian government to countenance any propaganda for the increased consumption of intoxicants.

Resents Intoxication Reference.

This brought Dr. Vasconcellos of Portugal to his feet. He declared that he resented both as a representative of a wine growing country and as a medical man the reference to wine as an intoxicant. Wine, he said, is food and has medicinal qualities. He demanded to know where the conference would stop if it barred all products which are injurious when taken to excess. Gold, if abused, he said, is much more dangerous than wine.

In the debate which followed, the Moslem countries and Scandinavians lined up against wine propaganda, while M. Douarche of France tried to obtain adoption of a compromise praising wine but condemning its use in excess. Finally the chairman sidestepped the issue by adjourning the debate until the texts of the various resolutions were drafted.

Meanwhile, Russians took advantage of the resumption of the conference to inject a dose of their usual realism. They demanded that the conference proceed to discuss an economic nonaggression pact and an extension of import possibilities to various countries. The Russians made side references to the lack of interest taken in Russia's offer of immense orders for exporting countries if the credit terms were suitable.

Mussolini Seeks Russian Treaty of Nonaggression

ROME, July 11.—(AP)—Diplomatic circles learned today that Italy is negotiating a nonaggression treaty with soviet Russia similar to the Franco-Soviet pact. Premier Mussolini received Ambassador Kursky from Moscow and talked with him upon "political problems," a communique said.

GERMANY TURNS THUMBS DOWN ON RADICAL NAZIS

Hitler Orders States to Fire "Commissars."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 11.—"Any attempt to sabotage the German revolution such as interference with the state in control of business and industry will be punished severely, or at least by protective arrest, regardless of the position of the person committing the act of sabotage."

This strong warning was issued today by Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior, in a letter of instruction to governors of German states. The governors were ordered to enforce perfect discipline.

The government expects that this warning will end activities of small groups of Nazi sympathizers who have been acting with state orders in an effort to "accelerate the revolution."

No Second Revolution.

"The victorious German revolution has entered a state of evolution," Frick said. "There will be no second revolution and any discussion of a second revolution will be considered opposition to the chancellor. Such remarks will be regarded as sabotage. Now that the power lies in the hand of the government led by Hitler alone, it will strengthen its spiritual and economic foundations."

Frick ordered the state governors to withdraw all special comissars appointed by the Nazis "since the government itself is fully able to take care of all duties without the help of comissars." Almost unlimited powers are possessed by the commissars. Those extra-state officials who do not willingly withdraw will be placed under protective arrest.

Will Shake Up Party.

Reorganization of the Nazi party itself and the weeding out of all elements which are not absolutely loyal to Hitler was announced by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, in Der Angriff, official Nazi organ.

"Hundreds of thousands have joined the Naiz party in recent months," he said. "This does not mean they are all Hitler soldiers. We shall keep the good timber and expel those who cannot be used until we again have an organization of tremendous striking power as in the days when we were the opposition."

Hitler's popularity is so great among his followers that many of them attempted to name their babies Hitlerine or Hitlerike. The government today forbade the use of the name Hitler or any variation thereof as the first name for babies.

Meanwhile, the new constitution framed to unite all branches of the Protestant church was accepted by state appointed representatives here. It was announced that the constitution will be used to end the conflict between the different Protestant groups, especially in Prussia.

"Negotiations for this purpose will open at the ministry of interior tomorrow and will be ended satisfactorily in the course of a week," Frick said.

It is reported that the constitution was accepted without consulting former Bishop Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, who was ousted as head of the Protestant organization by the Nazis after having defeated the Nazi German Christian candidate in an election.

Nazi student leaders today proclaimed that a "rigid discipline and a soldierly spirit must prevail in universities from now on."

Special student professional corporations will be created. One of their tasks will be to organize a boycott to eliminate professors "unable to teach in German universities because they do not understand the new spirit, which is not aiming at a humanist culture of the private citizen, but calls for a political education and the formation of a political student body."

A student's exclusion from the professional corporation will mean exclusion from the university.

The Westdeutsche Beobachter, a Nazi organ, today said that the former mayor of Cologne, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, committed high treason in 1919 by endeavoring to create a neutral Rhineland state. The newspaper demands Adenauer be placed on trial.

"BACK TO INCAS!" SLOGAN NOW IN SOUTH AMERICA

Radicals Go Out for 'Indo-Americanism.'

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 11.—The South American radical movement is developing two schools of thought which will sooner or later be brought into collision. The resulting conflict may decide the political future of the continent. One school favors a foreign directed communist government, violent in character. The other believes in a native state socialism.

Moscow directed propaganda and in many cases Russian citizens themselves have been the mainspring of attacks on constitutional government in Argentina, Uruguay, Chile, Peru, and Bolivia. Although none has been successful, the attacks left their mark on national economy for years.

This wing of South American radicalism, however, is not so powerful as that which spurns foreign assistance and seeks its justification in purely South American history. The latter is state socialism and its advocates, who are found in political parties of every country south of Panama, are known as Indo-Americans. There are numerous references to Indo-Americanism in the press and the movement appears to be thriving.

Look to Ancestors.

Indo-Americanism means just what the word suggests—that South Americans, whose chief pride has been that they are white and of an occidental civilization, are now taking stock of the achievements of their ancestry.

The Indo-American movement in Chile has penetrated some of the historic political parties of the left and linked with groups of militant intellectualism. These elements trace their origins as far as the "glorious barbarisms" of Mexico and Peru to justify their political brand.

In Prescott's classic accounts of the ancient civilizations in Mexico and Peru, which in all probability existed totally ignorant of one another, Indo-Americans sense the solution of the economic collapse of their countries. They are consequently groping among the ancient Incas of Peru for a modern economic program.

Admire Inca Abilities.

Indo-Americans give the Incas credit for constructive statesmanship. They credit a long line of rulers, from Manco Capac to Atahualpa, with having extended their culture and benefits over a vast region that today, after four centuries of European influence, seems to be incapable of assuring the welfare of a population not much larger than before the coming of the Spanish "conquistadores."

It is certain that the Incas conquered and colonized far south into Chile, built a road uniting the province with their capital Cuzco, taught the native Indians the elements of irrigation and the cultivation of maize, and definitely raised their "standard of living." Every man, woman, and child was assured of food, clothing, and shelter.

Indo-Americanism, as expressed in its political tenets, means, first of all, India-America for the Indo-Americans. The land and the substance thereof must be divided among the people, as in the days of the Incas. To avoid a violent departure from modern political evolution there will be expropriation by the government, but it is laid down that there must be definite limits to compensation, both in time and money.

TOBEY
Lake at Michigan

More outstanding than ever is the Tobey reputation for fine furniture, built by 77 years of continuous family ownership and management. Our six floors have the widest selections of up-to-date fine furniture to be seen in all Chicago.

And because we have gone forward to meet the New Era with a common-sense low cost method of retailing, our prices are invariably lower.

Upholstered French Beds

Formerly $100

A group of French beds, just received, is a convincing demonstration of our ability to sell the finest furniture for less. Prices begin at $55 as compared to $100, heretofore the lowest price at which beds of this character could be sold.

The frames were hand carved in Europe and finished and upholstered by a fine American shop. They are one of the best values we have ever had and with the present ratio between the franc and dollar the prices are even more startling.

The bed shown at the top is an example of the most refined of the French periods, its graceful curves completely satisfying the most educated taste. In antique white, with upholstered head and footboard and finely detailed side rails. Twin size.

The next bed reveals the full richness of the Louis XV style. The upholstered headboard is gracefully curved and lavishly ornamented with hand carving, repeated in the interesting foot and sides. In antique white with carving in gold. Full size. A model that formerly sold for $400. Now $165.

Studio Couches

$19.75

This couch can be used either as a full size bed or as two twin beds with innerspring mattresses. The two pillows are included in the price, making an attractive couch. We show a wide selection of studio couches.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE PURCHASE OF THE SANITARY CANAL.

The proposal to sell the drainage canal to the federal government has now been made officially by Trustee Howard Elmore of the sanitary board. Mr. Elmore has suggested that 100 million dollars is a fair price. In a closely reasoned paper he has called attention to the fact that the decree of the federal Supreme court in the diversion case has deprived the canal of its usefulness in carrying away the city's wastes, and accordingly the canal's value in future will be confined to transportation. Waterways of national importance have always been regarded as a responsibility of the federal government. The government has spent hundreds of millions in constructing channels in the great lakes and the rivers. It built the Panama canal and bought the Cape Cod canal, to mention only a few examples. Our sanitary canal is a link of incalculable value in the nation's waterway system and it is almost the only important waterway in the country toward the construction of which the government has contributed nothing.

With every wish to comply with the federal court's decree, the sanitary district has been unable to get the money needed to build the sewage treatment works required. The competence of the state to come to Chicago's assistance in the matter is open to question. The federal government has ample resources voted for public works by the last congress, and if it uses a hundred million to buy the sanitary canal the money will be available at once for the treatment plants.

Mr. Elmore properly presented his plan as a party issue. He is the only Republican on the sanitary board. His associates are all Democrats. So, too, are the majority of the Illinois congressional delegation and both senators from Illinois. The national administration is Democratic. If, with that setup, the Democrats cannot obtain just treatment of Chicago and Illinois from the federal government they deserve to be held responsible for their failure.

SECRETS OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

One after another the archives of the European nations engaged in the war were thrown open for study by historical scholars, but our state department has shown no comparable willingness to disclose its secrets. This point has been made in these columns before and it has generally been followed by some one's statement that the documents are being edited for publication. If that is indeed the fact it is singular that the work has progressed as slowly as it has.

Republican and Democratic administrations have come and gone and still a good many mysteries regarding foreign relations in the Wilson administration remain. Three of them may be taken as typical.

Why did the United States mobilize the National Guard on the Mexican border in 1916? Was it, in reality, the fear of invasion by a well-armed Mexican force made up largely of veterans of Mexican revolutionary battles? If that invasion was planned, was it fomented by Germany to keep us from active participation in Europe? If that was the belief in Washington, were there any substantial reasons for holding it? Or was the mobilization merely an excuse for training a force which even at that time Mr. Wilson had every intention of sending to France as soon as he could induce congress to declare war?

Again, why was an American force sent to Archangel after the Russian revolution? If the purpose was, indeed, to protect the army stores accumulated there from falling into the hands of the Reds, our soldiers should never have been landed because the stores had already been seized when our troops arrived. Was President Wilson merely attempting to strengthen his hand at the peace conference by participating in every war he could find? Or was he engaged, as the bolshevik apologists have maintained, in a joint operation of the capitalist powers to crush bolshevism in its infancy by simultaneous attacks on half a dozen fronts?

Many of the same questions go unanswered with respect to our other Russian expedition, the Siberian venture. Did our government really care what happened to the Czech army which we were supposed to be extricating, and, if so, why? Were we, as has sometimes been charged, concerned to prevent the expedition into Siberia from becoming a purely Japanese affair with the possible consequences of Japanese territorial acquisitions in Siberia? And if not that, then what?

There can be little reason for preserving secrecy in these matters after all these years. Such official explanations as were made at the time are altogether unsatisfactory. The American people, who in theory are sovereign, have, in fact, been kept in darkness as profound as any which has ever surrounded the foreign relations of the czars and the commissars. It is time the curtain were lifted. Some reputations may be shadowed by the truth, but, if so, they ought to be shadowed. The men who direct our foreign policy ought to suffer scorn and humiliation if they sacrificed American lives and money without adequate cause. If these mobilizations and expeditions had any sound justification it is high time the facts were known. Certainly the preservation of secrecy leaves more than a suspicion that the state department has reason for concealing the truth.

ICKES ON GUARD.

The assignment of Secretary of the Interior Ickes as director of public works and therefore as final censor, under the President, of course, of the enormous expenditure projected, is taken as evidence that the President does not intend to give up the distribution of the vast sums appropriated to the normal processes of politics. Secretary Ickes was active in the Progressive party movement and has taken an interest as a citizen in politics, in recent years as a friend and associate of Hiram Johnson, whose influence is presumed to have procured his appointment to be secretary of the interior. But Mr. Ickes has no known entanglements with professional politics and it is reasonable to expect that he will be less easily swayed by political favoritism and less willing to gratify the appetite for pork than an insider of the party game. His personal integrity is unquestioned and his political activities have seemed governed by public spirit.

In his new responsibility he will have as difficult a task as any in the administration, perhaps the most difficult. He will be exposed to persistent and powerful pressure. The fund available to the pork barrel is beyond the most glorious dreams of the spoilsman. Every ounce of its influence will be directed by politics to obtain a share of loot.

Corruption has been the outstanding factor in all public works and enterprises. In the federal government corruption has taken the form of appropriations for utterly valueless works and there has been little criticism of the honesty of the contracting. Locally the projects have mainly been desirable and the corruption has been in the construction.

Secretary Ickes as a resident of Chicago knows how this city has been bled so white by federal taxes for worthless projects at Boulder dam and elsewhere that it cannot pay its own employés. He has also seen corruption at work at the Boulevard bridge and other Thompson projects. He is therefore well equipped to turn down the pork spoilsmen on the one hand and the contractor spoilsmen on the other.

SALOONS.

A correspondent recently called attention to the regulations governing the sale of beer in South Carolina. There, he said, a flat excise tax is placed upon the product amounting to 2 cents a bottle, with a corresponding tax on beer in barrels. No license fees are collected from those who sell beer. Therefore it is sold widely in drug stores, at gas stations, in grocery stores, restaurants, and even in beauty parlors. If any one wants to set up an establishment where only beer is sold he is, of course, at liberty to do so. In short, if the people of South Carolina want their beer in saloons they can have it so, but the state is not making saloons inevitable by a licensing policy.

This is a sound policy which should have been followed in Illinois and in Chicago. The beer now on the market is a pleasant and harmless drink. Taken in anything like moderation its intoxicating effects are nonexistent or negligible. The consumption of beer is far more likely to be in moderation if beer is merely one item of many which the seller has to offer his customers. The store which sells nothing but beer profits directly in proportion to the amount of beer sold and the proprietor is therefore under pressure to dispense as much to each customer as he can. That is not true of the druggist, the grocer, and the gas station or restaurant proprietor. They have other things to sell and regard beer as merely another profitable item to be placed in stock, but they cannot afford to stock it when the license fee is too high.

If any community wants beer saloons it can have them under the excise system, but they must exist in competition with other dispensaries. The license system which we have encourages the saloon, and the higher the license is placed the more probable it becomes that the saloon will be vicious.

With the return of hard liquor expectable within a few months these considerations should be carefully weighed by legislators and the local governments.

Editorial of the Day

SMITH ON ROOSEVELT PROGRAM.

[State Journal, Lansing, Mich.]

Extraordinary is a weak word when applied to the program which President Roosevelt demanded and obtained from congress.

There appear to be two attitudes concerning that program. One is that it must be accepted, silently and without question, and blind allegiance given to it. The other attitude is that, like any other governmental program, it may be examined and discussed frankly.

There is a disposition with some to allege that any one who examines the extraordinary Roosevelt plan at all frankly is a die hard Republican and partisan obstructionist. Indeed, a letter was printed in this paper a week or so ago in which the writer laid down that view.

But the State Journal for its part thinks it will be a sorry day for America when any public program or any public servant may not be frankly discussed.

So it is reassuring to have such a sound Democrat as the Hon. Alfred E. Smith take the position that the Roosevelt program may be discussed and even subjected to opposition. It deserves to be remembered that Alfred E. Smith was three times governor of New York and poller of the high vote in the Democratic party until some seven million voters who had customarily voted with the Republicans went over to President Roosevelt. It is pretty difficult to wholly discount Alfred E. Smith as a Democrat.

Alfred E. Smith, in his magazine, the New Outlook, in its current number, frankly says he cannot understand how the national industrial recovery act can possibly work. He says he has never hesitated to extend government control over such activities as appeared needing such control, but he adds that the Roosevelt act goes beyond anything his imagination can follow.

In conclusion Mr. Smith says maybe we have reached a new era in which the government must run everything, but he adds, "I hope not, because I do not want to see this land sink to a dead level in which we shall all be public servants working under political control." "If that happens," he adds, "we shall have sold our American birthright for a mess of communistic pottage."

That is precisely what the State Journal has been saying. It has even used that expression within recent weeks about selling out for a "mess of pottage." What the political implications may be the State Journal does not care, but it believes with Alfred E. Smith that the extraordinary program of President Roosevelt should be frankly, fearlessly, and openly discussed.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"SAMUEL INSULL Will Study Greek in Athens."—Foreign cable. It would have been so much better for one and all if Samuel had studied Greek while he was in Chicago instead of selling bonds.

THE ENGLISH POUND was reported yesterday as being within four cents of its normal value, while the American dollar had slipped down to 68 cents and a fraction and seemed to be poised somewhat uncertainly with one foot on a banana peel and the other in an open grave. Well, it taught me a lesson; I'm going to quit sneering at Canadian dimes.

"PERCH, CATFISH, AND ALLIGATOR Caught by One Bait Cast by South Carolina Fisherman."—A. P. If South Carolina would only quit going out of the Union and devote herself to fish stories, how much happier the world would be!

APOLOGIA.

If I should go, by the forbidden way,
Take all my life in hand and cut it short,
Leaving the darkness of the smoke-filled court
To find in death a clearer night or day:
The happy folk would shake their heads and say
I cared too much for honor and report,
Felt myself high above their humble sort;
And shake their placid heads and go their way.

Of their sharp words—there will be many such—
This thing at least will not be true of me;
For I have loved this stranger world too much,
Planted my heart here as one plants a tree,
And leave it as one longing to be free
From some fair thing that he can never touch.

MERRIDY PRESTON.

THEY'VE PUT UNEMPLOYED MEN at work fighting the mosquitoes along the Des Plaines river and in the Skokie valley. Which is a fine thing, but I want to warn the fighters that their methods of warfare must be different in these two areas. The Des Plaines mosquito can be readily killed by a determined man armed only with a ball bat and a pistol. But the Skokie mosquito is a much more vicious brute than his Des Plaines cousin. The only way to kill a Skokie mosquito must be the method used in New Jersey. The mosquito should be stunned by a strong blow with a heavy mallet and then his head should be chopped off with an ax. In New Jersey they use a buzzsaw, and after the mosquito has been knocked unconscious he is dragged to the sawmill and decapitated; but the machinery is expensive, and a handy man with an ax can do the job neatly after a little experience.

BESIDE ME ON THE BUS.

Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?
Sure!
Or a winter's night, or anything trite,
And stale as the powder that flours the face,
Artificial as bargain-counter lace;
Dull as a movie-goer's patter,
Banal as noonday town street chatter;
High-colored, low-necked, jackdaw femme,
Fair in thy setting, a city gem.

DUTCH PLONER'S ASSISTANT.

HONESTLY, do you know all these long accounts of divorces which are so numerous these days get very boring? Why not run divorces in a column by themselves, the same as is done in births, deaths, and the stock market? Like this:

DIVORCES

HOOPLESNAKE—Lee, Virginia. New York. Social register. She ate crackers in bed. Friends of Mr. Hooplesnake will kindly omit flowers.

DAZZLEBUG—Cuthbert, Lucinda. Hollywood. He got more fan mail last year than she did.

DASHAROUND—Clarence, Dolly Ann. Chicago via Reno. Clarence will have nothing in the house but Milwaukee 3.2, while Dolly Ann wants only St. Louis beer.

FLITTERFLUTTER — Percival, Eloise. At Reno. He lost his coin.

COUPONCUTTERS — Harold, Millicent. Philadelphia. At Reno. She trumped his ace.

HOGGLENOGGLE—Elmo, Maud. Chicago. At Reno. Biffed her in the snoot.

BY THY RIVERS proudly flowing, Illinoy, Illinoy, Every one of which is wet, Illinoy, Illinoy; By thy great unsalted sea, which is damp as damp can be; You have voted for repeal, You have asked for a new deal, Like your rivers and your lake you are wet, Illinoy, Like your rivers and your lake, Illinoy.

"THIRTY-TWO REPUBLICANS from Eight States Plan to Recapture States Swept by Roosevelt."—La Trib. Thirty-two? Is it possible! I wouldn't think offhand that there were that many left.

CEREMONY.

There where the flaming sun goes down to die, dripping bright blood from day's hot wounds, and weary,
there where the bats have not yet come to fly,
there where the hushing wind is slow and eerie, go I to bury my dead, my long-cherished long-dead.
Gently I walk and respectfully bow down my head.

The forest behind me, the clearing at last at my feet,
the whole world around me so quiet, the grasses not moving, the heart in my breast strangely happy and even in beat though watching interment of all it had reason for loving,
I stand now to chant for my dead. I ask why, then, my singing is cadenced with promise of rebirth, is joyous and ringing!

TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING

It is generally accepted that most young people have just about the minimum amount of lime necessary for safety. The food experts warn us of the need of giving young people foods rich in calcium or lime. As a measure of guarding against rickets and infections by the microbes of colds and bronchitis, to prevent spasms and general nerve on-edgeness, as a protection against tooth decay, and to promote the growth of bone, we are advised to give young persons more of foods rich in calcium. Sometimes we are advised to expose children to sunlight, and to give them such medicines as cod liver oil, in order to promote the absorption of lime and its use by the tissues.

On the other hand there are conditions in which too much lime in the body becomes a source of harm. Almost all of these too-much lime conditions relate to older people, and some of them to the aged.

There is a condition of the blood vessels in which large lime plates are found in the walls. This is called atheroma. It is the principal cause of the most frequently encountered form of apoplexy, that due to a break in a blood vessel of the brain. This condition of the blood vessel wall is frequently found in the very large artery, called the aorta. It is often the cause of aneurysm. It is often noted in the artery of the heart, the coronary, and when there is a cause of angina.

Dr. Aschoff says the atheroma process starts because of two factors: One, the loss of elasticity of tissues due to age; the other, eating foods that are overly rich in cholesterol. Having started, the next step is the laying down of lime plates, as stated.

Old people get stiff and creaky joints, just as their arteries become atheromatous. This is because of too much lime in the structures of the joints. There is a comparatively rare disease in which nodules of lime and plaques of lime are deposited in the skin and the tissues just below it, and in the muscles.

A treatment for cases of this kind has been made use of by Dr. Kennedy, with enough success to satisfy the patient at least. It consists in keeping the patient on a ketogenic diet for a year, or such a matter. He based the treatment on an observation by other physicians, that persons with acidosis would not have good bony union after fractures. The bones do not knit well if the body is a little short on lime. These cases of combined fracture and acidosis were in a state of low lime balance because the acids robbed the tissues of lime and carried it away. Under this observation, people with fractures should eat fruits and vegetables, cheese and milk, to get good union. Applying this observation, Dr. Kennedy sought to get rid of the lime plates in the skin of his patient by feeding him butter, oils and fats, and allowing only a small amount of oatmeal, potatoes, vegetables, and fruits. A good part of the lime plates in his patient's skin disappeared within a year.

Even if this procedure would cause lime plates to disappear from the arteries of people with atheroma and a tendency to apoplexy, aneurysm, and angina, the procedure would probably do more harm than good. The lime is laid down in the old arteries in such cases for the purpose of strengthening the weak spots. The basic harm was done prior to the laying down of the lime plates. It was there when the fibers were losing their elasticity, and the food was overrich in cholesterol.

The use of ketogenic diet as a means of overcoming stiff and creaky joints might be another matter.

ONE IS MENTAL.

W. H. R. writes: My wife is 54 years old and has been in failing health for about a year. She may have multiple sclerosis and anxiety neurosis. Is there any cure for these conditions?

REPLY.

Multiple sclerosis is generally regarded as incurable.

Anxiety neurosis is nothing more than a bad mental habit. It is curable by training. By a fortunate compensation people with very serious diseases are usually rather cheerful. They seldom indulge in anxiety neurosis.

PROBABLY NO HARM.

J. D. C. writes: I have two children, 5 and 7, attending school. From the point of health is it proper for the children to receive extra instruction closely following dinner at noon and between periods of regular instruction?

REPLY.

I don't think health will be affected.

ACNE.

D. L. H. writes: I read so much about acne that I got my doctor book to find the definition of this word and it called it blackheads. Now I would like to tell D. R. B. how to get rid of them: Take a damp washcloth. Sprinkle on a little soap washing powder and massage the face gently but firmly for awhile. If they are not gone, use some more soap powder until the blackheads are all gone. Then wash the face with a good clean water and soap. Repeat once a week and you will not have any of those blackheads or acne.

TAX SALE.

Chicago, July 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A owns property clear of all incumbrance. Taxes are all paid to date. If A does not pay the next taxes before the penalty date and taxes are bought by some one at tax sale [1] how long before the tax buyer can take the property? 2. How many times must he buy the taxes before he owns the property? 3. If forfeited to the state, how long before the state can take possession? 4. Also, what is the procedure in personal property tax default? 5. Can A lose his property under these circumstances? W. D. H. W.

1. In general, a tax sale under Illinois law is merely a lien on the title. The tax buyer does not take possession.
2. After two years a tax deed will issue which will be a more serious cloud on the title.
3. The state does not take possession, but after the forfeitures have accumulated so that there is little hope for redemption, there is sometimes a foreclosure of the tax forfeitures and the purchaser at the foreclosure sale could take possession.
4. An ordinary civil suit is brought to enforce liability.
5. See preceding answers.

FACTS OBSCURE.

Chicago, July 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A couple bought a house on contract in the state of Washington. They have paid almost half at the rate of $25 per month including interest and $300 down. Payments have been reduced to $15 per month during the last year. They have not paid anything since September, 1932, and refuse to pay anything more. They say the tax for last year of 10 per cent per hundred is unpaid. S. A.

You do not state your relationship to the facts nor what you wish to accomplish. If you are the contract vender and wish to place yourself in a position to sell, we suggest that you first take the matter up with a real estate broker on the ground.

Chicago, July 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise me if a person is responsible in case of an accident while riding in one's car, either a friend or a pick-up on the highway. W. H.

Under a recent Illinois statute the driver is not liable to a gratuitous guest unless he is chargeable with something more serious than ordinary negligence.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 12, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson appealed to the country's business interests to put aside every selfish consideration and to give their aid to the nation as freely as those who go out to offer their lives on the battlefield. "Your patriotism," said the President's appeal, "is of the same self-denying stuff as the patriotism of the men dead and maimed on the fields of France or it is no patriotism at all. Let us never speak, then, of profits and patriotism in the same sentence." The President declared there must be but one price for the government and for the public. He expressed confidence that business generally would be found loyal to the last degree and that the problem of wartime prices, which he declared will "mean victory or defeat," will be solved rightly through patriotic cooperation.

WAR SUMMARY.—London admits Germans took trenches on 1,400 yard front to depth of 600 yards along Yser river in northern Belgium. Berlin reports the British troops were driven across the Yser river, with 1,250 men captured. Petrograd confirms capture of Halicz; says Russians are pursuing enemy on wide front. Captures in three days total 100 officers, 10,000 men and 80 cannon. Rome reports the Austrian town of Dolina, northwest of Selo, on the Carso front, was occupied by Italian forces.

NEW YORK.—Rudolph Hecht, vice president and New York head of the bond brokerage firm of Chandler & Co., Inc., of Philadelphia and New York, was arrested in his office at 34 Pine street by department of justice agents and interned on Ellis island under a warrant which charged him with having violated President Wilson's proclamation relating to enemy aliens.

CHICAGO.—Maj. Robert R. McCormick, one of the editors of THE TRIBUNE, has arrived at a French seaport. He will be attached to the staff of Gen. Pershing. News to this effect reached THE TRIBUNE office last night. Mrs. McCormick accompanied him. Maj. McCormick is an officer of the Second Illinois artillery and was given a leave of absence when assigned by federal authorities for service with the expeditionary force in France.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—State department dispatches, announcing the destruction of the American steamer Kansan by a German submarine, said that four members of the crew of fifty were missing, but that all members of the armed naval guard were safe. It is thought the Kansan was sunk off the French coast.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—Are the pennants on either side of the Avenue of Flags changed or are they always the same ones? Do they have any special meaning or are they merely decorative?

ANSWER—The flags are flown as long as they remain intact. They have no special meaning other than lending a note of color to the grounds.

QUESTION—Are there any facilities for boarding a 2 month old baby at the Fair while the parents view the exhibits?

ANSWER—No.

QUESTION—Will there be a baby contest at the Fair? If so, where and when?

ANSWER—A baby contest was held June 23 and no other has been planned.

QUESTION—Is the 12th street beach included in the Fair grounds? How much do they charge to get in?

ANSWER — The beach is the World's Fair beach and boardwalk and is within the grounds. A charge of 25 cents is made for a locker and bath house service.

QUESTION—Where are the architectural cypress trees located at the Fair?

ANSWER—The cypress trees are at 28th street at the north end of the Home Planning group. Redwood trees are located in the California exhibit at the Court of States. The architectural cypress trees are any that have been trimmed to conform to the building adjacent. Some of these trees are utilized in the landscaping scheme around the Administration building at the 12th street entrance.

QUESTION—Are the passes to the 1893 Exposition redeemable for admission to A Century of Progress?

ANSWER—No.

PROPOSED BEACH CODE.

Chicago, July 9.—With great civic pride in our city's achievements may we point to Montrose beach? It is magnificent—something to show our World's Fair visitors with great and justifiable pride.

But let us, each and every one of us, constitute ourselves a committee of one to keep it beautiful and useful. Let us have discipline, with rules laid down and enforced by the civic authorities, but let's not allow it to end there.

I ask that the park board have big printed signs with the rules relative to littering the beach with papers and lunch boxes; that people be sharply rebuked who ignore that rule; that it be made a high crime and misdemeanor to throw bottles, cans, bottle tops, etc., into the lake; that picnickers be made to hold their parties in restricted parts of the immense beach; that ample facilities (wire baskets) be placed all over to contain waste; that the rule of shirts on men's suits be enforced; that dogs be kept out of the water; that handball on the beach be in a restricted area; in short, that we Chicagoans respect this beach as residents of Wilmette and Evanston do theirs.

Discipline! We of Chicago need it. Let's have it, and considerably less of the "loose." ANNE PROUD-OF-IT.

THE NEW MUSEUM.

Chicago, July 8.—A visit to the Museum of Science and Invention in Jackson park, opened to the public July 1 after several years' study and effort and the expenditure of several millions of dollars, raised by bond issues, leads one to wonder what has happened here. The only exhibit is that of coal handling machinery and a few electrical devices, most of which are applicable to any factory.

The interior of the building is entirely unfinished and if memory serves me right a bond issue of two million or more dollars was made expressly for the interior work.

General indications are that we are a very long way from having a Museum of Science and Invention.

C. Z. DILLENBECK.

SPOILS IN THE POSTOFFICE.

Chicago, July 6.—I'm a substitute carrier myself. It has been my opinion for the last two years, since I have looked into one thing and another concerning the rules and statutes controlling civil service employés and the civil service commission, that if the blighting touch of politics, as played in the past in connection with the United States postoffice, were removed and the department allowed to function under federal control free from the drag of the spoils system the morale would be raised 1,000 per cent and a postal deficit would be an unheard of thing.

But who cares? Certainly not the public. Not one in a hundred knows what is going on under their noses, so why should an upstart like me? And then again, why not? J. C.

PICTURES.

Chicago, July 6.—According to your editorial THE TRIBUNE is going to print a few pictures of our navy instead of England's. How fine! And what an excuse for not having printed any before. Our photographers are not artistic enough.

You have Mr. Lundberg on your staff. He is probably the best newspaper photographer in the country. He has received prizes and diplomas in foreign and international exhibitions. Do we ever see any of his photographs of Chicago? Of course not. New York, London, and Squedunk, but by all means don't do anything to boost Chicago.

By the way, China has a navy. H.

THE WORM IN THE ROSE.

Chicago, July 5.—Being a visitor in your great city for A Century of Progress for the first time, I can only marvel at the greatness of your city and cannot find words to describe what I call the most progressive city in the world.

Save for one thing, the whole picture would be perfect, and that is the condition of the lake front from Navy pier to Chicago avenue.

That place is the dirtiest and filthiest of any place I have ever been in, what with men cleaning fish right on the promenade, mud and gravel all over the walk, peanut shells, newspapers, fruit skins, etc., everywhere.

Men and women of all ages in all stages of dress and undress [I even saw a young lady about 18 years of age with only a pair of men's bathing trunks on] cavorting about in a most indecent manner, and the filthy talk a stranger hears there is anything but music to decent ears.

TIMOTHY F. LEWIS,
Tacoma, Wash.

HE CAN'T SEE THE DIFFERENCE.

Chicago, July 8. — THE TRIBUNE in nearly every issue raises some objection to the federal government's entrance into the field of private business. THE TRIBUNE itself seems to be doing the very thing it objects to in its editorials.

Besides being in the newspaper publishing business, which is its legitimate and natural field, it is also in the following: Real estate business, insurance business, radio broadcasting, promoting boxing, air races, promoting Jewish pageant, promoting Baseball Game of a Century, and the Algonquin camp and free ice, both of which are more paternalistic than anything the government has done.

Some of the above enterprises perhaps can be justified on the grounds of being public spirited, but should not the government be permitted to be public spirited also? Or is it only desirable when some rugged individual reaps the profits?

For those who can see it, the comedy of your editorials compensates in part for the tragedy of your comics.

R. G. RAYMOND.

THE GOVERNMENT AS EMPLOYER.

Chicago, July 7.—The statement of Mr. H. S. Johnson, the national recovery administrator, telling industry they must increase wages or face a collapse of the recovery act is a joke. I wonder how many of the country's manufacturers know that the government is still cutting wages. On July 1 the government announced in all the papers throughout the nation that as living costs had not increased enough to reduce the 15 per cent cut of the government employés the cut would remain in effect until at least Jan. 1, 1934. In reality they increased the cut 10 per cent, making it a 25 per cent cut by making all government employés take furloughs without pay, one of the things the President denounced after taking office. At the same time they admit postal receipts have increased 18 per cent. MRS. J. M. M.

ONE AMONG MANY SIMILAR LETTERS.

Chicago, July 6.—I wish to thank THE TRIBUNE for sponsoring "The Romance of a People" the second night. It gave the public a chance to see such a wonderful spectacle and hear such marvelous singing and music which otherwise we would have missed. It was one of the most beautiful pageants ever presented. The popular prices enabled us to enjoy it with our families. Lots of luck to your paper. May you be able to keep up your wonderful work in the future as you have in the past.

EATS 9 EARS OF CORN IN MINUTE AND WINS TITLE

Mayors Take Part in Their Annual Contest.

New York, July 11.—(AP)—High Lord Mayor Stitch McCarthy was dethroned as champion corn-on-the-cob eater of the New York League of Locality Mayors, Inc., tonight by a Mott Haven furniture dealer, Mayor William Honigman, Esquire.

The Grand street bail bondsman, who has held the title three years, dived into a kettle of corn at the mayors' annual outing, came up with a half Nelson on six steaming ears, and threw them in 60 seconds with a body slam and an airplane spin. So far so good.

Chokes on Cigar.

But on his next dive he choked on his cigar, which he never removes from his mouth, even when he goes to bed, and lapsed quietly into unconsciousness.

Mayor Honigman, a short, stubby welterweight who didn't even figure in the betting, coasted to an easy victory by stripping nine ears clean in the allotted 60 seconds.

Then he sat down and ate his dinner.

Six other contestants never had a chance against the buzz-saw action of Honigman's jaws. Abe Fagan, the mayor of Hunts Point, wrecked seven and a half ears, but was disqualified for back-handing.

With three other mayors joining Stitch in a nose dive to the canvas during the heat of what "Wireless Louie" Zeltner called "this amazing, thrilling contest of skill, science, and endurance," the league's official surgeon, Dr. Alexander Mansky, had a busy night of it.

3.2 Beer Revives Him.

When all other methods of resuscitation failed, Dr. Mansky doused the prostrate corn eaters with 3.2 beer and stood back to see what would happen. He didn't have long to wait, for Stitch sat up with a jerk, blinked his eyes, sucked in his breath, and let out a whoop.

"Gimme some more corn," yelled Stitch, diving for the trough, but gentle hands led him away to a corner, behind a potted palm, where he sat and softly wept while the hand of Mayor Honigman was raised in victory.

BOMB EXPLODES IN LOBBY OF U. S. CLUB IN HAVANA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 11.—A bomb placed on top of a mailbox in the lobby of the American club exploded today, injuring a Nicaraguan porter. The building was slightly damaged, and members of the club were thrown into a panic. A policeman discovered the package and summoned explosive experts, but the bomb burst before they arrived.

Delegates opposing mediation conferences to settle Cuba's political troubles disclaimed any responsibility for the explosion in a statement to Ambassador Sumner Welles of the United States.

Dispatches sent from here yesterday stating that the A. B. C. oppositionist organization had retired from the mediation conference were denied today by the A. B. C. headquarters. The organization announced its conformity with the proceedings. Dr. Agustin Castellanos, who was recently arrested when government agents raided his home and discovered a large quantity of arms and ammunition, was released today from Principe prison along with ten other prisoners.

Meanwhile, military operations against rebel bands in the eastern provinces have been suspended by government orders. This is to facilitate meetings with the rebel leaders concerning their surrender. Three hundred rebels already have surrendered at Santa Clara.

'LANG TO TRIAL ON SEPT. 11 FOR NITTI SHOOTING

Harry Lang, suspended detective sergeant, will go on trial on Sept. 11 on charges of assault to kill Frank Nitti, former Capone gang business manager. Judge Thomas J. Lynch in the Criminal court set the date yesterday, saying that his calendar was too crowded to hear the case at present.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Dougherty said that Nitti would be in court, but he was not certain whether he would testify. Nitti was shot in a raid on a loop office last Dec. 19. Lang testified before the grand jury that he shot in self-defense, but later repudiated his testimony when it was shown that Nitti was unarmed. Lang is also under indictment for perjury before the grand jury.

ATTACKS LATIN STUDY IN HIGH SCHOOL AS WASTE

The study of Latin in high schools was attacked as wasteful by Dr. George H. Betts, director of research at Northwestern university, in a talk yesterday before the conference on educational problems and trends at Harris hall on the Evanston campus of the university.

Dr. Betts cited figures to show that nearly $312,500,000 was spent in American high schools in 1930 to teach first and second year Latin.

"What do the students get out of Latin?" he asked. "Perhaps a halting and doubtful knowledge of certain parts of grammar; a knowledge of a few Latin roots, prefixes and suffixes; stumbling through a translation of four books of Caesar's wars, murders, crooked politics, shady morals and self laudation; a probable damage to facility in the use of the mother tongue.

"If Latin follows Greek into scholastic oblivion, we should save one-third of a billion dollars for other educational uses."

ADVISE AGAINST MOVING KINNEY TO SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—A report signed by two physicians and a psychiatrist and released tonight by A. H. Greening, state's attorney of Sangamon county, advised against removal of Garrett De Forrest Kinney, former state director of finance, from a Peoria sanitarium to Springfield to answer charges growing out of a shortage in his funds.

"We would not care," the report said, "to assume the responsibility of recommending that Mr. Kinney be subjected to the rigors and possible hazards of an ambulance trip to Springfield at this time."

It was signed by Drs. George Mitchell and W. W. Cutter and Psychiatrist Helen Coyle, who have been attending the former state official since he shot himself in the head.

The report was made at the request of Greening following a visit with Kinney and those attending him at Peoria today.

Park Consolidation Plan Approved.

Springfield, Ill., July 11.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today vetoed senate bill 339, one of the bills to broaden the powers of the state tax commission.

"This amendment was intended as a companion measure to senate bill 338, which places the assessment of capital stock of all companies in the state tax commission," the veto message said. H. B. 930—Conners—Increases number of signatures on primary petitions.

H. B. 816—Sullivan—Provides for issuance of search warrants to search for fire arms. Gun toting bill.

H. B. 774—Doyle—Provides that the proceeds of the tax for mothers pensions fund shall be paid into a special fund and to be used for that purpose only.

DR. JIRKA APPOINTS 4 NURSES IN STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Springfield, Ill., July 11.—[Special.]—Four appointments in the public nurse branch of the state department of public health were announced here today by Dr. Frank J. Jirka, state health director.

Five nurses of the professional staff of the department of public health, who never had taken a civil service examination and who were on temporary appointment only, are replaced by the four new appointees, Dr. Jirka said.

OKLAHOMA DRY KILLER OF A BOY TO ESCAPE LAW

No Charges Filed Against Quick Trigger Sheriff.

Durant, Okla., July 11.—[Special.]—Citizens of Durant not in sympathy with the theory that prohibition justifies any action today were wondering why no action has been taken toward something in the nature of an official investigation of the killing of an 18 year old boy by Sheriff Ben Risper in a dry raid on July 1.

The youth, Lawrence Lamar, was shot down near a still while with his uncle, Earl Lamar. It has not been claimed that he resisted the sheriff. All he did was to flee, and the quick shooting sheriff dropped him with a pistol bullet.

Some Talk of Mob Action.

At the time the sheriff justified his action on the ground that he was a dry and that it was his duty to kill to enforce the law. There was some talk of mob action at the time against the sheriff and County Attorney Roy Paul promised a thorough investigation.

The investigation came to naught. No charges were filed against the shooting sheriff and none, it was announced today, are contemplated. The case is being allowed to die in the memory of all but the relatives and friends of the slain youth.

Reveals Record of Brutality.

Burlington, Ia., July 11.—[Special.]—Asserting that he wished to make public the entire record of brutality in the case, Byron Wilder today announced that he would file several charges against prohibition agents who entered his home on June 22 and broke the back of his father, Steiner Wilder, 72 years old.

Besides bringing a civil action against the 200 pound agent, F. L. Lorey, who is alleged to have snapped the old man's back, the son declared that he would accuse Agent W. H. Plasters of attempting to attack Mrs. Byron Wilder.

A Quart of Moonshine.

The agents maltreated the members of the family while striving desperately to get possession of a single quart bottle of moonshine in the house. But Wilder alleges that Plasters went much further in his handling of the wife than was necessary, and fondled her while Lorey was making out a warrant.

Plasters has been dimissed from the prohibition forces and is now at Davenport, Ia.

Meanwhile the elderly victim of the raid lay in the Burlington hospital. His condition was briefly reported as "unchanged," meaning that he still is paralyzed as a result of his broken back.

New Hampshire Ratifies Repeal.

Concord, N. H., July 11.—(AP)—It took New Hampshire but 17 minutes today to officially record the state in favor of repeal of the 18th amendment. Adoption of the resolution ratifying the vote of June 30 was unanimous as all the delegates were pledged to repeal.

Set Missouri Date.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 11.—(AP)—Gov. Guy B. Park announced late today Missouri's election of delegates to a constitutional convention to act on ratification of the proposed twenty-first amendment will be held Aug. 19. The convention will be held Aug. 25 in Jefferson City.

The date of the election and convention was announced by the governor after he had conferred with Joseph T. Davis, St. Louis, head of the United Repeal Council of Missouri, and George H. Williams, former United States senator.

Dates for precinct, county and state senatorial meetings, which will precede the state-wide election, will be announced later by the governor.

Blame Broken Axle

Twenty-four Chicago and North Western railroad freight cars were derailed and wrecked yesterday near Geneva, some of the cars toppling into the Fox river. The derailing occurred when an axle broke on one of the cars. The cars were carrying meat, eggs, and grain products to Chicago. The merchandise was scattered along the tracks.

OFFER PEACE IN MACEDONIAN WAR OF RIVAL GROUPS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, July 11.—(AP)—Followers of the Macedonian revolutionary leader Ivan Mihailoff in a communique published in the newspapers today offered peace to the Protogerovists, their rival revolutionary faction, on condition that the latter would cease all attacks within 15 days.

The same offer was addressed by the Mihailovists to the Fascist Zveno group which favors reconciliation with Jugo-Slavia, and also to certain members of the government who, the communique says, encourage Protogerovist actions.

Unless the Protogerovist activities cease the Mihailovists "will take necessary measures," the announcement said. Both the revolutionary factions are striving for establishment of an independent Macedonian state, but they are frequently in bloody clashes with each other. Macedonia is now divided among Bulgaria, Jugo-Slavia, and Greece. The struggle for independence goes back more than a century to the time of Turkish sovereignty.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 11.—(AP)—Due to a long spell of hot, dry weather, destructive forest fires have broken out and spread over vast areas in various parts of Finland. Several villages have been destroyed. The records of the last hundred years do not show any such protracted hot weather as Finland has experienced this summer.

"LIFE FOR PINT" VICTIM'S FATE IS UP TO GOVERNOR

Parole Chief Urges Palm Be Freed at Once.

Lansing, Mich., July 11.—[Special.]—Gov. William A. Comstock late today was studying a recommendation of W. Alfred Debo, commissioner of pardons and paroles, that Fred Palm, original "life for a pint" law victim, be accorded additional executive clemency to permit his immediate release.

Gov. Comstock said he was undecided as to his course in the matter and probably would not make a definite decision for a day or two.

Debo, after having given Palm a hearing at Jackson prison last week, advised the governor to commute the former lifer's sentence to five years and nine months, which would permit his parole at this time. Palm's term was reduced from life to 7½ to 15 years by former Gov. Fred W. Green after the 1929 legislature softened provisions of the harsh "life for a pint" law. Green's commutation order, however, contained no provision for crediting Palm with "good time," and he must serve out the full minimum term unless additional clemency is granted.

Palm was sentenced to life imprisonment from Lansing in September, 1927, after he had pleaded guilty to possession of a pint of gin found in his home by local police officers.

One More Straw Shows How Repeal Wind Blows

Another straw showing which way the wind blows came yesterday in the announcement that the Old Rose Distilling company, an Illinois corporation dating back to 1809, has leased office space in the Lytton building at 14 East Jackson boulevard. The concern plans to open twenty to thirty sales branches in Chicago as soon as hard liquor becomes legal. Philip Livingston, secretary and treasurer, asserted that the company has on hand, in bond, a large quantity of sixteen year old whisky made in America.

MANILA, July 11.—(AP)—Additional Philippine constabulary was called out today at Davao when 500 laborers joined 700 others who struck Friday. Three other big companies were affected by today's walkout, adding to demoralization of industry at Davao.

"PUSSYFOOT" JOHNSON SAYS "WE ARE IN FOR A FIVE YEARS' DRUNK"

Binghamton, N. Y., July 12.—(AP)—Returning to his home at McDonough, near here, after a four months' tour of the northwest, William E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, internationally known prohibitionist, today said that "we are in for a five years' drunk."

"There is no use sounding sacred conch shells, trying to lull ourselves into a sense of security," Johnson was quoted as saying. "We are not immune from poison like a mongoose. The country is trying to execute a St. Vitus dance in an eagle's nest."

Discussing the legal advent of beer in the northwest, Johnson said, "Most of the northwestern states are wallowing in the same old beer that used to put us under the table in the old days.

"I made about 200 dry speeches in the far northwestern states," he said, "but did no particular good. The more speeches I made the wetter the country became so I decided to beat it home while the going was good. This effort of making people good has its drawbacks.

"The devil often gets the best of it. Sometimes I feel like an old yard engine, rattling around with poor coal and no grease."

POLICE SEIZE 5 AND RECOVER 500 HIJACKED TIRES

The police yesterday had five men in custody and a shipment of 500 automobile tires hi-jacked from a truck driver on June 26. The prisoners are George F. Eble, 33 years old, 349 West 101st street; Martin Bratu, 35 years old, 3457 Irving Park boulevard; Wilber Wiltse, 26 years old, 7221 South Artesian avenue; William A. Weiss, 2738 Pine Grove avenue, and the owner of the garage at 1219 West 103d street, where the tires were seized. He refused to give police his name.

The tires were stolen from Harry Lynn, a driver for the Akron-Chicago Transportation company, near Dyer, Ind. Lieut. James Kerr and his squad arrested Bratu on Monday when they found him driving an automobile bearing some of the tires. Bratu told where he got them. Wiltse and Weiss were arrested when they tried to purchase some of the stolen tires while policemen lay in wait in the 103d street garage.

Later a telephone call was received at the garage ordering police in the name of "Assistant State's Attorney Murphy" to turn back the seized tires because they had been taken in an illegal raid. The telephone call was traced to Eble and he was arrested.

WIFE GETS WRIT TO DRIVE AWAY SHADOW OF DEATH

Specter Raised by Mate Annoys Her, She Says.

The shadow of approaching death was enjoined yesterday from annoying and harassing Mrs. Marie Malagoli, 64 years old, by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath. The restraining order was issued when Mrs. Malagoli complained that her husband, Abrams Malagoli, 46 years old, raised the shadow from a dream book to haunt her.

"My husband wants to get rid of me," Mrs. Malagoli declared. "I am old and wrinkled and he recently has met a former sweetheart of his own age whose skin is soft and cherubic. He won't divorce me because he wants my property.

He Reads Dream Books.

"Recently he has taken to reading dream books. A few nights ago he said he saw the shadow of death over me. He kept talking about the shadow and has made me nervous. I'm getting so I look over my shoulder for the shadow. I want it to quit bothering me."

Mrs. Malagoli is the owner of a farm two miles south of Arlington Heights. She and Malagoli were married on Dec. 12, 1907, when she was 39 years old and he was 21. Before their marriage, she told Judge Sabath, he broke his engagement with a young woman, named by Mrs. Malagoli only as Julia.

"He married me for my money and land," Mrs. Malagoli said. "Julia went away.

Julia Reappears on Scene.

"We were happy enough until a few months ago when the paths of Julia and my husband crossed again.

"He fell in love with her the second time. Because of my wrinkles my property could not keep him from her. But he won't leave my home because he wants to inherit my property. That's why he raised the shadow of approaching death."

Judge Sabath ordered Malagoli's attorney, Harry X. Cole, to draw up the restraining order. Mrs. Malagoli is seeking a divorce from her husband on charges of misconduct with Julia.

Besides his newspaper experience in Chicago, he was one of the founders and for several years general manager of White City, Chicago's oldest amusement park.

Mr. Howse is survived by his widow, the former Catherine Isabel Sweeney of Chicago, and one son, Paul David Jr.

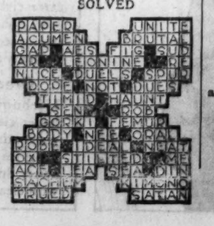
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



REALTY BROKER SHOT WHEN HE FIGHTS BANDITS

Samuel R. Rappold, 52 years old, 5632 Goodman street, was shot and seriously wounded yesterday in a battle with two young robbers in a hallway at 640 Drake avenue. He was taken to the Franklin Boulevard hospital, where it was said he would recover.

Rappold, a real estate broker, had gone to the neighborhood to collect rents. He was in front of the Drake avenue building when the two youths, in a car, forced his automobile to the curb. Leaping out, Rappold ran into the building to escape them.

The robbers followed, however, and caught him in the hallway. He struggled to save his pocketbook containing $60. One of the men fired and the bullet penetrated Rappold's left side. Both robbers then fled without taking the money.

FAMILY IS LEFT $1,500,000 BY C. F. UNRATH WILL

Two Sons of Packer Get $50,000 Each.

The will of Charles F. Unrath, pioneer Chicago meat packer, was filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. It leaves an estate estimated at more than $1,150,000 to his widow and two sons.

The will, drawn four years ago by Attorney Harry D. Koenig, leaves $50,000 each to two sons, Charles F. Unrath Jr., and Robert Unrath. The remainder of the estate goes to the widow, Mrs. Ernestine Unrath, 420 Wrightwood avenue.

Mr. Unrath died on June 23 in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he had made his home for the last four years. He was 86 years old.

Mr. Unrath was born near Stuttgart, Germany, and came to this country shortly after the civil war. He was first employed at drydocks in Detroit, but after a week found the work unsatisfactory and came to Chicago, where he found employment in the stockyards.

In 1880 he entered the packing business in the concern of Decker & Unrath. At the turn of the century he founded the Fulton Packing company of which he remained president until his retirement 10 years ago.

Among other wills approved yesterday by Oscar Caplan, assistant to the probate judge, are the following:

RILLO BREWSTER, died Jan. 30, 1933. Estate of $10,500 to four sisters and three brothers. Gus Ohs, executor.

THOMAS SAUERMAN, died on June 13. Estate of $19,500 to son, Elmer Sauerman, who is the executor.

CHARLES WAGNER, died on Feb. 23. Estate of $20,500 to three daughters and a son, Hilda Brush, daughter, executrix.

MANY REPORTED DEAD IN MOSCOW TYPHUS EPIDEMIC

THE HAGUE, July 11.—(AP)—Reports from Moscow today said the Red capital is suffering from an epidemic of typhus of alarming proportions for this time of the year. Official health statistics were said to have been withheld, but foreigners in Moscow were quoted as saying there were hundreds of cases and that there have been many deaths.

Hospitals were described as being so crowded with victims of the disease that they now have room only for the most serious cases, while the supply of camphor, with which typhus is treated, is running low.

Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley Makes Sale at Lake Geneva Home a Party

Woman's Exchange Shows Wares at Country Residence of Hostess; Many Fashionables Attend.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., July 11.—[Special.]—The Chicago Woman's exchange sale held today at the residence here of Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley was more like a party than a sale [although plenty was sold], for Mrs. Wrigley was such a gracious hostess and made every one who attended feel so welcome in her hospitable home. The lovely things in which the exchange specializes were spread out on tables, chairs, and sofas in the large, high ceilinged living room, library, and billiard room.

And after a first tour of inspection every one went out on the wide veranda, which is across the front and one side of the house, to sit in a cushioned chair or swing and to greet the little Wrigleys, Ada Blanche and "Deedie" and little six months old Billy, who was cooing in his perambulator and "laying low" the ladies with his ingratiating smile and adorable chubby face. Bare little feet and hands waved madly when any one noticed him, and when his "Aunt Erminie" [Mrs. Sangston Hettler] presented him with a calico chicken, bought a moment before at the sale, he all but jumped out of his carriage.

Mrs. Hettler was a walking advertisement for the sale, for she had left on the exquisite soft blue lounging pajamas she tried on before she purchased them, and every one admired them so much that several women ordered some exactly like hers.

Mrs. Wrigley in White Crepe.

Mrs. Wrigley was smart in a white crêpe sleeveless and low necked frock with navy blue and white polka dotted ties on the shoulders, sash, and scarf, which was knotted loosely around the neckline. Her sister, Mrs. George F. Getz Jr., was one of the most energetic assistants and sold something to every one she talked to, perhaps because she was so enthusiastic about everything, being a bride and in the throes of furnishing an apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive. Her mother, Mrs. Bert L. Atwater, had driven up from Chicago for the day and she found many things at the sale that she added to Mrs. Getz's store of linens, including a dozen cocktail glass "petticoats"—the exchange's newest novelty. They are cunning little handkerchief linen envelopes to slip over the bases of cocktail glasses and obviate the inevitable rings that wet glasses make on tables.

Mrs. Farley Hopkins of Phoenix, formerly of Chicago, who is Mrs. Wrigley's house guest, also assisted in selling, smart in a frock of closely knit white silk, narrow ruffles of the same material forming a suggestion of a sleeve.

Mrs. Getz had chosen an azure blue silk, made simply with a high neck and round collar and a row of little buttons of the material part way down the back.

Summer Residents Assist Hostess.

Among others who were helping Mrs. Wrigley were Mrs. Harold Beacon, who had driven up from Chicago for the day; Mrs. Hettler, Mrs. Waldo Emerson, Mrs. Henry C. Bartholomay, and Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, all of whom are at Lake Geneva for the summer. Mrs. Frederick Thwaits and her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Earling, drove over from Oconomowoc to attend the sale. They are among Milwaukee's most enthusiastic patrons of the exchange. Mrs. Thwaits' mother, the late Mrs. A. J. Earling, was an early sponsor of the exchange, and it was mainly through her that winter sales in Daytona Beach and Ormond were started and summer sales at Oconomowoc.

Mrs. Thwaits and Mrs. Earling are sponsoring a sale the exchange will hold at Oconomowoc next month. It was Mrs. Earling's first visit to Mrs. Wrigley's home, at least since it was Mrs. Wrigley's home, but after looking about a bit yesterday she recollected that she had visited it before when it was the home of the Henry Lyttons.

Mrs. Wrigley remarked that the Lyttons must have had house guests galore, for every one seemed to remember having been a guest there at some time or other when it was the old Lytton place.

Mrs. William Wrigley Makes Purchases.

Mrs. William Wrigley Jr. walked over from her beautiful house next door and made some purchases, and practically all the summer residents around the lake were there during the morning or afternoon.

Mrs. Henry P. Isham, looking like a fashion plate in a white frock with a red, white, and blue scarf knotted at the point of the V neck, a red belt and a red turban, was one of those who was there shortly after luncheon, and Mrs. Arch W. Shaw was another who made her purchases around that time of the day.

The main topic of conversation in Lake Geneva these days is the Italian air armada, and of course every one there is hoping that the airplanes will land on that lake, which already is equipped with anchor buoys for the accommodation of the Italian planes. The lake was very quiet yesterday, lovely and blue, but there were no boats on it except the large ones that take people for cruises around the lake.

Saturday and Sunday are the days when there is much activity on the lake, and yesterday all of the Wrigleys' boats, a yacht, two speedboats, and a sailboat, were lying at anchor near the dock, just as were the boats of practically every one who lives on the lake.

When there is little boating there is much fishing, and as soon as luncheon was over yesterday the two little Wrigley girls and their governess started down to the dock to try and catch a few bass for supper. Judging by the success of the elderly woman who was fishing from the dock before luncheon we would say the Wrigleys had bass for supper, but we didn't stay long enough to be sure.

Three N. Shore Girls to Bow September 9

Garden Parties Planned by Parents.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THREE north shore households have placed an order with the weather man for blue skies, a warm sun, and a softly wafted breeze for the afternoon of Sept. 9. On this date three lovely young women in Hubbard Woods and Winnetka are to be presented to society by their parents at receptions and tea dances in the gardens surrounding their homes.

One of them is pretty Miss Jean Lamson, daughter of the Warren A. Lamsons whose Sheridan road home tops the Hubbard Woods hill. Another is Miss Lamson's good friend, Miss Dorothy Ott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nash Ott of Indian Hill road, Winnetka. The third is Miss Eleanor Janney, the tall, slim, blue eyed daughter of Mrs. Cornelius Lynde.

It will be a gala afternoon for north shore society and for the friends who will motor out from town. Many will have invitations to two if not all three of the parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamson are planning a tea dance for their daughter similar to the parties they gave their two older daughters, Virginia, who made her debut Sept. 16, 1930, and Elizabeth, who is now Mrs. Warner Washburn.

Petite and fair, with beautiful hazel eyes, Miss Lamson was graduated from the Ethel Walker school a short month ago and plans to enter Bryn Mawr college in September following her debut. This summer she is spending with her parents enjoying golf, swimming and tennis. The Washburns are vacationing now at Pilgrim, Mich. They will return to the north shore in another fortnight.

Miss Ott to Bow at Terrace Party.

Miss Ott, a charming and attractive young woman, will bow to society at a party on the terrace and in the beautiful gardens surrounding the Ott home in Winnetka. A member of the class of 1936 at Smith, she will return to Northampton for her sophomore year within a fortnight after her party. Miss Ott's older sister, Mary, now Mrs. W. Thomas Kemp of Baltimore, was presented to society at a tea several years ago. The Kemps are having a holiday this month at the Harbor Point home of Mrs. Kemp's and Miss Ott's grandmother, Mrs. James B. Forgan.

After Miss Janney has made her debut at a tea at her mother's Winnetka home she will return to her studies at the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts, where she has been learning about interior decorating the last year. Last month she had a trip east for the senior prom at Princeton. Her brother, Frederick E. Janney, and her stepbrother, Samuel A. Lynde, were graduated at the same time from Lawrenceville. Miss Janney's older sister, who continued her college career at Smith instead of making a debut, is Mrs. Stephen Roby.

Another attractive Winnetka debutante of the fall season will be Miss Patricia Calkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Calkins. As yet it has not been decided whether she will make her bow at a garden tea in September before she returns for her second year at Sarah Lawrence college or at a party at Christmas time, when she is home for her holiday vacation.

Miss Calkins' older sister, Marion, was presented to society last Aug. 12 at a garden tea at her parents' home. She will enter her third year at Smith this September.

Move Mackinac Race to Belmont Harbor.

Because a mile stretch of Lake Michigan bordering the World's Fair must be kept clear for the arrival of Gen. Balbo and his silver winged armada, all of the entrants in the Mackinac race to be "sailed" Saturday will receive cards this morning informing them that they will start from Belmont harbor instead of 23d street.

It had been hoped until yesterday to make the start A Century of Progress attraction, with the twenty-four yachts setting sail in the lake directly in front of the World's Fair Hollywood. With a quarter of a century of tradition back of the Belmont harbor starting point [this is the 26th sailing], however, Chicago Yacht club officials are not seriously disappointed about the change in plans.

It means that there will be a gala group of guests all day Saturday at the yacht club, winding up in the evening at a dinner-dance. The race, the longest fresh water boat race in the world, will begin at 2 o'clock, with the fleet divided into two classes, racing and cruising. The former will compete for the Mackinac cup, while

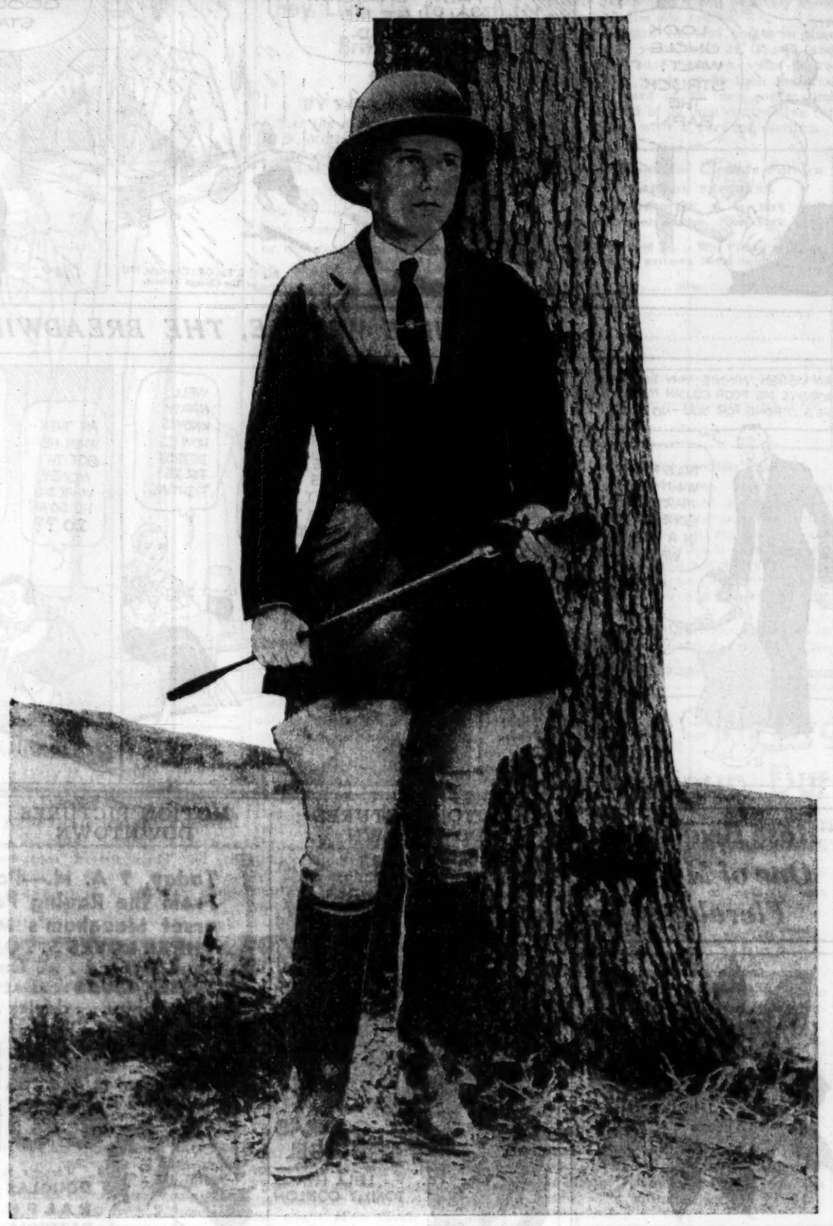
Spending Summer in Lake Forest



Miss Gwendolyn Bowen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr. of Lake Forest, is a young lady who has many other accomplishments besides being a good horsewoman, and when she is presented to society two years hence, she is certain to be one of the most sought after debutantes. She plans to spend the rest of the summer in Lake Forest, and in September she will return to Farmington to complete her studies. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Laud Algonquin as Ideal Camp for Vacations

United Charities Officials Make Inspection.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The summer outing committee of the United Charities made its annual inspection of Camp Algonquin yesterday and were unanimous in their findings. They went over the grounds from high meadow to river, from furthermost dormitory to the administrative office, and, unable to find a single flaw in a camp noted for its efficient management for years, proclaimed it "the finest in all the country." The camp, a vacation haven for needy mothers and children, is supported in part by TRIBUNE readers and administered by the United Charities.

Members of the committee, who are officials and members of the board of the United Charities, who made the inspection were Miss Jane Addams, head of Hull house; Samuel Insull Jr., Kent S. Clow, president of the United Charities; Miss Naomi Donnelley, Mrs. Francis R. Dickinson, George R. Carr, chairman of the summer outing committee; Edison Dick, and J. Fred Sheehy.

The committee motored out from Chicago early in the afternoon to be greeted by Mrs. Astrid Save, director of the camp, and Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities. After a short business session the guests visited the swimming pool, where a bunch of youngsters demonstrated one of the favorite joys of camp life. The committee then called at the library, where the literary minded were found absorbed in vacation reading, and thence to the Fox river to watch mothers and children out for the daily boating trips.

The dormitories were inspected one by one and found immaculate and shining. Then it was time for supper in the huge refectory, where the mothers and children and the staff, 500 all told, assemble at the sounding of the camp bell.

When the vacationers discovered who the guests were they gave the camp's salute of welcome and clamored for a speech. Miss Addams, whom many of them knew in settlement contacts back in Chicago, responded.

"After seeing how all of you have gained in weight," she began, eyeing the tables loaded with food, "I am almost afraid to sit down to supper. It pleases me a great deal to see you all so happy. You could have chosen no more beautiful place to spend a vacation than Algonquin."

During supper word reached Miss Addams that one of the mothers had so admired her that she named her child for her. Miss Addams immediately sent for the child and the pair had a visit all to themselves, with life in the camp as the favorite topic, while at another table a mother watched proudly. Shortly after supper the guests motored back to Chicago.

Among yesterday's contributions to the camp fund was $16.80 from an anonymous contributor to purchase two weeks of vacation for two persons. Another anonymous gift for $10 was signed "Thank You." A $25 gift from Paula Weil and $5 from "Anonymous" brought the day's total to $56.80 and the grand total to $1,252.69.

Contributions both to the camp and the free ice fund, which sends the ice man to needy homes for the sake of tiny babies, may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. Each gift is acknowledged in the columns of this newspaper.

Sally Selects Movie Party Guests Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

You can't say I didn't warn you! If your letter doesn't reach me today it's all your own fault. And you'll be sorry, too, because we're going to have a swell time next Tuesday when we go to Warner Brothers' Orpheum theater to see the movie I've been telling you about. One hundred guests will attend the party.

It's "Zoo in Budapest" you know, and Gene Raymond is the hero. He plays the part of an orphan whose father had been one of the best keepers in the huge zoo. He spends all his time with the animals and is fiercely devoted to them. No one may tease or hurt them while he's about, and how the beasts return his devotion is amply shown before the end of this exciting film.

Wally Albright is a youngster who comes to visit the park with his governess—his heart set on riding the elephant. When he is refused permission to do so, the boy takes matters into his own hands, and then. . . !

But I'm not going to tell you more about the picture today—you'll just have to wait till next Tuesday and see what happens. That is, of course, if your letter is a winner, and your name is printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Women List Opportunities of Girl Today

Leaders in Many Fields Reveal Conditions.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Succinctly summed up last night by key women of the business world, the future of the sweet girl graduate of 1933 needn't cause her any trepidation. That there are fields and opportunities awaiting her talents and her ambitions was the consensus of the "occupational trends" dinner of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women at the Stevens hotel, where the findings of two days of round table conferences were reported.

The dinner was a curtain raiser to the opening session of the biennial convention in which the grand ballroom was crowded to hear the address of the president, Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman of Richmond, Va. The dinner report was as vivid a summary as late months have presented of what employed women throughout the country think of the chances of the rising generation to be employed women. Few of the vocations mentioned were called definitely dead as to careers. Some of the chairmen and excerpts from their reports were:

Aviation—Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y. Of 100,000 women in aviation, only fifty are pilots; the rest are stenographers and stewardesses. For a year at least girls who take up flying had better adopt it from the standpoint of sport rather than a livelihood.

Radio—Judith Waller, N. B. C., Chicago—Offers a good field for women as continuity writers, selling, supplying talent, acting in skits, but definitely needs new ideas and good preparation.

Banking and finance—Margaret A. Cheney, Lafayette, Ind.—Offers a limited chance, but women have equal opportunities with men if they have the proper training.

Insurance — Genevieve Forsberg, Chicago—This field is not overcrowded. Best results appear to come from both men and women entering it between the ages of 28 and 40.

Journalism—Myrtle Ellen Labarr, Greensboro, N. C.—At the present moment the consensus was that the field is completely closed, but as conditions improve there should be a tremendous opportunity for women, especially on small town papers.

Nursing—Minnie Gibbs, Asheville, N. C., R. N.—Definitely overcrowded, with 109,000 graduates in the field and 25,000 more turned out annually. Incomes of registered nurses have dropped from $1,300 before the depression to $500 a year. "Choose a training school as carefully as you would choose a husband, if you enter this vocation."

Dentistry and medicine—Dr. Anne Marting, Ironton, O.—No profession offers today so great an opportunity for women as dentistry. The medical world is also wide to her, but it must have the major part of her life- no home interests can be permitted to eclipse it.

Public office—Mrs. Nellie G. Tomlinson, Des Moines, Ia.: Antagonism against women due to economic conditions at present. Present percentage of women officeholders is so small as to be negligible, but we confidently expect improvement with the organized support of women and improving business.

Retail store service—Marie Maloney, Pittsburgh, Pa.: Many more women than men in this field, but they should branch out and train for other positions besides sales jobs.

Secretarial and general office work—Jennie B. Mayfield, Okmulgee, Okla.: For a long time there has been an oversupply of workers, due partly to the mechanizing of office work. It may be offset somewhat by the reduction of school budgets and a lesser number of commercial course gradu-

Beauty Queen of N. U. Given Role in Movie

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 11.—[Special.]—A nice part in a college film, "Saturday's Millions," is awaiting Lucille Lund, Northwestern university contest winner, when she arrives from Evanston. She will be in a cast including Johnny Mack Brown, former Alabama all-American half back; Robert Young, Andy Devine and Leila Hyams, at Universal City. The film is for the autumn gridiron season release and is billed as Universal's followup for the preceding football films: "Spirit of Notre Dame" and "The All-American."

Frieda Miers, blonde beauty of half a dozen Ziegfeld musical shows, who hardly looks old enough to have been in any of them, was greeted at the San Pedro docks by Ed Wynn when she arrived by liner from New York yesterday. Miss Miers says she isn't interested in a movie career. At some of the studios they say they'll have their cameramen squint at her in a screen test just the same.

Ida Lupino, who at 17 is a veteran of several English musical stage hits, is being imported by Paramount next month. She's a daughter of the famous comic, Stanley Lupino.

Esther Ralston, who not long ago was one of the queens of the Paramount lot, is back there again under a one picture assignment, to play in a western. This particular western which happens to be Zane Grey's "To the Last Man" has quite a cast, including Buster Crabbe, Muriel Kirkland, Noah Beery, Jack Larue, Gail Patrick, Barton MacLean and Fuzzy Knight.

Genevieve Tobin, Chester Morris, and Richard Arlen will get a vacation trip to the country at Pendleton, Ore., for several weeks. They are going there to be in wheat harvest scenes for "Golden Harvest."

Velvet, Satin Run Race for Style Honors

Ued in Capes and Gloves for Accents.

BY RHEA SEEGER

Velvet and satin are racing side by side as fashionable and colorful costume accents . . . for instance, the newest capes or capelines to top a long clinging evening gown are of velvet. One gleaming white satin gown that slithers gracefully around the floorline is dramatized with a scarlet velvet short cape and rather long crushed velvet gloves of the same breath taking red shade as the cape. This cape, quite different from the simple garden variety of the shoulder capes that were shrugged over the smartest shoulders last season, is tucked in ridges that stand vertically upright to exaggerate the shoulder seam width. It gives the effect of the swagger shoulder capes on a coachman's greatcoat.

If the heat forbids the serious contemplation of velvet, you might be interested in the newer evening capes of sheer materials, for they are irresistible with dark colored evening gowns. You will find pastel pink and china blue sheers trimmed with flat roses around the lower edge, or you can masquerade as an Aztec princess in capes of feathers, wavery ostrich and colored flat smooth feathers. And there are some very fragile point d'esprit capes in black and colors that will do grand things for dated party frocks that need reviving.

People who know practically rave over the possibilities of new velvet gloves . . . the gloves are going to be smarter and better than last year if that can be achieved. New velvet gloves will have corded cuffs, will be stitched in harmonizing or contrasting colors, and some of them will be trimmed with feathered cuffs to match a velvet ostrich trimmed bonet. It all sounds most intriguing!

Welch's GRAPE JUICE

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Swell Garrick—the World's Perfect Tailor's Dummy—is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training rather than tailoring skill. Maitland, a crooked gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough unknowingly being used as decoy. Maitland plots to trick Rhoda out of a fortune. Garrick exposes to Rhoda, before Maitland and his gang, their crooked card tricks. Garrick is overpowered by Schewan, Maitland's chief, but defeats Schewan's purpose of burning him alive in his car. Maitland has Rhoda adjudged insane. Garrick knows she has been administered a drug which will produce temporary madness. Having no proof of guilt, he determines to settle the matter in his own way. Garrick learns from his solicitor that if Rhoda can gain and maintain her liberty for twenty-eight days she will be considered legally sane. Garrick undertakes a bold rescue. He escapes to London with Rhoda. At night they burgle their way into a private boat house on the Thames. Alf, a farmhand, out of work, finds their hideout. Garrick hires him as a helper and buys his silence. Next day Garrick returns to his home, where his life is threatened by the gang who have broken into the house. One of the gang is shot before the rest make their getaway and Garrick is suspected by the police. On his way that night to join Rhoda at the boat house Garrick aids a young woman in distress. A policeman recognizes him and thinks the young woman is Miss Faircliough. He takes them to the police station.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

ELUDING ARREST.

Garrick's first annoyance gave place now to something approaching satisfaction. Lanport had been altogether too clever—which was amusing.

At the police station the superintendent in charge telephoned to Lanport.

"We've got Mr. Garrick with a young lady. He admits he is Mr. Garrick, but they both deny that the young lady is Miss Faircliough.

The superintendent looked across at the girl, then glanced at the photograph of Rhoda which had appeared in the Evening Record the previous day. "If it is Miss Faircliough it's not very like that picture of her in the Record yesterday. We haven't had a special photograph of her from you—only of him. I'll just write it down. Five foot seven. If you'll just hold the line I'll make sure."

He turned to the girl.

"Now, miss, if you'll let us measure you, maybe we can settle it at once. You don't look to me five foot seven—not more than five foot two, at a guess. . . ."

Five foot two proved to be an extremely accurate guess.

A constable in the corridor collared him from behind with an iron grip across his neck.

"It's no good, the lady's only five foot two," said the superintendent into the telephone. "And we've wrongfully arrested both of them. . . . What! . . . Very good, Mr. Lanport."

"The lady can go—and I'm very sorry, Miss Eddis, that the mistake has been made. But I must ask you to stay here, Mr. Garrick."

"I'm sorry, superintendent," drawled Garrick, "but to stay here would be most inconvenient——"

"I have orders to arrest you on suspicion of being concerned in the murder of Archibald Lawson."

The girl looked at Garrick, tried to stammer something and then allowed herself to be ushered out of the charge room by a constable.

"The poor child is frightened out of her wits!" remarked Garrick. "Now as to this murder business—there is surely some mistake!"

"There's no mistake as far as I'm concerned!" the superintendent answered. It's my duty to arrest you and I'm going to do it. Perhaps you'll give me your full name and address, please."

Garrick gave particulars of himself and signed them.

"Would you like to make a statement?" asked the superintendent, and then added the official warning.

"I have already made a full statement to Scotland Yard."

"Then if you wish, you may consult your solicitor, and for that purpose you may use the telephone," recited the superintendent automatically.

"You haven't got it quite right, superintendent," smiled Garrick. "The regulations say 'solicitor or friend.' I want to consult my friend."

"Name and address of friend?" asked the superintendent.

"Detective-Inspector Lanport, New Scotland Yard," answered Garrick. A couple of minutes later Garrick was speaking to Detective-Inspector Lanport.

"Mr. Lanport? . . . Garrick speaking. I say, Lanport, when we were chatting this afternoon I formed the impression that you were the kind of man who would always play the game according to the rules."

"You've no right to complain, Mr. Garrick," came the answer. "You slipped our man this evening and put yourself under suspicion."

"True—but you know that my slipping your man had nothing to do with the murder. You know that you do not believe that I committed the murder or had anything to do with it."

"I'm simply obeying my orders and cannot discuss them with you."

"A weak excuse, Lanport!" said Garrick sadly. "The worst of it is that, as you have started playing low down, I shall have to play low down."

"You won't do much playing of any kind for a bit," chuckled Lanport. "I can't continue this conversation, Mr. Garrick," he added and cut off.

Garrick still kept the receiver to his ear.

"Very well!" said Garrick into the mouthpiece as if Lanport were still listening. "You wish to speak to the superintendent now."

Garrick now passed the receiver to the superintendent and himself stood, relaxed—to all appearances the very last man in the world to start any "rough stuff," every line of him suggesting lassitude and indifference.

"Superintendent Nevett speaking . . . Hullo!"

Then Garrick's lassitude vanished. It was some ten feet to the door where stood a constable. Garrick covered the distance so quickly that a sharp push was sufficient to throw the officer off his balance and enable Garrick to slip through the door and slam it behind him.

A shout rose and even as Garrick slammed the door a constable in the corridor, whom he had not seen, collared him from behind, with an iron grip across his neck.

Garrick positively hurled himself and the constable in a headlong dive to the floor. Pivoting on his elbow, the two of them turned a complete somersault so that, as they rolled flat, the constable was undermost.

As Garrick gained his feet the door of the charge room opened and a constable fell over his prostrate comrade.

The confusion in the corridor gave Garrick a good five seconds' start—and in five seconds a highly trained athlete can do much.

He ran in a straight line, turned one corner and then, as clamor broke out behind him, turned another. At the second corner luck favored him in the form of an automobile parked by the curb. By the time he had started the engine the first of the pursuing policemen had drawn level. But the policeman was under the handicap of being uncertain whether Garrick had slipped into the car or not. As the car leapt forward with a scream in bottom gear, the constable was quite sure.

Garrick shot ahead and turned a corner on to Richmond Hill, then turned again and drove at full speed toward Kew Bridge. "The question is, how long it will take them to get me out of this."

The constable would have to get back to the station, describe the car and give the number if he had noted it.

"Call it ten minutes!" decided Garrick and in six minutes had reached Kew bridge. Here he turned westward away from London and ran into Brentford. He drew up outside a public house, parked, and got out.

If one could borrow a car, why could not one borrow a boat? There was a ferry at Isleworth and the ferryman would not be on duty at that hour.

He found the ferry without difficulty. He pushed off and started to row.

It had been a tricky business working his way through the lights of Richmond. Above the bridge he waited for ten minutes and, finding no signs of pursuit, rowed on.

In the end he bumped lightly into the Leprecaun before he located it—for Rhoda had had the wisdom not to use the electric lights. He tied the ferry boat and then gave a loud whisper to reassure them.

BY MARY MEADE.

Summer time is freezing time. And July is a salad month. The answer—frozen salads.

Whipped cream and mayonnaise are usually added to salads before freezing to give them a smooth, creamy texture. For this reason the salads are rich and a 2 or 3 inch cube is sufficient with a dinner. Or these frozen salads may be served as the main course of a light summer luncheon and a little larger piece be allotted to each diner.

First, we have a frozen tomato salad which is unusual and nippy.

FROZEN TOMATO SALAD.

1 level tablespoon granulated gelatin.
¼ cup cold water.
1½ cups canned tomato soup.
3 ounces cream cheese [one package].
1 tablespoon onion juice.
½ cup mayonnaise.
½ cup whipping cream.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
¼ cup sliced stuffed olives.
¼ cup finely diced celery.

Soak the gelatin in the water for 5 minutes. Heat the soup in a double boiler, and add the cheese and soaked gelatin. Stir until the gelatin is dissolved, and cool. Fold in the whipped cream, mayonnaise, salt, olives, onion juice, and celery. Pour into a refrigerator tray and freeze or pack into a baking powder can and bury in an ice cream freezer containing 5 parts of ice to 1 part of salt.

Next comes pineapple and dates in a frozen salad. It gives a pleasant texture that you will enjoy.

FROZEN PINEAPPLE AND DATE SALAD.

3 ounces cream cheese [1 package].
¼ cup mayonnaise.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
½ cup whipping cream.
½ cup drained crushed pineapple.
½ cup chopped dates.

Cream the cheese with the mayonnaise until smooth. Add the lemon juice and whipped cream. Mix in the pineapple and dates lightly and freeze as directed above.

This frozen cheese salad is gay and colorful.

FROZEN CHEESE SALAD.

6 ounces cream cheese [2 packages].
1 cup mayonnaise.
12 ripe olives, chopped.
12 stuffed olives, sliced.
2-3 cup whipping cream.

Cream the cheese with the mayonnaise until smooth. Fold in the olives and whipped cream and freeze as directed above. To serve, slice crosswise, lay each section on a leaf of lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise and a stuffed olive.

"TOO FAT TO LOVE" They Laughed

POOR Mary! She didn't mean to eavesdrop but she couldn't help hearing her friends. They were talking about her. "Too fat to love," one of the boys snickered.

Are you handicapped by a figure that is robbed of its natural grace by excess fat? Why put up with a condition like this? Unlovely abnormal, excess fat is traced so often to just one condition—a body deficiency, which doctors call "low metabolism." Too much food turns to fat instead of energy. And, ever since 1907, there has been a famous prescription, turned to by multitudes, to counteract this deficiency. Its formula includes among its 19 constituents, important vegetable, organic and mineral ingredients which doctors the world over regularly prescribe. No starvation diet—simply avoid fattening foods. Over 20 million boxes of this formula have been bought, by people tired of ineffective methods. Ask for Marmola at any good drug store. Only $1.00.

the cruising boats will be sailing for the Chicago-Mackinac trophy.

One of the entries in the racing class will be the Hope, which was purchased last year by Theodore W. Robinson Jr. after having established a notable reputation in the east near Marblehead. Others in the crew will be Mr. Robinson's brother, Sanger, and William Goltra of St. Louis.

Another contender in the race will be John P. Wilson's Mallabar X., which won the Bermuda race last winter. Just last week Mr. Wilson piloted the yacht down from Charlevoix with Joseph H. King and William B. Hale aboard.

Famous Bluenose May Be Entry.

Sheldon Clark, we are told, has plans for entering the famous schooner Bluenose in the competition. And if he does it will be one of the hardest races that have been sailed in these twenty-six years. The Bluenose, which has been brought here from its home port of Lunenbourg, Nova Scotia, for the World's Fair, is the fine racing champion of the north Atlantic fishing fleet with four international racing classics to her credit.

Incidentally Capt. Angus J. Walters, who is in command of the Bluenose, and the other members of the crew are to be the guests of the Canadian Club of Chicago at a dinner at 7:15 this evening at the Midland club. Capt. Walters will be called upon to tell some yarns of the sea.

Sterling Morton and Malcolm Vail, who have an equal interest in the Gossoon, are entering this yacht in the Mackinac race. Then there will be the Bagherra, which has finished at the top several times and is captained by Robert P. Benedict; the Valkyrie, which belongs to John T. Snite; Col. Albert E. Peirce's Quicksilver, and the Chimon, which Henry K. Hill of the Royal Canadian Yacht club at Toronto brought into the Belmont harbor yesterday.

Smart Clothes at Arlington.

Those three attractive sisters, Mrs. Edward N. Hurley Jr., Mrs. Julius T. Benedict, and Mme. Rene La Brosi, formed one of the gayest parties in the Post and Paddock yesterday afternoon at the Arlington Park race track. All of their costumes represented interesting varieties of race track attire. Mrs. Hurley was wearing a blue and white ensemble with a nautical air; Mrs. Benedict's printed dress and flower trimmed leghorn hat looked like a summer garden, and Mme. La Brosi was gowned in the ever smart black.

A large party was that of Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon. Her guests included Miss Polly Ensign, Mrs. Pardee Erdman, Mrs. "Jack" Hawkins, Mrs. William Burry Jr., Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., Miss Elizabeth Taylor, and Mrs. Josephine Merck.

Mrs. Charles McCulloch was entertaining, among others, Mrs. Britton I. Budd, Miss Mary Noyes, and Mrs. Helmut H. von Erffa, the former Eleanor Folansbee. Then there was the attractive Mrs. Anne Camden Stoll, who comes from Versailles, Ky., with Mrs. Roy Carruthers, Mrs. Lawrence Stern, and Mrs. John D. Hertz.

Mrs. Warren Wright, attractive in a white costume, was wearing at least sixteen strands of beads around her neck. She sat near the Honore Palmers and Mrs. Palmer's brother, George Brown Jr. of Baltimore. As is her habit, Miss Dorothy Marshall appeared at the Post and Paddock "sans" stockings. Her dress was black linen and her hat white straw.

Postpone Fair Tour Benefit.

The first of the series of dances to provide funds for Fair tours for dependent and poor children, originally scheduled for tonight at the Joseph Urban room of the Congress hotel, has been postponed until next Wednesday.

Today, the opening day of the Mid-Administration congress of the National League of American Pen Women, is indeed a full and busy one for the delegates with a drama luncheon at the Stevens hotel, a reception and tea in the Spanish roof garden and pent house of Mrs. Howard L. Willett, and a theater party tonight given by Mrs. Franklin Mason Miller. Her guests will be Mrs. Clara Keck Heffebower of Brookline, Mass., national president of the league, and visiting women writers from New York and California. This will be followed by a supper party on the terrace of Mrs. Miller's Lake Shore drive home.

Many Parties for FitzGeralds.

The Harold Fitz Geralds of New York [she is the former Mrs. Harlan Bolton of Lake Forest], who have been here a few days visiting Mrs. William P. Martin in her Lake Forest home, may be able to spend part of their days at the Fair, but they certainly have to hurry back to Lake Forest every evening to attend the various dinner parties that are being given for them. Last night the Samuel T. Chases entertained for the Fitz Geralds, tonight Mrs. Martin is giving a dinner for them, Friday night the Joseph M. Cudahys are giving a dinner, and Saturday Robert F. Carr has invited them to the Post and Paddock club at Arlington for the races. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Odell have invited Mr. and Mrs. Fitz Gerald to dine Monday night, and the following night, a week from today, the Frederick Hampden Winstons are entertaining for them. The Donald R. McLennans are also planning a dinner party for them, to be given next week before these attractive visitors return to New York.

Flax Makes Coat-Dress from Worth for Midsummer Wear Along Potomac

BY SUZETTE BARILLET.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Madame Laboulaye, the wife of France's new ambassador to the United States, took along with her to Washington the coat dress shown in our sketch today.

Somebody in the know doubtless told Madame Laboulaye that the weather along the Potomac gets considerably more hectic in summer than the kind that is rampant in Paris, because she had Worth make this frock in a material woven with flax, about the coolest known fabric. It is cool, pale, gray in color, and the fabric looks just like wool. Of course, it hasn't even one small wool raveling in it, but just looks that way to carry on the harmony of the trim tailored lines.

This model has a yoke along the shoulders which extends out over the tops of the sleeves to create a reasonably wide effect there. It is open in a deep U in front to show the daintiest white piqué jabots edged with scalloped, embroidered bands. This jabot is attached to a plain piqué dicky.

Below the jabot the dress wraps over to the left side and closes on four honest bone buttons. The bias band that borders the decolletage continues around the waistline at the back to make a half belt.

The skirt of this dress has a box plait in front and a single plait at the back to supply plenty of room around the hem.

ates. Versatility and flexibility are needed. Few chances now for women to become executives, but training and ability will improve them.

Advertising and promotion—Mrs. Nellie V. Wetherell, Bellingham, Wash.: Has a special appeal to women because of its diversity. Not overcrowded and probably will remain so under other conditions.

Ownership and management—Mrs. Emma R. Yearain, sheep rancher of Lemhi, Idaho: The only real competition is from materials—not from men. Individuality and courage make for success. No overcrowding.

Miss Isabella Dolton, assistant superintendent of schools of Chicago, reported on the teaching round table, but only from the perspective of the best methods for business women to follow to help the profession today.

Miss Mary Stewart of Washington, D. C., national education chairman, in summarizing the trends, pointed out that too many business women see conditions in their own lines through personal rather than human lines, and that a broad perspective is necessary for the best judgment. A survey of the reports indicated, she declared, that discrimination against women is extensive in many lines, some logical and some inevitable, and women will have to watch carefully to maintain their gains to date.

"It is not to be ignored that civil service is threatened," she added. "Perhaps it has its drawbacks, but it is a step in the right direction and therefore it should have our support."

Sixty members of the federation are scheduled to ride in planes flying in formation over the city today, one of the first instances in which formation flying has been done by any but army men.

Legalization of beer has not resulted in any drop in the consumption of candy, Mrs. Ora H. Snyder of Chicago, candy manufacturer, informed the ownership and management round table conference earlier in the day.

"The man who drinks beer is going to eat candy, too, if he likes it," she said. "It is all a matter of personal taste. I don't drink beer myself, but I am glad to see it come back, for I believe it has made people happier, which is an aid to business.

Earl of Warwick Weds Friend of His Childhood

LONDON, July 11.—(AP)—A friendship that started in childhood culminated today in the marriage in the little village church at Glynde, Sussex, of Rose Bingham to the seventh earl of Warwick, Charles Guy Greville. The bride is a granddaughter of Gen. Sir Cecil Bingham. The bridegroom, master of historic Warwick castle in Warwickshire, is 22 years old. An absentee member of the family was the 94 year old dowager countess of Rosslyn, great-grandmother of both the bride and bridegroom. Sybil, Lady Eden, 95 years of age, was among the guests.

Atlantic City, N. The initial session of the council was devoted entirely to routine business. Earl C. Mills of Des Moines, Ia., the retiring imperial potentate, made his annual report.

MINUTE MYSTERY

THE BOARDING HOUSE MURDER.

"You're sure nothing has been touched since the tragedy?" the professor inquired of Miss Emma Wiggins, proprietor of a boarding house for the "élite."

"Positive," responded the tight lipped spinster.

Fordney pushed the button of the freshly oiled rod and the transom opened with hardly a sound. He then looked down and found several bits of mud on the threadbare carpet. These he put into an envelope.

"Now," he said, turning to the taciturn woman, "tell me what you know about this murder."

"Well," came the rasping reply. "At 9 o'clock a stranger, giving the name of Johnson, rang the bell and said he had an appointment with Mr. Wilton, who has occupied this room for over two years, so I let him go up. I retired to my own room, two doors down the hall from Wilton's, to prepare for bed. Shortly afterwards I heard loud, angry voices. I don't like such things in my house, so I opened my door, stepped into the hall, and was going to Mr. Wilton's rooms to protest when I heard a shot and saw this Mr. Johnson climb through the transom a second or two later. He threatened me with his revolver . . . I stood still with terror. After he ran down the steps and banged the front door I tried to enter Mr. Wilton's room but it was locked. Then I called the police."

The professor looked intently at the woman's shabby bathrobe. "I'll have to hold you, Miss Wiggins, until you tell the truth," he said.

WHY DID FORDNEY HOLD THE WOMAN?

Quadruplet Sisters Reject Stage Offers to Attend College

Waco, Tex., July 11.—(AP)—Quadruplet sisters from Hollis, Okla., to whom no offers of stage contracts appeal like going away to college, will enter Baylor university next fall.

Mona, Roberta, Leota, and Mary Keys, 18 year old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Flake Keys, already have reserved rooms in Memorial dormitory.

They were graduated from high school with high honors. One was the class valedictorian, three were members of the National Scholarship society, one was chosen as the most nearly perfect home economics girl, another was editor of the high school paper, and all are vocalists and saxophonists.

The girls are healthy, normal and happy, but don't look alike. Roberta and Mona, brunettes, closely resemble each other. Leota, the blonde of the quartet, is as tall as the other two but more slender. Mary is an inch shorter than her sisters.

"I wish people could think of us as individuals," Mona said.

But they are not considered separately.

Here Are Two English Novels to Please Fans

They Live Up to Test for British Tales.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"At the Sign of the Lame Dog," by R. H. Mottram. [Houghton-Mifflin.]

"Seven by Seven," by Hans Duffy. [Morrow.]

Today these two novels about English life—at either end of the social scale—come off the press to minister to the yearnings of those who "like an English novel." [And you'd be surprised how many readers there are who do. In the dear dead days beyond recall I used to peddle books in the most amusing shop between the two oceans. There was a whole phalanx of customers who practically wore out our uncomfortable wooden seated chairs waiting for boxes of books to be unpacked so that they might bear home to their metaphorical firesides or their hammocks the "latest English novel."]

These are just the kind of novels those Anglophiles would adore . . . typical of the good mine run of English tales, one of them about a quaint inn and its quaint occupants and the other about a great estate, "an island kingdom," the author calls it, and its pleasantly mad inhabitants.

What English literature would do without the inn with a "quaint" name I dare not conjecture. By actual count I'll wager that more books have been written about horse-trading owners of old inns in the English countryside than about any other heroes in the English language. The owner of "The Lame Dog" is cut perfectly to the popular pattern. He is everything that demanding readers could ask for. For 311 pages the author gives his admirers everything that they have always demanded—shrewd old man, son turning mechanic and starting a garage, daughter marrying the butler from 'is lordship's service and starting an inn of their own, just enough tragedy to give reality to the otherwise uneventful record of the countryside's days.

I read every word of those pages, in the same way that you listen to every word of your Aunt Nellie's reiteration of the story of her youth when if she hadn't fallen suddenly in love with a doctor and eloped with him she would have been the Patti of her day. You bet with yourself "She'll change only three words in it this time," and you have to listen to be able to collect your winnings.

R. H. Mottram, its author, once wrote a fine novel, "The Spanish Farm." That was before he learned the knack of writing the typical English countryside novel.

Readers who want "smart" English novels will be delighted with "Seven by Seven," which is as perfectly in its tradition as "At the Sign of the Lame Dog" is in its. The "Seven" are all members of a family owning a vast tourist-visited estate and little money to support it in the luxury to which it has been used until one of the seven marries a rich American girl and life can be resumed in the ancestral halls in the popular devil-may-care modern manner.

Hans Duffy has made "characters" of all of his characters, Lady Cadmium, who is aggressively clever, always saying such things as "Mind you, I've nothing to say against Americans; in fact, I like them, but you can't deny it IS like having tea in the housekeeper's room." Her son, Orange, Lord Cadmium, who "had tried to impress on her the necessity of observing a rigid etiquette in her dealings with the new world. 'They are very formal, like all barbarous people.'" Her daughter, Kate, who married a Levington-Boyle of the "obvious Levington-Boyles." Her daughter, Susie, who was deserted by her good-looking husband, Gerry Witton-Lewar, for an Argentinian marquesa because he was too fond of his wife to be any further financial burden to her.

Another daughter, Frankie, who was so shy that she said as a child that she hoped to see all of the local ghosts before she died because she thought "they would be a distinct improvement on real people" . . . and did see them. Another son, Wilfrid, who described the girl he wanted to marry to his sister "in the blackest colors, with the idea of getting the worst over before they met." And still another, Dan, who was "regilded" by his marriage to Selah, the last word in American millionheiresses.

It's all gay and amusing—even the deaths are treated with the proper levity—and the insatiable seeker after "a smart English novel" could ask nothing more, and he gets nothing less in "Seven by Seven."

Young Girls Urged to Forget Makeup During the Summer

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's the very mischief of a job trying to get makeup on smartly and then keeping it on on not days. Personally, I would like to see the younger women rely purely on their stunning health and wholesome cleanliness, even though their faces shine like a Dutch housewife's copper kettles.

Incidentally, some of them are doing just that. Especially for sports' wear they're being their gorgeous young selves, forgetting for the time being that the nose is shining, the brow glistening and the cheeks perhaps strung with beads of perspiration. At the evening dance they can revert to the artificial age. But all this face sweating I think excellent for the skin. It's nature's way of clearing the pores.

It would be inhuman to expect the older face to turn nudist all of a sudden. So it is the matron's problem to make the makeup stay on and go on nicely. The foundation base for makeup becomes her preliminary makeup step. She'll need her three items—a cleansing cream, an astringent, and a powder base. Maybe she'd prefer a cleansing lotion during these hot days, or a liquefying cream, because it works more easily and quickly.

I would like to see more older women get the cold-water, face-dousing habit. As an astringent this is a good one. And it cannot harm any face. On the contrary, it plays a vital part in stimulating just the circulation her skin needs.

Whole Family Takes Hand in Child Training

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"I was such a fool when I was young," said a mother of grown up children to me the other day. "I wish you'd write an article to keep other mothers from making the mistake I made.

"I was one of a large family and for a long time after I was married I lived at home. My first baby was a boy and all his uncles had a finger in the pie when it came to managing him.

"And like the foolish young thing that I was, I would listen to them when they found fault with him for this or that. I adored the baby, but I was both impulsive and quick tempered, and many a time I spanked that first dear little son of mine because his Uncle Gerald told me something he'd done and said that what he needed was a spanking. I woke up when the second and third babies came along, but then I wouldn't have had that trouble anyhow, because they were girls and their uncles tried very hard to spoil them."

You may think this mother didn't have much backbone, but she did. These things take mothers unawares sometimes. A large family of grownups and one child is a difficult combination. They are apt either to spoil him with overindulgence or criticize him constantly. A mother who has her little child's small offenses against the comforts of grownups constantly brought to her attention often grows confused and punishes too often and when she shouldn't.

Even with two grownups in a family and one child similar things can happen. A child moves through his days trying to satisfy his inner needs, trying to get his growth and find himself.

Doris Tells Boy 'Gimme' Girls Won't Change

BY DORIS BLAKE.

How about an article, Doris, writes "Just Plain Sap," on the fifty-two Sundays a year eating-out program that some of us poor saps must meet during the current economic strain?

"My dear girl friend, engaged, wants to see me every Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. This means an auto ride into the country or down to the seashore with Sunday supper along the road. I have not missed these dates once in over two years. Gasoline and supper money are putting a strain on the burning romance.

"The girl friend has yet to invite me for even a small sandwich at her home, and the several times I have pretended other business on Sunday left her with a sour face, so the poor sap conceded and went, as usual. I'm getting tired of it. Why don't you, Doris, give the girls a little hint that we poor saps work for our money?"

Why put the responsibility on me, "J. P. S.?" Why not slip the girl a hint, yourself? Why be the sap you call yourself?

But, let's get down to plain facts and the real reason behind your sandwichless problem! There are a lot of boys just like you! You would not give a second look to the kind of girl who would be willing to fix up a few sandwiches and tote them along for a Sunday picnic.

You like the other type of girl because she's flashier, maybe prettier; maybe just because she is more exacting. Your mistake is trying to remold her after a time.

Collins, Piano Soloist, Given Critic's Praise

Appears in Faculty Series of Music College.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Edward Collins gave a piano recital yesterday morning in the Punch & Judy theater as an item in the series of summer concerts by members of the faculty of the Chicago Musical college. He was a learned and persuasive player in Beethoven's Andante in F and a group by Brahms, somewhat lighter in mood and still highly expressive in a Chopin group.

He next introduced a group from his own pen consisting of three elaborately written and contrasting waltzes, "Valse Elegante," "Valse Limpide," and "Valse Capricieuse," and his still more complex "Passacaglia," which were entirely deserving of their reception by the audience. From there he passed to a final pair by MacDowell and Liszt, which his brilliant technic allowed him to perform with complete apparent ease.

Twelve Negro choirs of Chicago, Evanston, Gary, and St. Louis will mass their forces in a concert of spirituals Friday evening on the floating theater of A Century of Progress. They will be directed by James A. Mundy, who as leader of his own group of choristers has been giving brilliant performances of the same kind for several weeks there.

Visiting composers of the National League of American Pen Women will be presented in a concert at the Stevens hotel Friday evening. One of the featured artists will be Gena Branscombe, who will conduct her own "Youth of the World."

The second of the series of ballad concerts at A Century of Progress took place last night on the floating theater in the north lagoon. The program was given by Ethel Hottinger, mezzo-soprano; Roger Robinson, baritone, taking the place of Frederic Jencks, who was absent because of illness, and Nina Mesirow Minchin, accompanist and piano soloist.

With a somewhat different selection of numbers this would have been an uncommonly pleasant concert. Ballads are always irreproachable in sentiment and frequently charming in melody. Miss Hottinger and Mr. Robinson are greatly gifted by nature in voice and by training in the art of projecting songs, and Mrs. Minchin is a highly talented pianist.

The trouble was that none of them nor the three together could overcome the fact that eight out of the first nine numbers were in slow motion. Wherefore it is desirable that future programs of the sort have more decided contrasts of pace.

SOX WHIP SENATORS; CUBS RALLY TO WIN, 6-2

IRISH FIGHTERS SAIL TODAY FOR CHICAGO BOUTS

WIN! CHEERING DUBLIN URGES ITS CHAMPIONS

Visit London, Then Board Ship.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 11.—The Irish boxers who will take part in the International Golden Gloves bouts at Soldiers' field, Chicago, on Aug. 2 left Dun Laoghaire tonight en route to London and Southampton, where they will board the Majestic, sailing tomorrow for New York.

They were seen off by an enthusiastic crowd headed by Lord Mayor Byrne of Dublin, who wished the team God speed aboard the mail boat. The boxers lined up for photographs with the lord mayor, who told them they were going to engage in a friendly battle with the chosen champions of a great nation with which Ireland is joined by ties of kinship.

Urges Team to Win.

"We hope," he said, "you will come back with victory. To set out with any less intention than winning would be unworthy of the country that will be your host. But win or lose, you'll play the game. It is no less important that you win than that your victories should be the fruit of a well fought game.

"You will be surrounded in that great country by kith and kin. They will look to you to uphold the fighting traditions of the race. You will not disappoint. Dublin and Ireland will watch your progress. I wish you luck and may you carry the Irish colors atop every bout. May we be able to welcome you on your return as the Golden Gloves champions for 1933."

Want to Take Every Bout.

Capt. W. O'Brien, manager of the team, thanked the lord mayor and said the boys would not be satisfied if they did not win eight bouts out of eight. Gen. W. R. Murphy, president of the Irish Boxing association, shook hands with the boxers and wished them success.

Mayor Byrne gave Capt. O'Brien a blackthorn walking stick and a special letter to Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago. The steamer left the quays amid loud cheering by the great crowd ashore.

Gen. Murphy asserted he has every reason to believe that the team will be victorious in a majority of the bouts.

The Irish team will arrive in Chicago July 20.

HEARNS STAR ATHLETE

BY JERRY CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 11—Garda Richard Hearns, the Irish Free State light heavyweight champion, who will meet the Chicago light heavyweight in the International Golden Gloves bouts at Soldiers' field on Aug. 2, is one of Ireland's greatest football players and fishing authorities.

These two activities have been his chief interests in sports, although he has reached championship heights in boxing in the short space of four years. It was not until 1928 that Hearns first put on the gloves.

Hearns hails from Ballina in County Mayo. Twelve years ago, when he was fourteen, he ran away from school and his home along the Moy to join the Irish Free State National army. He was a big, powerful lad and had little trouble falsifying his age upon his enlistment.

Parents Advise Him to Stay.

Father and Mother Hearns sought unsuccessfully for eight months to learn of his whereabouts. Army life lost it glamor fast and Hearns finally wrote home, revealing his enlistment, in the hope that his parents would buy him out of the service. Mr. and Mrs. Hearns decided, however, that a full hitch with the infantry would be a worthwhile experience for Richard and advised him to stay in the ranks.

Army officers recognized Hearns' athletic ability and suggested to him that he take up boxing. The ring held no lure for him, however, and he sidestepped every invitation to test

June Beebe's 163 Leads in WesternDerby

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

June Beebe of Olympia Fields, western open champion, made her move yesterday in the fifth annual Derby of the Women's Western Golf association at the Sunset Ridge Country club. Trailing by four strokes at the end of the first lap Monday, she sprinted through yesterday's 18 holes in 80, two over par, to take the lead in the field at the half way mark with a 36 hole total of 83—80—163.

Mrs. Pardue Fourth.

Rena Nelson of Exmoor, the early leader with a 79 Monday, refused to drop back farther than second yesterday, reaching the end of the first 36 in 79—86—165. Running in third place was Helen MacMorran, daughter of Joe MacMorran, Indian Hill professional. Tied for second at the end of the opening 18 holes, she came home in 84 yesterday for an 82—84—166.

Mrs. H. Austin Pardue of Minneapolis, moved into fourth place with

Athletes as Well as Diplomats Warned of European Wiles

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—Your correspondent would hate to do anything which might tend to set back Anglo-American relations or Franco-American relations, which are always being thrown for a loss by some trifling incident, but it does seem that when an American tennis artist plays a European in an important match on the other side, these days, the American should be warned to take no chances in the clinches.

Last year it was Wilmer Allison of the American Davis cup team, who lost his match and thereby lost the cup to Jean Borotra, the bounding Basque or the ol' Manassa mauler, or whatever his poetic title may be, by a sour decision of the officials.

Last Saturday Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, playing against Miss Dorothy Round, in defense of the British women's singles championship, lost the first set of tennis which has gone against her in six years. Miss Round was leading 7 games to 6 in the long second set and Mrs. Moody was leading 40-30 in the fourteenth game when the umpire called a ball out.

Linesman Contradicts Umpire.

Mrs. Moody, taking his word that she had won the game, stepped back to get herself a drink of water. The linesman, however, corrected the umpire and the game was deuced, whereupon, the reports say, Mrs. Moody's concentration seemed to be disturbed. She then lost the game and for the first time in six years lost a set of tennis to another girl.

Mrs. Moody made no complaint. She went on to win the next set and the match and retain the title.

Last year Mr. Allison made no complaint. This was attended to by some of the Americans residing in Paris, but the result stood and the Davis cup remained in France. Not that absence of the Davis cup from the United States is a matter of much importance. Originally intended as a trophy of sport and a vessel from which the nations were to drink to one another in loving kindness and respect, it has become the excuse for much lying and chiseling and hypocritical make-believe by professional amateurs and by mercenary tennis associations. It has also been filled more often with bitter stuff which left a very unpleasant taste than with the wine of international amity.

Magnify Cup's Importance.

Acknowledging the Davis cup to be more of an international nuisance and minor menace than a boon, however, when Americans do play for it they should beware of the home town or patriotic decision, especially in France. The French have exaggerated the importance of this trophy to such an extent that the Davis cup challenge round is no longer a sporting contest, but a trial of the prestige of the republic. Similarly, no doubt, now that Primo Carnera has won the heavyweight championship of the world, his defeat, when it comes, if delivered by the hands of a foreigner, will be a great blow to Italy.

The Davis cup never was so highly

Red Wagon Wins Again at Arlington

BY FRENCH LANE.

The New York colt, Red Wagon, racing for the Sagamore stable, is certainly taking picks on the horses of Warren Wright of Chicago.

A few days ago, when Mr. Wright, his trainer, Dan Stewart, and everybody else in the Calumet stable thought their color bearer, Count Rae, had been honed and primed for the race of his life, along came Red Wagon at odds of 60 to 1 to hand Count Rae a trimming.

Mr. Wright sent his star 2 year old, Hadagal, out to capture the Deerfield purse at Arlington yesterday. His jinx, Red Wagon, also was entered. But, said the fans, "Wait until our Chicago colt gets after him today."

Hadagal Is Favorite.

They bet that way. Hadagal was the top heavy favorite. Red Wagon was a 15 to 1 shot. Then came the race.

It was strictly a struggle between Hadagal and Red Wagon. In the early stages Red Wagon trailed Hadagal, but he was making him sizzle the track with every ounce of run he possessed.

They came down the stretch in that order. At the sixteenth pole Red Wagon ran right past Mr. Wright's Hadagal. The latter came again, but lost the verdict by a nod at the winning post. Yes, sir! The folks in Mr. Wright's Calumet stable will long remember the Red Wagon.

He is a son of Canter-Rougette and is the best son Canter has sent to the races. The Audley farms' Trey finished in third place behind, and Vicar from Belair stud, highly rated in the east, was fourth. The others never were contenders.

Red Wagon reeled off the 5½ furlongs in 1:05 3-5. Red Wagon appears as if he can beat most any 2 year old. It is too bad some one forgot to name him for the Arlington Futurity, otherwise he would receive a real test.

East Wins Again.

The colt Hadagal is a son of Sir Gallahad III.-Erne and a full brother to Pansy Walker. He faltered in the

SOX POUND TWO PITCHERS; BEAT SENATORS, 9-3

Miller Holds Washington Batters in Check.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—The White Sox carried on today as if they didn't know the Senators were topping the American league race. If they knew it they didn't let it cause them any concern. They simply stepped out with a big splurge in the first inning, followed with a bigger one in the third, and then coasted to an easy 9 to 3 triumph behind the southpawing of Walter Miller. The jolt administered the Senators was sufficient to reduce them to a two game advantage over the second place New York Yankees.

Joe Cronin, the youthful leader of the locals, may have been a bit surprised at the way in which the Chicagoans lathered Alvin Crowder with hits, but a sound beating for the foxy old gentleman was due. He pitched six innings in New York last Tuesday. He worked three in the battle of the all-stars at Chicago last Thursday. On Saturday he went the route to whip the Cleveland Indians. And he had hopes of going the route again today, but the Sox relieved him of that burden. They thumped him for three runs in the opening session and blew him right out of the picture in a noisy third marked by a five man parade across the plate.

Swanson Leads Attack.

The prime mover in the anti-Crowder crusade was Evar Swanson. He tripled to inaugurate the three run jump at the start. Mule Haas, Red Kress, and Al Simmons joined in this stampede. Swanson endeavored to start another insurrection by doubling in the second, but his mates didn't follow.

In the third, after Crowder had been banished and Jack Russell was serving, Swanson singled to aid in the building up of five more runs. Kress also had a hand in this affair. Then late in the game Swanson scored the final run by helping himself to one of a few hits yielded by Monte Weaver.

The limited amount of trouble encountered by Miller, who six weeks ago blanked the Senators on two hits, appeared in two different spots. A couple of hits in the third let the home boys break in with their initial run. Three hits in the fifth added two more runs and raised the league leaders' hit total to seven. But in the four concluding innings they were just a bunch of batting chumps in his hands and didn't produce another safe clout until the ninth.

Swanson Hits Triple.

The hilarity in the first inning began with Swanson tripling to the fence in left center. He didn't have to wait long before Haas' single gave him a chance to score. In celebration of his return to the first base job Kress singled to left. Simmons whacked a long single into right, scoring Haas and planting Kress on third. Then after four straight hits the fun subsided quickly. Appling flied to center, but Kress preferred to remain at third. He went home a moment later on Dykes' boost to right field. Crowder's troubles for the time being closed when Hayes fouled to Kuhel.

Kress singled to center to open the third and things began to hum for Crowder immediately. He was able to fan Simmons before the riot really started. Appling punched a single over second and a pass to Dykes filled the bags. Hayes slammed a wicked drive to right, but Harris stabbed it, Kress scoring. Berry singled to left and Appling crossed the plate. Crowder was excused for the day. Russell took over the job and Miller singled, loading the bases. Swanson's single sent two of the runners home and Miller followed on a hit by Haas.

Miller Checks Attack.

The Washington patrons, who never are very kind in their remarks, began to get after Miller in the home third. They thought the veteran was about to do a brodie, but he crossed them up by surrendering only one run after a bad start. Sewell opened with a

SCORE SIX RUNS IN EIGHTH TO BEAT DODGERS

Carroll Routed in a Duel with Root.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday waited until the eighth inning to put on their daily rodeo and stampede, but they then staged their show in a great big way. They made six runs in that eighth to lick the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6 to 2, for their sixth straight victory. The joyous performance restored them to third place, vacated Monday in idleness, three games back of the leading Giants and a half game back of the second place Cardinals.

At the close of business yesterday afternoon the Cubs had the tremendous realization that they had gained 6½ games on the Giants in six playing days, which is even more sensational progress than they made in their whirlwind drive to overtake the Pirates last August.

Meek for Seven Innings.

For seven innings the Dodgers were optimistic enough to imagine they were going to effect their first win at Wrigley field since last July 16. And they had some reason for the hope, for in those seven innings the Cubs knocked only five of Owen Carroll's pitches as far as the outfield.

Then came the big riot in the eighth, in which the Cubs were heroic and the Dodgers clownish. The fact that Manager Grimm ran from first base to home on a bunt will give you some proof of the foregoing statement.

There seems to be no better place than right here to recite the detail of the stirring rally. The Cubs were trailing, 1 to 0, going into the eighth. In the matter of hitting against Carroll in the first seven innings they were boasting a grand total of three singles, one by Hartnett with two out in the second, one by Babe Herman, which started the fourth, and one by Bill Herman at the outset of the sixth.

Koenig Starts It.

First up in the eighth was Mark Koenig, famed inciter of late inning riots. Mark touched off the fuse with a line single to center. Joe Stripp was playing in close in anticipation of a bunt by Bill Herman and Bill crossed him by taking a cut. The ball pretty near tore off Stripp's glove. It whirled him around and he let loose for an instant. Then he recovered and threw to second too late to get Koenig. Mosolf lifted a hit which came down near the foul line in right just out of Hutcheson's reach and went for a triple. Koenig and Bill Herman scoring.

Babe Herman lined an enormous triple to dead right center, scoring Mosolf. Demaree singled to left, scoring Babe Herman, whereupon Carroll left and Thurston came in. Demaree reached second on Hartnett's sacrifice. Grimm grounded to Thurston, putting Demaree on third, and Grimm landed at first on Thurston's low throw. Jurges and Demaree caught the Dodgers flatfooted with the squeeze play, though they did retire Bill. Jurges bunted toward first and was out. Lopez to Leslie, Demaree scoring and Grimm taking second.

Grimm Races In.

When Grimm saw third uncovered he started a race with Stripp for the base. Stripp got back but not in time to handle Leslie's panicky throw. The ball went down the left foul line and Grimm raced, in a manner of speaking, for home, completing his great dash from first to the plate on a bunt with a dramatic head first dive. Cuccinello threw out Root, but Charley didn't care.

The Dodgers started the second inning as if they had no intention to stop with a total of one run. Leslie opened with the first of his hits, a single to center, and had no trouble scoring when Cuccinello bounced a double off the top of the left field wall. Cuccinello went to third while Jurges was throwing out Lopez and there he stayed, for Jordan fanned and Carroll popped to Jurges.

In their end of the second the Cubs got two men on, but accomplished nothing. Hartnett singled with two

STEWARDS CLEAR PLUCKY PLAY'S TRAINER, OWNER

Failure on Monday Laid to Condition.

The stewards at Arlington Park investigated the form flip flop of Plucky Play yesterday and failed to discover any attempt at collusion in the race in which the horse finished out of the money on Monday. Two days earlier Plucky Play had won at 7 to 1. On Monday when beaten he was an odds on favorite in the betting.

After Plucky Play's trainer, Woody Fitzgerald, spent some time before the Arlington stewards, the officials issue dthe following statement:

"We have interviewed Trainer E. L. Fitzgerald in reference to the showing of the horse Plucky Play in the sixth race of Monday, July 10.

"Plucky Play had not raced in eleven months until Saturday, July 8. The trainer told the stewards he was tempted to run back on Monday, July 10, because of the favorable weight conditions as part of his preparation for the Arlington handicap, but he is now of the opinion that this second effort was too close to his other start.

Stewards Are Satisfied.

"The stewards of the meeting accepted the trainer's statement, fortified as it was by the following report from the official veterinarian of the Arlington Park Jockey club.

"'In pursuance to the orders of the stewards of the Arlington Park Jockey club I examined the horse, Plucky Play, after his running in the sixth race on Monday, July 10, and I found that he had a temperature of one-half of a degree and that his visible mucous membranes were congested and showed icterus. This condition was probably caused by slight auto-intoxication. It is my opinion that such a condition may cause a slight sluggishness in an animal. I made a reëxamination of him again today, July 11, and find that his condition has greatly improved.

Signed, 'George B. McKillip.'"

Church Is Distressed.

Plucky Play owned by Norman W. Church of Los Angeles, has been the most notorious in and outer in American racing. Back in 1931 he beat Sun Beau in a Hawthorne handicap and at the time Sun Beau was generally regarded as the champion. Last year he beat Equipoise in the Arlington Handicap when Equipoise was the champion. At other times he was beaten by the most ordinary horses, never running two races alike.

Church said he was greatly distressed over the incident.

"I wouldn't have had it happen for $10,000," he said. "We expect to put Plucky Play in the stud this fall and such racing I am afraid will not enhance his reputation."

final strides as if he might not have been quite sharp enough.

He is in the Futurity, to be run on the closing day of the Arlington season.

Red Wagon paid $32.06 to win, $12.24 to place, and $5.12 to show. Hadagal was at $3.22 to place and $2.56 to show. Trey backers got $3.62.

The easterners hung it on the west again in the Winnetka purse when the Audley Farm's Bright Shadow won in an exciting finish from Charles T. Fisher's Spartan Lady and the Nash brothers' At Top.

Miss Bunting from the west had been the early leader, but she folded up at the head of the stretch when Bright Shadow came up even with her. Bright Shadow went on to a comfortable lead, but right near the end Spartan Lady and At Top came along to make it interesting.

Double Pays $32.24.

There had been a plunge on C. V. Whitney's Stepsister, but she was away slowly and ran far back all the way despite the efforts Jockey Coucci made to get her into a running mood.

Bright Shadow paid $11.64 to win and Spartan Lady was at $22.68 to place. There had been considerable backing for At Top and she was at $4.50 to show. Bright Shadow ran the seven furlongs in 1:25 2-5. It wasn't a particularly speedy effort.

White Legs won the second race and a horse called Pete was victorious in the third to complete a daily double which paid $32.24.

LITTLE PATRIOT, well up from the start, held on fairly well.

WHITE LEGS raced wide throughout and, responding to strong, offering fine response when called upon and, racing into lead, won in hand. CAPT. DANGER, a strong factor from the start and on inside for three-quarters, lost some ground at stretch turn and stood the drive gamely, but was not good enough. DARK SEA, abruptly restrained for three-quarters, came up on inside at stretch turn, suffered slightly when BRAINS fell back suddenly in final eighth, and closed well when clear.

PETE, much the best and badly buffeted about at the turn, moved up when clear and, slowly improving his position with a loss of ground in final three-eighths, wore down BATTLING ON in closing strides. Latter, suddenly improved, had good speed, was well rated and held on gamely, but was not good enough. ODERIC, weakly ridden, moved up fast rounding the second turn, but was taken back before straightening up in stretch and faltered under urging in final eighth.

DON ROMIRO, hustled into the lead and taken in hand after reaching the turn, followed a weaving course into the stretch and held on gamely under pressure. GRAND PRINCE came up fast and on inside after reaching the final five-sixteenths and was going resolutely at end. PORTCODINE, a strong factor from the start, suffered through winner's repeated swerving at stretch turn, where he was on inside and, brought out for final quarter, moved up rapidly, then weakened in closing strides.

FINGAL lost much ground, came around the leaders gradually when approaching the stretch, and weakened after drawing clear, but DUSKY DEVIL, full of run in hand for five-eighths and slow to respond when hard ridden, came strong in final eighth and was rapidly overtaking the winner. ROYAL BLUNDER slipped through to second place after leaving the chute, was steadied along to stretch, and weakened in final drive. but outstayed HERNANDO.

YONKEL, beginning slowly and far back for a half mile, was lucky to save much ground when moving up fast at the turn, came around the leaders, and had speed to spare. U.S. Athletes Learn Wiles of Europeans regarded in this country and the heavyweight championship, although it commanded a huge income for the various prizefighters who have owned it, was not held to be a national treasure. In fact, it was only by the insistence of some raucous squawkers in the American crowd that the referee in the first of the Schmeling-Sharkey fights was persuaded to award the championship to Schmeling by a foul.

Borotra himself had watched the emotional play of the French crowds at Davis cup matches with apprehension and had said before the incident with Wilmer Allison, "There is far too much national feeling in these matches. Tennis is a game and should be played as a game."

French Cheer Germans.

A few days before this incident, as the Americans were moving the German team out of the way, the French customers cheered the Germans against the Americans, and one demonstration against a close decision in favor of Ellsworth Vines threatened, as the cables said that night, to develop into a riot.

The idea seemed to be that if the Germans won the Davis cup would be safe for France for another year, as the French team could be relied on to beat them easily in the challenge round. If the Americans won, as they did, the French would have to fight to hold the cup and then might not be able to hold it without a little assistance from their own officials at important points.

As matters developed, they were playing for the match point when Borotra's first service hit the net and his second one, according to the testimony, fell beyond the service line. Allison had no reason to doubt that the point and the match were his. So he knocked the ball into the air with a gesture described as joyous and carefree. But the linesman in question said nothing, which meant that the ball was officially O. K., and Allison almost collapsed. After that he hit everything into the net.

Decision Settles Series.

Vines then beat Cochet in the fifth and last match of the round and when the result of that one was in it was seen that the decision against Allison had retained the cup in France, a famous victory.

One trouble with international tennis is the same trouble that affects international conferences. It is attended by ceremonial forms and trappings, with the president and the diplomatic corps all present, in France, and very often by the king and queen in England. No diplomat can talk candidly and give honest answers while conferring in diplomatic clothes, and in international tennis the presence of the reminders of national prestige tends to obscure the original purpose of a sporting competition. It would be a good idea to keep the presidents, ambassadors, and royalty out of the tennis arenas during important matches. Under more ordinary and casual conditions the officials would be more likely to call them as they fall and not as national interest suggests.

Lazzeri's 15th Homer Is Winning Run.

New York, July 11.—(AP)—The Yankees got off to an early lead against Wally Hebert today and defeated the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4, despite the fine relief pitching of Hank McDonald.

McDonald yielded only one hit in three and one-third innings, but that was Tony Lazzeri's 15th homer of the season and provided the winning run, as Danny MacFayden was driven to cover in the eighth and Lefty Gomez barely held the margin.

Dixie Walker also hit a homer, while Bruce Campbell collected his 15th for the Browns with one on in the third and drove in another run with a single in the ninth. Score:

Philadelphia, Pa., July 11.—(AP)—Scoring three runs in the first inning, the Athletics went on to win, 6 to 4, today over the Cleveland Indians.

Roy Mahaffey went the distance for the Athletics and while he issued seven passes managed to keep the Indians' nine hits scattered enough to stave off their threats to rally. Jimmy Foxx collected three singles in four chances. He and Bishop, whose double was the only extra base hit of the game, gathered six of the A's ten hits. Score:

Frasier allowed only five hits, including two doubles, while Weiland gave up six including a triple and double, both by Fox. Each allowed three bases on balls and Frasier fanned three while Weiland was whiffing six.

Boston won the game in the fourth inning when Bill Walters walked and scored on Cooke's double. Cooke took third on the throw home and crossed the plate on Jolley's infield out to Greenberg. Score:

Sox Pick Durham to Face Senators in Today's Game

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—Ed Durham, whose work against the Athletics last Friday was flawless, will be employed as the Sox starting pitcher tomorrow. The Senators will use Earl Whitehill and that will give the Chicagoans another chance to prove they are as good as they claim against southpaws.

Manager Cronin suspected Manager Fonseca was pulling a trick when he warmed up Miller before the game. Cronin, for no reason, figured the Sox boss at the last minute would pull a right handed pitcher out of a silk hat. To protect himself Cronin put two pitchers, Stewart and Whitehill in his starting lineup. As soon as Miller's name was announced Cronin yanked the two pitchers and substituted Boken and Harris, both right handed hitters.

Billy Sullivan, who spiked himself in the left hand while trying to slide yesterday, was sent back to Chicago today, supposedly because he would not be available for playing for several days. The young man may not return. It is possible that he may be released to make room for Harold Haid, the new pitcher, purchased from Seattle. Haid now is in Chicago and will join the Sox as soon as he recovers from a hand injury.

Giants Make 4 Errors in 7th; Cards Win, 2-1

St. Louis, Mo., July 11.—(AP)—The New York Giants reached a climax in their exhibitions of poor fielding today and the Cardinals took advantage of this weakness to defeat the league leaders, 2 to 1, and draw up within two and a half games of first place.

The Giants made four of their five misplays in a row in the seventh inning to give the Cards both their runs without a hit. Roy Parmelee pitched a great game, giving only six hits in a struggle with Dizzy Dean, and deserved a victory.

DAVIS CUP TENNIS.

TENURE of the Davis cup, international tennis trophy, for 1933 will be determined within the next three weeks. Teams of Australia and Great Britain meet this week-end to determine the opponent for the United States in the interzone finals beginning July 21. One week later France will defend against the challenger.

Despite Big Bill Tilden's published opinion that chances are slim for lifting the cup this season, local experts who make a study of their court dope feel the Yankees have their best chance in years to regain the bowl which left these shores in 1927 and has remained in France ever since.

In five defeats of challengers, United States figured four times against the French and Great Britain once. Last year the Americans were beaten when Jean Borotra, French veteran, rose to unsuspected heights to take both singles matches.

Our local dopesters think Australia will defeat Great Britain and meet United States in the interzone finals. Despite Jack Crawford's five set victory over Ellsworth Vines for the Wimbledon title, his third victory in eight matches against the American singles champion, America figures to down Australia, 3 matches to 2, possibly 4 to 1. Vines and Allison will play singles, George Lott of Chicago and Johnny Van Ryn in doubles. Lott, with his deadly overhead game, is perhaps the greatest doubles player in the world.

If United States surmounts the Australian hurdle it will be the same four against the French who are expected to play Henry Cochet and Jean Borotra in singles, and either Cochet or Borotra, probably the latter, and Jacques Brugnon in doubles. Cochet, once No. 1 in world ranking, already has lost to Crawford and Vines this year, but admittedly has regarded the Davis cup as his goal, with his greatest ambition looking toward those matches.

Borotra, veteran, has insisted he will retire from tournament play. He yielded to national call last year and is expected to be found there again. When the French "Big Four" was at its height he was ranked below Cochet and La Coste, although more spectacular and more interesting to watch because of his impetuous attack which sought a net position. His game is brilliant rather than safe. It was clicking in the challenge round of 1932.

Americans feel confident of capturing the doubles if United States meets France, although Allison and Van Ryn went five sets before beating Cochet and Brugnon last year. Lott should be more effective than Allison in doubles. Therefore, it would remain for Vines to win both singles matches or for Vines to win one and Allison to win one to bring back the cup.

There are many ifs in this synopsis, but it represents the belief, as well as hope, of Chicago experts.

Mr. Khayyam Answers Head Play.

O, my boy, you are full of excuses—
If it wasn't for this and for that
What you'd do in the Arlington Classic,
To be slangy, I say, "In your hat!"

When you do get the rail why not keep it
Instead of just strutting your stuff
To a grandstand that really can't see you,
You folding up front runner bluff?

Next time when we spring from the barrier,
Why not run in a truly straight line?
Remember, there're ten or twelve others
Who could cut you off any old time.

Sure, I'll be at the Arlington Classic,
Or any old place that you name;
Whatever it is, I will take you
And ruin all that self-confessed fame.
Paddock Mack.

Sox Rout Two Hurlers; Beat Senators, 9-3

triple to right center and Russell walked. The two runners stood dead in their tracks and the bugs kept quiet while Bluege and Manush were popping weakly to the infield. Sewell crossed the plate with the Senators' first run when Harris singled to right, but Cronin's fly to Haas relieved the strain.

Johnny Kerr, acting as pinch hitter in the fifth, started something that Miller couldn't suppress until after two had scored, leaving the Sox five runs to the good. Kerr's contribution as pinch man for Russell was a single to center. Bluege shoved a single into right. Manush's tap to Miller offered no difficulties. Kerr scored on Harris' fly to Haas. Then Cronin slapped a single into center and Bluege dashed home. Hayes picked up Schulte's slightly hot grounder to end the inning.

Sox Score Again.

As soon as Weaver appeared to test out the pitching arm that had been inactive since June 2 the Sox ceased to cause much annoyance with their bats. They couldn't solve him for anything even close to a hit in the sixth and seventh. But in the eighth they enjoyed a bit of luck and a run resulted. Swanson opened with a single to right, his fourth safety of the afternoon, and was moved to second on Haas' sacrifice. Kress' infield roller shoved Swanson to third. Then Simmons poked a phoney grounder toward third and Bluege in his haste to make the throw slipped. The Duke beat it for a hit and Swanson scored.

Miller's chances of skipping through the last four innings without being bothered by an enemy hit were perfect until after he had two out of the way in the ninth. Then Goose Goslin, who was kept out of the affair because of left handed pitching, batted for Weaver and belted a triple to the right field corner, but Bluege followed with a tall fly to Swanson.

JACK ELDER TO RACE IN C. Y. O. TOURNEY SUNDAY

Jack Elder, former Notre Dame football and sprint star, will go to the post Sunday with three of the fastest dash men the Catholic schools of the middle west can muster. They will race in the second annual track and field meet of the Catholic Youth Organization at Loyola university field.

Elder stepped 98 yards through the Army defense a few years ago to bring a victory to Notre Dame. Then he defeated Percy Williams, Canadian Olympic champion of 1928, in an indoor meet in New York.

His rivals in the "C. Y. O. Century," as the feature is named for Sunday, will be Mike Colletti of Loyola university, David Booth of Marquette, and Pete Moslowski, Catholic high school dash champion and co-holder with Booth of the Catholic high school century championship.

FIVE U. S. GOLF PLAYERS LEFT IN CANADIAN MEET

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 11.—(AP)—Five players from the United States and 11 from Canada survived the first round of match play for the Canadian amateur golf championship today.

Jack Finger of San Francisco, Cal.; Harry Givan and Albert [Scotty] Campbell of Seattle, Wash., and Dr. Cliff Baker and Frank Dolp of Portland, Ore., all advanced into the second round, but one of the United States' leading threats, Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, former Walker cup star, was eliminated. Willing lost to Cecil Coville of Vancouver, 1 up.

83—85—168. Trailing her were Mrs. S. Louis Reinhardt Jr., of Northmoor, the defending champion, who won the derby at Knollwood last year with a record score of 320, and Jane Weiller, also of Northmoor, runner up to Miss Beebe in the recent western open. Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire, Mrs. Charles Dennehy of Onwentsia, Mrs. Lillian Zech of Tam O'Shanter, and Marie Riemer of Milwaukee were slightly off the pace they set Monday, but are still in the running.

The Derby, only women's 72 hole medal play event in golf, will end today with 18 holes in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

Miss Beebe Rallies.

Miss Beebe, after a somewhat shaky start, rallied to knock a stroke off par on the last nine. She reached the second green in two for a birdie, but was trapped at the fourth, in the water at the seventh, and trapped again at the ninth. She birdied the 11th by reaching it in two, was short with her second to the 12th, and sank a ten footer for a birdie at the 13th. She missed the 17th green, but reached the 18th in two for her fourth birdie.

Miss Weiller staggered through the first nine in 45, but shot the best nine of the day coming home—a 38, two under par. A seven foot putt gave her a birdie on the first, and she dropped her second shot to the third 6 inches from the pin for another birdie.

She was in trouble from that point to the turn, finding traps and three putting. She knocked down an eagle three at the tenth, her second shot rimming the cup. She followed par to the 17th, where her drive was over the green, but was on the 18th in two for a birdie.

Pairings in the championship flight today, and yesterday's scores follow:

New York, July 11.—Sharply divergent price movements characterized the bond market today, with losses more numerous than gains among the recent favorites.

Treasury issues were firm in dull trading. Dealings in government issues at the moment has been slowed by talk of the possibility that the Aug. 15 financing may take the form of a large issue of medium term bonds.

Profit taking pressure was in ample evidence in such recent trading favorites as Chesapeake corporation convertible 5s, Milwaukee adjustments 5s and the 5s of 1975, Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s, Rock Island convertible 4½s, Chicago and North Western convertible 4¾s, Great Northern 7s, International Great Northern adjustments 6s.

High grade domestic corporate issues on the whole were steady and quiet. A feature here was the demand for Studebaker 6s at rapidly rising prices on the report of a substantially improved earnings position. Warner Pictures 6s also were active and strong.

Recovery of the dollar in the exchange market had a depressing effect on some foreign bonds. French government and municipal liens broke rather sharply.

Shell Union Oil.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information concerning Shell Union.—K. E. F.

Answer: Shell Union Oil corporation, controlled by Royal Dutch-Shell interests, completed an extensive program of expansion in 1931. It is now a thoroughly integrated enterprise.

Marked decline in consumption of gasoline during the first quarter of 1933, with consequent increased competition, resulted in a loss of $9,240,000, against loss of $2,742,000 for the first quarter of 1932.

Results in the full 1932 year, despite the unsettled condition of the industry, were comparatively favorable, due largely to completion of the expansion program.

Net income for the year was $660,000, or $1.65 per preferred share, against loss of $27,008,000 for 1931. Reduction of expenses in 1932 from 1931 was $8,000,000 more than the decrease in sales; depreciation, under a revised system, was $7,000,000 less than in 1931, and write-offs of leases and wells increased $6,000,000. Included in net income in 1932 was $4,949,000 profit on repurchase of debentures. This was after write-off of $1,739,000 balance of unamortized debenture discount.

Loss in 1930 was $5,096,000, against profit of $17,573,000, or $1.26 per common share, in 1929.

At the close of 1932 current assets were $80,194,000 and current liabilities aggregated $20,543,000. Working capital was $59,651,000, against $70,281,000 the year before.

Capitalization at the close of the year included $91,141,000 bonded debt and $5,049,000 purchase money notes. The company has since retired a substantial amount of its funded obligations. There are outstanding 400,000 shares of $100 par cumulative preferred and 13,070,625 shares of no par common.

Nothing has been paid on the preferred since July 1, 1931.

There have been a few signs of improvement in the industry since the close of the first quarter this year. The company's substantial profit and loss deficit of $12,840,000 makes the prospect of dividends appear remote. The company is, however, well organized and, being national in scope, should feel the effects of any improvement.

Peoples Life Insurance.

Investors' Guide: I wonder if you could give me information about Peoples Life Insurance Company of Illinois.—N. W. L.

Answer: Peoples Life Insurance company [Chicago] became financially involved after the failure of City State bank of Chicago. The company had lent a substantial sum of money on stock of the bank.

The insurance company was placed in receivership on Dec. 20, 1929. It was later reinsured in Mississippi Valley Life Insurance company.

OLD INDUSTRIES WANT CONTROL; NEW ONES DON'T

Those Slipping Seek to Curb Competition

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The present political mania for stabilizing the operations of industries is usually excused on the ground that the industries themselves yearn for stabilization.

Politicians, criticized for attempting to interfere in all lines of business, blandly call attention to the demands of industrial leaders who have come to Washington asking for regulation for this and that industry in order to eliminate the "evils" of competition.

The so-called "industrial recovery" act itself grew out of the suggestions of leading eastern industrialists who have been hankering for years to modify the anti-trust laws, although the idea has been so much amended that some of them now hesitate to claim it.

Age Changes Industry.

The spectacle of prominent industrialists running to Washington begging for political interference while at the same time other big shot business men demand less meddling is confusing only if one ignores the fact that industries change as they age.

The industry that pleads for political aid is likely to be one that has passed its prime and feels itself slipping in competition with younger and more vigorous industries. The industry that is still on the ascendancy deplores governmental restrictions.

The tendency at present seems to be to prevent the survival of the fittest and to conserve the decadent industry in its full glory. This policy would stunt the growth of new industries and prevent the reorientation of some of the older industries which have a chance to continue their growth by developing new uses.

The cotton industry—first under the line with its new trade code—is one of the older industries that has ceased to grow. Last year consumption of cotton in the United States was only 4,866,000 bales, compared with 5,577,000 bales in the 1913-1914 year.

Steel, Railroads Lose Ground.

Steel, whose leaders are credited with having led the movement for closer control of industries, has been slipping since 1925, with the exception of a mild expansion during the big boom years of 1928 and 1929. Pig iron production in the United States last year was less than 9 million tons, compared with 30 millions in 1913.

The railroads, now content to remain under political domination if only their competitors are treated likewise, have seen their operations flatten off during the last decade after a century of tremendous development. Tonnage of revenue freight in 1927, 1928 and 1929 was at approximately the 1923 level, and the quality of the traffic has been changing rapidly as the high tariff freight takes to the highways. In 1929 passenger traffic was 25 per cent below the 1917 level.

Reflecting the waning railroad prosperity the railway equipment industry has likewise been tapering off. In 1929 only a third as many locomotives and about half as many freight cars were produced as in 1919 and 1920.

Coal mining similarly shows signs of old age. Production of soft coal in the United States last year was only 305 million tons, compared with 534 million tons in 1929 and 573 million tons in 1926.

New Industries Arising.

Contrasted with these industries which are struggling against senility are many new industries which are eagerly attempting to attain their full growth and whose leaders are inclined to object to political muzzling.

Ten years ago the United States produced 36 million pounds of rayon. Last year, despite the depression, production was 131 million pounds.

In 1921 only five thousand household electrical refrigerators were sold. Ten years later sales totaled 965,000. There was a falling off last year to 770,000, but this year the volume is increasing rapidly.

Despite the depression three million radios were sold last year, compared with 100,000 in 1922. Sales of household electrical washers totaled 569,000, against 289,000 in 1921.

The movies have just got a fresh start with talking pictures which have been developed on a large scale only since the depression began. In the aviation industry the value of manufactures virtually doubled from 1927 to 1931 and the number of wage earners increased from 4,422 to 9,643.

Even hard times hasn't materially lessened the use of motor cars. Registration of cars and trucks in this country last year was 24 millions, compared with 26½ millions in 1929 and 10 millions in 1921.

Utilities Continue Growth.

The utilities, at present the chief butt of all kinds of political regulation, have had remarkable growth recently and are still going up. Value of natural gas produced in 1930 was 415 million dollars, compared with less than half that amount in 1920.

In 1931 electric power plants generated 85 billion kilowatt hours of electricity, compared with only 37 billion ten years before. Eighty-nine million people were living in wired homes, compared with 41 million in 1921. Gross revenues of the industry were nearly 2 billions, against less than 1 billion in 1921.

In addition to the young industries there are older industries that have maintained their vigor by developing new uses and entering new fields. Newspapers with their rotogravure sections and their increasing use of color belong in this class.

Paper manufacturers likewise have kept abreast of a changing world by developing new products to meet new demands. The manufacture of paper board has more than doubled since the war and other new sources of demand have been developed.

Attempts to prop up industries that have passed their zenith at a level not economically justified are bound to prevent the natural development of the stronger and more vigorous industries.

U. S. Blocks Packers Move to Ease Ruling

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—The government today proceeded with the enforcement of the packers' consent decree despite rumors that the packers wish to submit to the department of agriculture a marketing agreement which would nullify the decree.

Appointment of J. Bruce Kremer, Washington and Butte, Mont., lawyer, as the trustee to liquidate Swift & Co.'s 20 million dollar holdings in the Libby, McNeill and Libby company, was the government move made today. Mr. Kremer, Democratic national committeeman from Montana, took an active part in Mr. Roosevelt's campaign for the presidency.

Sale of Swift's controlling interest in the Libby concern, one of the oldest meat and fruit packing establishments in the country, will virtually complete the divorcement of companies ordered by the decree. Armour & Co. has broken most of its ties, and former Postmaster General Harry S. New is now engaged as trustee in selling Swift stock holdings in various stockyards companies.

Packers Plan New Move.

Another in the series of attacks which the packers have carried on against the decree for 13 years was expected soon, however. It is understood that the packers wish to submit a code or marketing agreement under the new recovery laws which would set aside the decree, especially that part of it which forbids them from entering the chain store business.

The action taken by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings today, however, was believed designed to discourage such an attempt. His official announcement of Mr. Kremer's appointment declared flatly that "this action marks a further step by the department of justice in the enforcement of the packers' consent decree."

Cummings has indicated, without committing himself, that he would oppose any code which sets aside the decree, and the department of agriculture has backed him up on his stand.

Packers' Code Sidetracked.

This position adopted by the government is believed to be one of the reasons for the present sidetracked condition of the packers' code or marketing agreement under the recovery laws. The American Meat Packers' institute admitted today that, after a preliminary conference with the government, the matter of a code had been allowed to drift.

It is said that the packers' code, in addition to being snarled up with the question of whether the industrial recovery administration or department of agriculture shall handle it, is hung up on the dispute over the consent decree.

SUGAR CONTROL GROUP FOR U. S. ALLOTS QUOTAS

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—The draft agreement to stabilize higher sugar prices and limit production to the American market demands today approached completion.

The sugar conference central committee, by a majority vote, decided tentatively upon the following annual allotments of the domestic consumption total: Domestic beet sugar, 1,525,000 tons; Louisiana cane, 250,000 tons; Florida cane, 60,000 tons; Hawaii, 975,000 tons; Philippine islands, 955,920 tons; Porto Rico, 875,000 tons; Virgin Islands, 9,080 tons.

Although a definite quota for Cuba has not yet been fixed, the figure most discussed has been 1,780,000 tons, or about the same as was imported last year from the island.

Detroit, Mich., July 11.—(AP)—The General Motors corporation today reported that export shipments of trucks and cars from its plants in Canada and United States in June were 127 per cent above the same month last year.

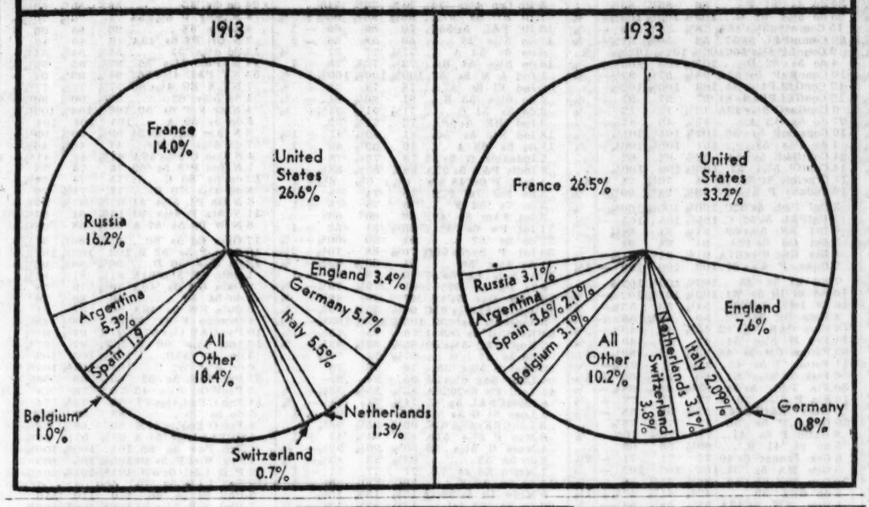
Distribution of the World's Monetary Gold Supply



Most of U. S. Money Is Still Gold Backed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—America has gone off the gold standard and called in all private holdings of gold, but almost two-thirds of the money in circulation at the end of June was backed from 90 to 100 per cent by gold, the treasury department revealed today.

Of the 5 billion 721 millions dollars which was in circulation when last month closed, 3 billion 551 millions was secured by from 90 to 100 cents in gold for every dollar outstanding.

Another 266 million dollars of the total circulation was in United States notes behind which there was more than a 50 per cent gold reserve. In addition, 760 million dollars was in silver or silver backed paper money, making the total amount of money backed 50 to 100 per cent by precious metals aggregate more than eight-tenths of all the money in circulation.

586 Millions Illegally Held.

Out of the gold currencies in circulation, 321 million dollars was in gold coin and 265 million in gold certificates. All of this money was being held illegally since the promulgation of President Roosevelt's anti-hoarding order.

By far the largest type of gold-supported money in circulation is federal reserve notes. Required by law to have at least a 40 per cent gold backing, the 3 billion 61 million dollars of this money outstanding on June 30 actually had a gold reserve of 90 per cent. This huge fund was the result of gold piling up in the reserve banks and the anti-hoarding campaign progresses.

Of the silver currencies, silver certificates, supported 100 per cent by silver, were most numerous. They totaled 361 million dollars. Half dollars, quarters and dimes in circulation were worth 256 million, and 113 million dollars was in nickels and pennies.

Billion in Other Notes.

The only moneys not precious metals or largely supported by them was 920 million dollars in national bank notes and 125 millions in federal reserve bank notes. Outside of small metallic redemption funds, these paper currencies were backed only by government bonds.

Money in circulation decreased more than 92 million dollars during June. The treasury's monthly circulation statement showed a per capita circulation of $45.56 in June, compared with $46.31 in May.

BANKS GET MORE TIME TO REPORT ON AFFILIATES

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—J. F. T. O'Connor, controller of the currency, and the federal reserve board, have extended until Aug. 14 the time within which national banks and state federal reserve member banks may file reports of their affiliates.

The two banking governing bodies called for a report from the two classes of banks in the national bank call of July 7 but found that many difficulties had arisen in respect to furnishing and publishing reports of affiliates of the banks. The report when filed must show the condition of the affiliates on June 30.

The call for reports on affiliates was issued under the national banking act of 1933.

ROCK ISLAND EARNS PROFIT IN JUNE, FIRST SINCE OCTOBER, 1931

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway made a profit in June for the first time since October, 1931, according to a statement yesterday by Charles Hayden, chairman of the board of directors.

"Estimates indicate that the Rock Island had a net income of about $200,000 in June, after bond interest and other fixed charges," Mr. Hayden said. "This compares with a deficit of $828,645 in June, 1932.

"The deficit for the first six months of 1933, after all charges, now is estimated at $5,600,000, against a loss of $5,400,000 in the same period last year. At this time, however, earnings are increasing and prospects are very encouraging, which is the reverse of last year's situation."

Loadings on the Rock Island are holding the gains which developed some weeks ago. The road reported for the week ended July 8 a total of 20,196 car loadings, compared with 17,933 in 1932.

The first six important railroads to report freight loadings on their own lines for the week ended July 9 had a total of 85,297 cars, compared with 96,493 in the previous week, and 68,933 in the like 1932 period. The decline from the preceding week reflected the July 4 holiday.

The Illinois Central loadings totaled 23,329 cars for the week, compared with 17,768 in the like week of 1932.

The Wabash handled 11,125 cars, compared with 9,588 cars last year and 12,398 cars in the preceding week of this year.

The Burlington handled 19,266 cars in the week of July 8, compared with 14,157 in the like week of 1932, a gain of 5,109 cars, or 36.1 per cent.

COTTON GROWERS MUST DECIDE ON U. S. PLAN TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—Win or lose, the administrations' campaign to persuade southern cotton planters to take 10 million acres out of production will close tomorrow at midnight. This was the ultimatum delivered to the cotton growers today by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, together with a new plea for cotton producers to sign up, so that the cotton relief program can be put into effect.

At the same time, the secretary warned again that the number of acres thus far reported to be contracted out of production is far from sufficient to warrant application of the cotton plan. And again he reiterated the declaration that the plan will not be prosecuted unless a sufficient number of acres are taken out of cultivation.

Lincoln National Life Has Gain in Annuity Premiums

President Arthur F. Hall of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company said yesterday that the company's new annuity premiums for the first six months of 1933 were 40 per cent higher than for the same period in 1932.

Dollar Jumps Two Cents on British Speech

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—The retreat of the American dollar was abruptly halted today. The dollar rallied sharply against the principal foreign currencies as speculators scurried to cover commitments after the British warning that the dollar's decline has probably gone too far.

The dollar was worth 71.23 cents at the close measured in of the French gold franc. This was an advance of more than two cents from yesterday final quotation of 69.02 cents.

Pound Drops Sharply.

The pound sterling fell sharply in American funds and closed the day at 4.65 in the market here as compared with Tuesday's final rise of $4.79¾. The franc closed 5.50 cents, a decline of .18 of a cent. The dollar was conspicuously strong against other foreign monies.

The speech in parliament late yesterday by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of exchequer, was credited with inspiring the broad covering by European speculators. Chamberlain predicted that American currency would become seasonally strong during August and attributed its recent decline to speculation rather than intrinsic weakness. He characterized the dollar's sharp decline as "an unnatural, artificial phenomon," caused chiefly by speculation.

U. S. Banks May Be Helping.

Reports were current here tonight that American bankers, with the approval of the Roosevelt administration had assisted England in checking the dollar's decline. Official news from Washington was lacking, however.

U. S. Rates Pound Over Par.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—The British pound sterling is above par in the issuance of international postal money orders in the United States.

Postmaster General Farley has just ordered that money orders for payment in Great Britain, Northern Ireland and the Irish Free State shall be at the rate of $4.87 to the pound sterling.

STOCKS WEAKEN; PROLONGED RISE CAUSES CAUTION

Prices Sag in Spite of Midday Rally.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—For once the stock market refused to be much influenced either by the rallying dollar or the skyrocketing grain pit. Price movements took the side of caution at the outset, and while an early afternoon rally bolstered levels for a time, the net result of the 5,233,000 share turnover was to leave the list a fraction to a point or more below yesterday's closing figures.

From some observation posts, the market appeared to be becoming a bit unresponsive to the stimuli it has received since "new deal" doctors began to administer their potions some four months ago. It is no secret that an increasing number of traders are viewing the protracted demonstrations of the professional marketmakers with something akin to alarm.

Alcohol Stocks Rise.

Alcohol stocks met with solid demand, due to the publicity given the fact that three more states are to vote this month on repeal. United States Industrial Alcohol rose 8 points and National Distillers, the leader of the group, went forward for half as great a gain. Owens-Illinois, American Commercial Alcohol, Crown Cork and Hazel Atlas Glass were strong.

The further brisk rise in wheat furnished fresh impetus to the baking shares and steel stocks, particularly the shares of so-called independent companies carried on with an air of solid conviction. Some commentators thought the sudden enthusiasm for the stocks of the independent steels was based on the theory that the new code, when, as and if adopted, would redound to their especial benefit.

Failure of the oil companies to second the motion of Continental in the crude price boost left the petroleum group somewhat in the lurch. Atlantic Refining, Seaboard, Texas corporation finished fractionally lower with the Standard Oil issues virtually unchanged.

Motor Shares Rally.

The motors were heavy for a time, but they looked up a bit in the later dealings. Tobaccos were unable to work up much enthusiasm over the cigaret production figures and the utilities were druggy and rather forlorn.

Some of the rails were carried higher in active trading inspired in part by reports of this and that road being able to cover its fixed charges for June.

Commercial solvents, Celanese, Goodyear, Penick & Ford, Gulf States Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Vanadium, Crucible Steel, Manhattan Shirt, National Biscuit, Curtiss-Wright A, Firestone and Beech-Nut were gainers to the extent of 1 to around 3.

On the other hand, American Telephone, U. S. Steel, General Electric, Allied Chemical, Southern Pacific, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, North American, Radio, Loew's, Du Pont and American Tobacco B finished in the neighborhood of 1 to 1½ lower.

Wheat Pit Membership Brings $12,000; Up $100

Sale of a Board of Trade membership was made late yesterday at $12,000, a jump of $100 from the previous day.

Liquor Stocks, Grains Spurt on Repeal Hope

Spectacular advances were scored yesterday by stocks and commodities which stand to benefit from the repeal of the national prohibition amendment. In the wake of Illinois' ratification of the repeal amendment "wet" stocks and commodities leaped to new high quotations for the year.

On the Chicago Board of Trade barley and rye climbed to new peak prices in excited trading. Rye sold above $1 a bushel for the first time in many years, a gain of 10 cents. September delivery sold at $1 and December futures reached $1.04.

Barley Jumps to 67¾ Cents.

Barley spurted 3 cents a bushel, with the September delivery reaching 64 cents and December touching 67¾ cents. Barley was selling around 30 cents a bushel before the return of beer. Trading in this cereal was resumed in the pit last fall after a lapse of more than 10 years.

On the New York exchange National Distillers shares shot up 9 points to close a few cents below $115. Last year this stock sold as low as $17 a share. U. S. Industrial Alcohol rose 8 points and American Commercial Alcohol gained $4, to set new high prices.

The speculative enthusiasm for barley and rye was stimulated by the government's highly bullish crop estimates.

The spurt in the wet stocks was interpreted by speculators that prospects are bright for the ratification of the repeal amendment by the three "dry states" which ballot on the issue this month.

Plan Biggest Distillery.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WALKERVILLE, Ont., July 11.—W. J. Hume, president of Hiram Walker-Gooderham & Worts, Ltd., today announced plans for the construction of a $1,000,000 distillery in Peoria, Ill. The plant will probably be the largest distillery of alcoholic beverages in the world, it was said. Plans for the plant are already drawn up and bids for construction will probably be asked within 60 days, Mr. Hume said. The initial investment of $1,000,000 will be followed by further expenditures if the prohibition amendment is repealed, it was announced.

Canadian Liquor Shares Rise.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., July 11.—Canadian liquor stocks reached new high prices today. Common shares of Hiram Walker, Gooderham & Worts advanced to $37.38 following news that the company will erect a big distillery in Peoria, Ill. The stock sold at $4 a few months ago. Other distillery shares reached new high quotations in Montreal and Toronto.

14,000 TO 20,000 BUYERS TO COME FOR TRADE FAIR

New business totaling at least $25,000,000 will be brought to Chicago by the Interstate Merchants council, which will hold its semi-annual meeting here from Aug. 7 to 12, officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce predicted yesterday.

Between 14,000 and 20,000 out of town buyers are expected to attend the trade fair. Where in last years five or six major market events have been staged during the meeting of the council, fourteen trade expositions are scheduled this summer.

In addition to the annual style show staged by the Association of Commerce to emphasize the position of Chicago in the ready-to-wear clothing trade, virtually the whole wholesale market will have special fall opening events. Gift shows, jewelry shows, curtain and drapery shows, and expositions of glass, pottery and china, as well as several other trade promotional displays have already been arranged.

PUBLIC BUYING BOOSTS GRAINS TO PEAK LEVELS

May Wheat at $1.16; Rye Up 9 Cents.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy buying of all grain futures, based on the extremely bullish crop report issued by the government late on Monday, carried prices on all grains to new high levels yesterday. While final prices of wheat were at moderate reactions from the top, net gains ranged from 3⅞ to 5⅝ cents.

It was a day of excitement, wide price swings, and a mixed run of news. There was heavy trading from start to finish and profit taking on advances, which caused price recessions, particularly at the close.

At the top, wheat prices were in the "offers," with all deliveries well above the dollar level. July wheat at the top was $1.04⅞; September, $1.08; December, $1.10, and May $1.16. The July delivery finished at $1.04½, the highest close of the season; September, $1.07⅝ to $1.07½; December, $1.09½ to $1.09⅝, and May, $1.13½.

Traders More Cautious.

Prices are regarded by many traders as so high they are afraid to buy heavily, considering the market badly strained. Outsiders, however, continue to come in on volume on all weak spots and frequently take the market away from the pit element.

Farmers are not rushing their new wheat to market to any extent despite the fact prices have more than doubled from the recent low, their belief being that after a long period of low prices a period of high prices is due to last a considerable time.

There are numerous factors that tend to create nervousness constantly developing among the grain traders. Flour prices are up $2 a barrel or more from the low point on Saturday, as announced by a local miller, although another miller reported a jump of only 20 cents for the day. Flour prices are keeping in close touch with the wheat market and millers do not hesitate to adjust their prices to new high levels.

Rye Soars 9½ Cents.

Corn prices are considered so strained that a cargo of Argentine corn was reported bought by Canadian distillers to come to Moutreal, and it was said that Argentine corn is now on an export level.

Rye prices have been skyrocketed to sensational levels, being up 9 to 9½ cents for the day, with the dollar level reached for September, and 95½ cents for December, with the close on a reaction from the top, July being 94½ cents; September, 97¾ cents, and December, $1.02. Rye prices are so high that a cargo of Canadian rye was reported as being figured on to come into the United States. Sales in rye on Monday, as given by official figures, aggregated 7,101,000 bushels, exceeding those in oats, and the open interest decreased 1,040,000 bushels, being 13,504,000 bushels. Rye specialists find their market so active it is extremely difficult to keep track of the business.

Canadian Crop Report Bullish.

Western Canadian provinces fell into line with the American spring wheat states of the northwest, in making a bullish showing. Official figures received late in the day said certain districts in Saskatchewan and

HOME BUILDING KEY TO RECOVERY, ASSERTS KOHLER

Think Delay in Codes Due to Lack of Knowledge.

America may witness a greater shortage of housing at the end of the depression that it experienced at the close of the world war in the opinion of Walter J. Kohler, former governor of Wisconsin and president of the Kohler company, expressed yesterday in a talk before the Economic club at the Union League club.

Mr. Kohler's discussion embraced the influence of property modernization on industrial recovery. He saw in modernization and renovation of industrial, business and residential properties, a means of restoring the building industry, thereby giving employment to many thousands of workers. Further, he said, future attention to this phase of the construction industry would provide a way to help cushion periods of declining activity in the new building end of the industry.

Talk of Industrial Bodies.

After the meeting, Mr. Kohler, who has just returned from Washington, expressed some informal views with respect to the workings of the industrial recovery act. He said in his opinion that the delay of many industries in submitting codes was not due so much to their unwillingness to coöperate with the government as to their lack of knowledge as to how to proceed.

There are some 6,000 trade associations which are to submit codes, he said, and so far only one code has been accepted. Many of the smaller groups have been waiting for the government to accept the codes of the major industries, so as to have some guidance in preparing their own. Delay by the major industries, which are moving slowly because they have never had any experience with "planned economy" has held up the entire program, in his opinion.

Building Key to Property.

In his speech Mr. Kohler said the decline in residential building, which became apparent in the middle of 1928, was the real beginning of the depression.

"Building activity is generally credited with having led the way to recovery in 1921," he remarked. "It has been looked to by many to perform the same rôle in relation to the acute and protracted depression we have experienced since 1929.

"Whether this hope proves well founded or not, few will question that a considerable increase in building activity must take place before general conditions of business and employment can even approach normal. An important part of this increase must consist of residential construction and modernizing."

Mr. Kohler saw the modernizing of whole areas of cities and towns a way of improving the situation of slum districts. The former governor said that while many are opposed to governmental paternalism, inasmuch as it is here it might well be directed toward clearing up blighted residential areas.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was strong and active today on increased speculative buying, promoted by the sharply higher lard and grain markets, the advance in crude oil, and a belief that oil prices were out of line with competing products. Final prices were 31 to 39 points net higher, with sales of 138 contracts. The census bureau report will be issued tomorrow, with the trade anticipating consumption during June of between 330,000 and 350,000 barrels. The May consumption was 330,656 barrels and June last year 263,761 barrels. Bleachable spot and July closed 6.60c; September, 6.73c; December, 6.92c; January, 6.99c.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Selling agents today were awaiting action by mill men concerning costs under the recovery act before proceeding to reorganize prices on the higher lists that will cover new expenses. Buyers are already hostile to many recent advances. Until new schedules are presented by other divisions of textiles, buyers are not disposed to hurry purchases in silk, wool goods, rayon, or yarns. The latter are already priced very high, according to weavers. Burlaps are steady with trading light. New rayon underwear lists show 15 per cent advances.

Other Concerns Hire More Men or Raise Pay.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—Employment on class one American railroads increased 20,200 men in June as compared with May. Statistics released today at the offices of the interstate commerce commission showed 957,330 men working on the railroads in June, compared with 937,103 in May. The figures do not include employés of switching and terminal companies.

Almost all of the increase is reflected in train and engine service employés, this category showing an increase of 1.39 per cent.

FEDERAL LAND BANK REDUCES INTEREST 1 PCT.

New Chief Makes Cut in Mortgage Rate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—The federal land bank system will sustain a loss of $11,000,000 a year during the next five years on its outstanding loans of about $1,100,000,000 on farm mortages as a result of the reduction of 1 per cent in the average rate of interest on new loans.

The prevailing average rate of interest is figured at about 5½ per cent, and although a reduction to 5 per cent in the "basic rate" was made effective today, the emergency farm mortgage act provides for a reduction to 4½ per cent during the next five years. The new rate was announced today by Albert S. Goss, newly appointed farm loan commissioner, with the approval of Henry Morgenthau Jr., governor of the farm credit administration.

Takes Effect at Once.

The five per cent rate will apply to all loan contracts made by the land banks beginning today and will affect interest payments subsequent to the emergency 5 year period.

The farm loan act provides that each land bank may charge a rate of interest equal to the rate of the last series of bonds issued by the bank, plus a charge for administration and profits not to exceed one per cent.

The program for liquidating farm mortgages held by closed and restricted banks was extended to Iowa by the farm loan commission today.

TO HELP ILLINOIS BANKS.

The plan of the federal farm credit agency to refinance farm mortgages held by closed banks in Illinois may enable some downstate banks now under suspension to reopen, it was learned yesterday. Comparatively few will be benefitted sufficiently to enable resumption of business, it was said, the greatest benefit being the hastening of the liquidation of closed banks.

COTTON HOLDERS SELL FREELY AT NEW HIGHS

BUTTER AND EGGS

Trading in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange was again active. A slight bullish tendency at the opening again led to realizing and hedging pressure with the subsequent trend slightly lower.

Trading continued active throughout the session with slight fluctuations and new outside support ran the amount of trading up to a fairly good volume. The market finished with only fractional changes from the previous close.

Sales, 203 cars of butter; 255 cars of eggs. There were no deliveries. Future prices follow:

FIFTY CENT CORN SPELLS DOOM OF BARTER SYSTEM

NebraskaFarmersNow Selling Their Own.

Lincoln, Neb., July 11.—(AP)—The barter system, which kept hundreds of midwestern farm families in groceries last winter, has been tossed overboard with the advent of 50 cent corn.

Piles of yellow ears loom as big as houses in the business section of many Nebraska towns, but the farmers are selling their own now, instead of trading to the general store proprietor the best their soil could yield.

And the proprietor himself is carting to market some of the grain he took on speculation at 9 and 10 cents a bushel.

Nebraska had a good crop of corn last year—269,293,000 bushels. It is estimated, however, that 31 per cent of this crop is still on the farms—and that's why the farmer occasionally whistles these days.

Business Picks Up.

There's money in the farm communities again, and Saturday night along Main street is noisier and happier than ever. The manager of a Lincoln farmers' store reported today that purchases had increased steadily in the last three months.

"They're stocking up on the necessities now," he said, "but the other lines will start moving this fall. If things go on this way it will be the biggest business season we've ever had."

Merchants at Walthill in northeastern Nebraska did, perhaps, the most rushing barter business in the state. From Indians in nearby settlements and other farmers they took corn and stacked it in huge temporary cribs in the heart of town. The piles of corn became their bank accounts.

Accepted on Debts.

In most places the corn was accepted on debts, hardware, groceries, gasoline and oil, telephone service, and dry goods. Frequently there was an agreement that the farmer would receive half of any price increase.

Twelve cents a bushel frequently was quoted as the price at which the corn was accepted.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Mass., July 11.—Demand continued very fair in the Boston wool market today and in some quarters was described as good. More than 125,000,000 lbs of the 1933 domestic clip are estimated to have been sold thus far to processors, giving the market a strong statistical position for this time of year.

The following quotations are on grease basis for Ohio and similar wool [rental]:

Tuesday. Year ago.

64s, 70s, 80s [fine strict comb.] ..... 31@32 14½@15½
64s, 70s, 80s [fine clothing] ..... 28@24 11 @12
58s, 60s [⅓ blood strictly clothing] ..... 29@30 14½@15½
58s, 60s [¼ blood clothing] ..... 25@26 12 @12½
56s [⅜ blood strictly combing] ..... 34@35 14 @15
56s [⅜ blood clothing] .. 28@30 12 @12½

46s [low ¼ blood clothing] ..... 29@30 12 @13
36s, 40s, 44s [common and braid] ..... 25@26 11 @12

The better class of Michigan, New York, Wisconsin, and Missouri wool, 2c to 3c less; Kentucky and similar wool, 2c to 5c higher. The above quotations, which are for Ohio and similar wools, grease basis, depend to some extent on the individual lots.

TEST NEARS FOR HUDSON BAY PORT BUILT BY CANADA

Shipping Season to Tell Churchill's Fate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 11.—Canadian government icebreakers are clearing ice from Hudson strait in preparation for an expected busy Arctic shipping season.

Churchill, on Hudson bay, the new port of call for an anticipated influx of European vessels, is getting ready for its year of big commercial testing. Last August and September the port cleared six European shiploads of wheat, but the government was experimenting and paying terminal and storage costs on the grain.

Cost $100,000,000.

With its land feeder, the Hudson Bay railway, this venture into a commercial Arctic route to Europe was carried out by successive Canadian governments at a cost of nearly $100,000,000. Political pressure from Canada's midwestern wheat fields forced the experiment. This fall will show whether Canada has made a good commercial investment or thrown scores of millions into arctic seas.

The railway and port tap Canada's prolific midwestern wheat fields and afford a grain route to Liverpool 1,000 miles shorter than the old St. Lawrence route. But it is a short shipping season, as indicated by the fact that ice only went out of Churchill two weeks ago and Hudson strait is still ice ridden.

High Insurance Rates.

The feasibility of the Hudson Bay railway, the costly port of Churchill, and the commercial navigability of Hudson strait has been a subject of controversy in Canada for years. Uncertainty as to the entire safety of the route extends to shipping insurance authorities, who, despite pleas of the Canadian government, are imposing high rates of insurance.

LARD TRADE HEAVY AT NEW HIGH PRICES

Active general buying of lard and meats, particularly the former, carried prices up to a new high level and made the close at net gains of 32½ to 35 cents on futures, and 32½ cents on cash lots, the latter $7.82½ for regular, loose up 42½ cents at $6.95, with leaf advanced 25 cents to $6.87½.
